TALKING TO HORRY VOTERS

Army of Ballot Hunters Were at Conway Saturday.

ITS FUNNY HOW CANDIDATES TALK.

Facility With Which They Change Their Song to Suit the Different Audiences They Address.

The State.

Conway, July 14.—This is the Independent Republic of Horry, and today we looked into the honest faces of the industrious people who make it independent. The meeting was held in a tobacco warehouse in which a big opening sale will take place in a few days. The stand which the demagogues pounded was a tobacco hogshead. It is funny how candidates do talk. At Florence they were all railroad men, at Marion all tobacconists or something of the sort. and today they vied in the attempt to flatter the yeomanry of Horry and to pin themselves to Scarborough. For he is the young orator who is running for congress, and he is idolized by these people of his county.

There were fully 1,000 people here. No drunkenness, and intelligent attention to the speakers. The speeches were cut to half the usual time. Patterson protested and threatened the people with a matinee in the evening at which he would grind out more chin music throught his nasal phongraph. But the people must have warned him not to, for he left with the rest of the party.

This is a McSweeney county, but Hoyt is strong.

The meeting today is the last until next Wednesday at Bennettsville, Senator McDermott presided.

Mr. J. P. Derham, comptroller al, was at home and welcomed the candidates for the several offices. Scarbor ough's name was cheered. Derham denied the rumor that he is opposing Scarborough. He could not be so ungrateful.

Gen. Floyd was here again, announcing the truce—armiesteice he calls it—between himself and Capt. Rouse not to attend any meetings until Spartanburg.

Col. Wharton said that they had been having a warm time in this race, but it would get hot when they get to "where the waters run." He entertained the crowd with some jokes. Commented on the poor schedules to Conway.

Barney Evans began by regretting the time limit being reduced. The arrangement of schedules to Conway is a disgrace. Conway had complained, but had gotten no relief. Put the proper men on the Railroad comission and the wrongs will be righted. W. D. Evans is riding on a passs contrary to law, and is liable to arrest and a fine of $500. W. D. had said that he was using the pass to defend his administration. Gov. McSweeney has the right to the same thing then.

Mr. T. N. Berry said that the Independent Republic is indepent because its people pay their debts and are honest. But it lost its independence three years ago when it was annexed to South Carolina and substituted dispensary for prohibition. He wants to see the independence restored.

Mr. W. D. Mayfield said that reilroad rates are such that vineyards, truck farms and tobacco factories cannot be made to pay in South Carolina. The rates should be such that the splendid woods of South Carolina forests could be converted into furniture.

Mr. Pettigrew felt like he was at home in a tobacco warehouse and speaking accross a hogshead. He wanted to shake hands with comrades of Maxcy Gregg's regiment.

W. D. Evans said that he was responsible for the nice little depot lately built here. As to his record he referred to Scarborough, Senator McDermott and Derham and to all alliancemen. The criticism of his record is like the North Carolina soldier who admitted that Virginia soldiers could beat Tarheels charging, for a Virginian had charged him 75 cents for a quart of buttermilk. He denied that he had said a word about cutting time today.

Etheredge still absent.

Col. Hoyt was applauded when he was introduced. He is a candidate on the prohibition platform From his youth up he had opposed the sale of liquor in any form. He brought a greeting from the furthest corner of the State, which had helped redeem it in 1876. (Applause.)

This was a prohibition county for many years. There are dispensaries here now. Were they put here by the will of the people? No. At Greeleyville every citizen but one had petitioned for the closing of the dispensary and the board refused to abolish it.

If after an unsatisfactory experience of eight years, after all the scandals why should it be continued. Why not go back to 1892 when the State declared for prohibition.

He is in favor of public schools. They must be fostered and improved or the county cannot prosper. He favored the establishment in each county of as many schools as will be necessary to teach all the people. No candidate for governor could feel greater sympathy for Confederate soldiers than himself, who bears on his person six wounds received in battle.

Mr. Jerry Smith said that Horry county has about $4,000 less for school funds since dispensary profits had been reduced to 10 per cent. How would Col. Hoyt rectify that?

The colonel replied by direct taxation as the public schools must be kept up by all means.

Mr. Smith then wanted to know where blind tigers get their whiskey.

