AT THE CHURCHES

Children's Easter Service at Grace Church.

At 4:00 o'clock the Sunday School of Grace Church will have their annual Easter Church Service when the Lenten Mite Boxes are brought to the Church and presented. It is thought that the Lenten Offering of the Sunday Schools of the Episcopal Church is something peculiar to this Church. In the year 1877, a little country parish in Pennsylvania started this offering. That parish was St. John's Lower Merion, about six miles from the center of Philadelphia. This small Church of forty-one communicants, but having a Sunday School of about two hundred, saved their pennies during Lent and at Easter they present $200, the first Sunday School Lenten Offering. In the next year the Lenten offering began to spread over the Church and over $7,000, were given. Since that time it has gone into every parish of the land, into every corner of the world where the Episcopal Church is established. Last year the children of the Episcopal Church gave for their Lenten Offering $167,250.36. It is expected that the sum will reach $175,000, this year. This offering becomes more note worthy when it is considered that it is children who are doing this. Grace Church Parish expects to have present at its Altar on Easter at least $150, which will go for Missions. The public is invited to this Children's Service.

Easter Gifts for the Altar of Grace Church.

The morning service on Easter Day at Grace Church, consisting of Morning Prayer and a Choral Celebration of the Holy Eucharist, will commence at 11:00 o'clock instead of at 11:30 the usual hour. At this service right after the singing of the Nicene Creed, the Rector of the parish will bless a pair of candlesticks for the Eucharist Light and a pair of three branch candelabra for Altar Lights. These gifts are a thank-offering from a member of the parish and are made by the Gorham Company, New York. The Bishop of the Diocese has authorized the Rev. J. H. Gibboney to use the Service for the Blessing of Gift. This service dedicates gifts for the use of the Sanctuary and when those gift for the Altar are blessed a blessing is also bought for the giver as well.

Bradstreet's Review

New York 109.—Bradstreets tomorrow will say:

"Excellent early crop prospects, which buy sentiment, sharply contrast with disappointing trade disturbances, irregularity in industry and cautious buying for future account. Easter requirements have made for a turn over in wearing apparel. Hardware, implements and seeds are also active.

"While crop prospects, as well as indications of heavy planting are such as to superinduce optimism, buying continues on the basis of immediate wants. At most centers mail order housese are reported doing a thriving business.

"Reports from industrial centers present mixed aspects, resumptions in this or that place being off, the steel trade takes hope from crop prospects, but the volume of business is not up to expectations.

"For the week, Failures 269 against 218 last year; wheat exports 2,479,239 against 2,653,433; bank clearings $3,256,407,000, an increase of 5.9."

New York, April 10.—While somewhat less active, the cotton market made new high levels during the week, with May contracts selling at $6.50 a bale above low records of March 9. Owing to the unsettled weather and further reports of delayed farm work, new crop deliveries have attracted increased attention, while the more bullish view of the old crop position has been encouraged by reports of small world's mill stocks and large consumption figures, and has naturally added something to confidence of late month buyers.

Continuation of the May and July buying movement has been accompanied by all sorts of rumors. The story that prominent mill men were among the largest holders of May contracts as a source of support was credited by many, but some argued that such holdings would likely be liquidated if a price reported at which time it will be replaced by purchases in the South and this view probably increased the caution of smaller buyers in allowing the advance above 12.80 for May.

Rumors that ocean freight room has been engaged for Liverpool for 2,000 bales, for shipment to New York were colored by reports that rouble long of April there was short of May here, but were followed by other reports indicating that prominent Liverpool firms were planning to take cotton on May here, and ship it to their markets for delivery on May-June.

COUNTY FIELD MEET APRIL 17

Union, S. C., April 11.—Friday, April 17, is to be a big day in Union. The day is to be celebrated as County Field Day by the teachers and pupils of Union and Union county. A delightful program has been arranged for the day. In the morning at 10 o'clock in the high school the exercises will begin. There will be an address by Dr. H. N. Snyder, president of Wofford college. Dr. Snyder is a favorite with the Union people, and his address is sure to prove instructive and interesting.

The general business meeting of the association will be held after Dr. Snyder's lecture.

At noon there will be an informal luncheon and an hour for refreshments.

In the afternoon the hour is to be given up to athletic feats.

The feature of the athletic stunts to be pulled off will be: Hundred yard dash, half-mile run; mile run; pole vault; shot put; running broad and high jump. Prizes have been offered to individuals and to schools winning the most points. This is the first well organized movement to thoroughly promote the athletics in the schools. Prof. Rice has been pressing the matter for the last two months and is expecting a fine result.

In the evening there will be contests on essays by the high school girls only. The contest will be in essays and readings, a medal to go to the best essayist and also to the best reader.

The public is cordially invited to every feature of the day's entertainment, and those who attend will be sure to enjoy the occasion.

Baseball Promoters in Coster.

St. Louis, April 10.—President Johnson, of the American league, August Herrman, chairman of the National Baseball Commission, and an array of lawyers will coster with President Hedges, of the St. Louis Americans, here Sunday as to what action organized baseball shall take in regard to the action of Charles Earl Hamilton in jumping his contract with the St. Louis Americans to play with the Kansas City Federals.

THE RED CROSS IN WAR.

Theory That Its Ministrations Lengthens Hostilities Scouted as Sacrilege.

(From the St. Louis Post Dispatch.)

Miss Edith Durham, who had such opportunities for observation during the Balkan War as were permitted correspondents, advanced in a London lecture the curious theory that the Red Cross prolongs the horrors of war.

Her reasoning runs this way: Thousands of men who might otherwise die are preserved through the Red Cross ministrations. The recovery of thousands of sick and wounded soldiers is hastened who might otherwise be incapacitated until after the war had come to a close. These soldiers are returned to the ranks to continue fighting after the date on which the losses imposed by different conditions might force the end of the war through the exhaustion of one or both sides.

"If the Red Cross is in league with militarism, it is time indeed the alliance should be broken by the humanitarians who hitherto have been its most ardent supporters. But there is only an academic and rather fantastic view. It is akin to the cynical view that ameliorative agencies insuring a better equipment and a greater longevity in the ranks for a livelihood only prolong an agony that might sooner be ended.

"If the Red Cross example was curative, then the exchange of prisoners and small calibre bullets, mercy to non-combatants, bombardment of populous cities only after due notice, and other humane usages would be [illegible] were far from greatly shortened since the guns when noiseless, wounded, but on the field were killed, prisoners were slaughtered as fast as taken, wells were poisoned and women and children enslaved. The Red Cross helps to restrict the vogue of war by softening frightfulness of the fight that might lead to perpetual international feuds.