The colonel replied from dispensaries. He was applauded and received flowers. The bouquet boro this message: "The ladies of Horry are for you and against the dispensary."

Walt Whitman respected the people of the Independent Republic above all others. He challenged the crowd of candidates to let liquor be a side issue and discuss education.

Whit said he didn't know whether dispensaries could furnish all the blind tigers. (Laughter.) Why in Charleston they are as numerous as grocery stores. Prohibition will make more blind tigers than are here now. He wanted to get elected so that he could hold curb on the legislature and take the $200,000 from colleges and give it to common schools. Whiskey money isn't good enough for these miserable colleges. "When you people turn me down again you turn down the best friend you have got in South Carolina," Direct taxation is the only way to restore that $200,000 dispensary fund.

Frank B. Gary said that a county which requires no more than three hours of criminal court must be a lawabiding people. In the words of Scarborough, Horry could not boast of her cotton factories, of her wealth, of her colleges, but she is proud of her manhood. (Applause.) The best method of controlling liquor is through the dispensary. Col. Hoyt says it is a failure. It is not a failure, and if its enforcement has failed put the right man in the executive office.

What did Col. Hoyt mean by saying that the friends of the dispensary had brought the State into degradation and dirt?

Col. Hoyt said that he was not referring to all the friends of the dispensary, but to the rottenness which had been exposed last winter in the Outz upheaval.

Gary said that the people could construe Col. Hoyt's words as they want, but he denied that honest friends of the law have dragged it down or degraded the State.

It has come to a pretty pass when an honest man in South Carolina shall not seek emolument and advancement on account of his name, because relatives are holding office in South Carolina.

Mr. Gary held the crowd well and was applauded.

There was considerable confusion while Mr. Patterson was speaking. He claimed relationship with these people because his Uncle Angus and his father came from Robeson county. His prohibition friend will on the 28th of August feel like the wrong fellow at the baptizing—"like a durn fool." He concluded by saying that he had a great deal more talk in his storage battery, he would be there in the afternoon and wanted to speak some more.

Gov. McSweeney was pleasantly greeted. His references to Scarborough created applause for both. He didn't believe Col. Hoyt could enforce prohibition. When he first became governor, he agreed to reduce the constabulary if he could get cities and towns to aid him in enforcing the law. He had received proper assurance and had reduced the constabulary. As to where blind tigers get their liquor, he said that it is very easy for liquor to be brought here from North Carolina. Before the law enforced, liquor was brought here and peddled on the streets. As to Charleston, whoever says that he, the governor, is coguizant of their identity, that man tells, what he knows is not so. As to the deficiency in dispensary profits it should be made up by diect appropriation.

As to cutting off heads of dispensers who do not do their duty, the on us is on the people to elect the proper representatives and senator, as the selection of the county boards is with them. He earnestly declared that he has done his duty, and is as competent as any man in the race. He was applauded.

Col. Sloan said he had spoken in many kinds of houses, but never before in a tobacco warehouse, which is a monument to the industry of Horry county. He referred his competence, intelligence and integrity to Scarborough. Derham, McDermott and Jerry Smith with whom he had served. He declared for locallr option. If a county wants prohibition, it should have it; if another county wants dispensary it should have it; if another county wants high license, it should have it. There is a bigger question than that of liquor. He wants to see more churches and more school houses. He had worked for Winthrop, Clemson, Citadel and South Carolina college, but he is more deeply interested in the common schools. He was with the men of Horry, and wept with them when the flag went down.

Col. Blease said that he had voted for the appopriation of $200,000 for the common schools. He wanted to see white children educated. White people's taxes for white children and not for "free niggers." If elected to preside over the senate and called upon to cast the deciding vote between dispensary and prohition, he would vote for dispensary. Between dispensary and high license, he would vote for the dispensary. If a town wants a dispensary, it can vote it, but no board of control could put it on them. He favored biennial session of the legislature. It would save about $40,000 annually.

Col. Jim Tillman said he had entered the race "at the request of a number of prominent men to whom the people had already given their suffrages." He had not intended to be personal to Col. Livingston, at Marion, when he said that Col. Livingston should practice what he preaches. Col. Livingston had in turn been personal. He had referred to the threat to courtmartial Jim Tillman. The speaker said that the reason of it is because he had ordered his men not to salute a negro officer, and he had been put under arrest for refusing to let "his men" accept pay from a negro paymaster. Col. Livingston had laughed at him for not going to Cuba. The courage of the Tillmans is on record. On the Palmetto ment at Columbia are the names of five Tillmans. He was applauded.

Col. Livingston said he was sorry the uppleasant incident had occurred. He dismissed it in a manly way. He had never discounted a Tillman's courage. As to where blind tigers get their supply, he said his county has neither blind tigers or dispensary. If he should ever be called upon as presiding officer of the senate to cast the deciding vote after the people of a county through its senator ask for prohibiton, he would give it to tqem. He wanted to emulate the example of Scarborough.

Jim Tillmrn wanted to ask him a question. Col. Livingston stated that there are no blind tigers in Marlibro. A dispensary constable had told him that in Marlboro at the last term of court two blind tigers plead guilty and five cases were carried over, and Col. Livingston had represented two of of them. Was that true?

Col. Livingston replied that it was.

It is easier to convict a blind tiger in Marlboro than any other law breaker and the punishment was heavier. He had represented two of them, and had advised them to plead guilty. He would always advise them to plead guilty in Marlboro. (Applause.)

Mr. Winkler referred his candidacy to those in this section with whom he had served. He said that he had heard a representative man from Marlboro say that he had seen more drunkenness in Bennettsville in one day than in Columbia the whole time of the legislature. What had Col. Livingston to say to that. He had voted for the hundred thousand dollars for common schools. He is an honest man, a sober man, and if elected he would return his commission at the end of his service without a blot.

Beautiful Women

There are few women as beautiful as they might be. Powder and paint and cosmetics don't make good looks. Beauty is simply an impossibility without health. Beautiful women are few because healthy women are few. The way to have a fair face and a well-rounded figure is to take

Consul General Ho Yow.

San Francisco, July 13—Consul General Ho Yow, representing the Imperial Government of China in this city, has sent to the Chamber of Commerce a communication expressive of his regret at the outbreaks in China, which have broken the cordial relations of the two peoples. He said the trouble was especially unfortunate, coming at this particular time when the future was big with promise for an immense business between the coast and China, and added:

"Amid the turmoil it is comforting to know thot the Imperial Government has at all times been earnest in its desire to suppress the assailants, has shown utterly no sympathy with the mobs. Its views and its purposes, and will undoubtedly, when order is again restored, punish the officials with the severity which is their due.

"The Government of China is favorable to progress and desirous of extending through the Empire the light of Western knowledge.

"That this development must go on, that neither Boxers' revolt, mob violenco, nor opposition by high or misguided officials can swerve or crush it down, is a truth recognized on an instant's reflection."

The Annexation of Cuba.

Washington, July 13—Secretary Root to-day, in discussing the coming Constitutional Convention in Cuba, expressed himself quite positively on the question of annexation.

In reply to a question he said that the subject of annexation, or any other subject for that matter, might be brought up before the convention, but that, in his opinion, Cuban annexation, if it came at all, was not imminent just now.

Said he: "My own experience in Cuba leads me to believe that the desire for independence is both strong and general among the people. I do not think they want annexation, even supposing that we want them. Under the Congressional declaration we are in honor bound to give them independence first. If subsequently they wish annexation that is a matter for them to determine. But it should be determined when they are in a position absolutely independent of us. Even then, as I have suggested, it is a case where it takes two to make a bargain."

Amos and the Robin.

On the floor of the House, at least, Amos Cummings, of New York, has proven a failure as a friend of injured birds, and all on account of irrepressible John Allen of Tupelo, Miss. Representative Lacey's bill to prevent the importation of certain of the feathered tribe was under discussion and Mr Cummings was telling how wicked the English sparrows were.

"Only the other day," he said, "I was walking through the Capitol grounds when I saw a poor little robin surrounded by sparrows that were picking it to pieces. At my approach the sparrows flew away. I picked it up and took it to my home, a short distance away. There I gave it a drink of brandy and it died a moment later. Under its wings—

"If it was the same stuff you gave me yesterday I wonder it lived a moment," broke in Private John.

Mr Cummings looked reproachfully at Mr Allen and sat down, while the House roared. What was under the robin's wing will never be known.—Cleveland Leader.
