"Sweets to the Sweet."

BY LESLIE WALTER.

Sweets to the sweet! These flowers to her breast,
Who gentlest spirit of their beauty seems;
May their mute language give her heart unrest,
May their rich perfume fill her soul with dreams
Of love, like summer's warmth and summer's heat.

Sweets to the sweet! These roses to her lips,
Pink, pure and fragrant as a life divine,
That when from sea comb sailing home my ships,
I shall be blest enough to touch with mine,
And pour my burning heart out, at her feet.

Sweets to the sweet! These violets to her eyes,
Sea-blue, and deeply bright with dews of heaven,
Never there more earthly tears shall rise,
Be it my sin, and be it unforgiven,
For which the heaviest penance shall be meet.

Sweets to the sweet! Carnations to her cheeks
Of clear white velvet with a flush of rose,
That more than words a lovely language speaks;
As to my questioning it ebbs and flows,
And I am answered by her heart's true beat.

Sweets to the sweet! This lily to her hand;
Fair, stately, calm, it stills my fevered blood,
And sways my being with a soft command,
The perfect type of perfect womanhood,
Whose gracious gift shall make my life complete.

Sweets to the sweet! This wreath about her brows,
Of orange-blossoms, fragrant prophets be,
Whose scented breath shall stir her calm repose,
With visions of the future and of me,
So shall my love be won by love's deceit!

THE CHARLESTON MARKET.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY, JUNE 6, 1867.

COTTON.—On the 31st ult., the commencement of the week, the market was advancing, prices at the close of the day being on the basis of 25½@26 cents ℔ lb for Middling Upland. On Saturday the staple became somewhat stiffer, Middling Upland selling at 26 cents ℔ lb, which rates continued until Wednesday, when quotations subsided about ½ cent ℔ lb, which placed prices as they stood on the first day of the week. Yesterday prices continued to droop under adverse news from the English market, Middling Uplands closing nominal at 25@26 cents ℔ lb. The receipts of the week have been 9 bales of Sea Island and 1742 bales of Upland Cotton, against 7 bales of Sea Island and 1520 bales Upland Cotton the week before. The following is a report of the daily transactions and prevailing prices for the week just closed:

On Friday the week opened with an improved enquiry in which the better qualities of the staple advanced a half cent ℔ lb. Sales 145 bales; Middling Upland being quoted at 25½@25c. ℔ lb.

On Saturday the advance in the English market caused an active enquiry with hardening prices. Sales 200 bales; Low Middling being quoted at 25c.; Middling at 26c., and Strict Middling at 27c. ℔ lb.

On Monday the market was steady with an active demand. Sales 398 bales; Middling Cotton being quoted at 26c. ℔ lb.

On Tuesday the demand was quite light. Sales 80 bales at unchanged prices.

On Wednesday, under a moderate inquiry, prices became easier, and generally about a half cent ℔ lb lower; sales 138 bales; Low Middling being quoted at 24½@25, and Middling at 25½@26c. ℔ lb.

Yesterday prices were easier, and in some instances decidedly lower; sales 68 bales—say 31 at 25; 21 at 25½; 7 at 26; 9 at 25½. We quote:

Low Middling	24½@	—
Middling	25@	26
Strict Middling	26½@	—

SEA ISLAND COTTON—The want of stock has prevented transactions, and the business of the week has been of too limited a character to establish prices. We therefore quote market nominal.

Manchester Market.

MANCHESTER, May 21.—This market has been quiet to-day, and destitute of anything like activity in the demand. In this respect it is much in the same position as has been observed since Friday last, but, if anything, more decidedly tame. The recent operations seem to have exhausted the demand for a time, but while buyers have thus only very limited orders to give out, producers are so well sold, even if they have not contracts on their book, as to render them decidedly less than usually sensitive to the influence of a limited inquiry. Since Friday the Liverpool cotton market has been somewhat firmer, and consequently buyers in this market have not been disposed to exceed the extent of the current requirements of the day. Such orders as they do receive, however, are pretty generally given out without hesitation as they come to hand.

Yarns are for the most part pretty steadily held, but more so as regards the known spinnings than other sorts. At the rates obtainable this day week a moderate amount of business has been done. In export descriptions India yarns have been fairly inquired for, but quotations are about ½d ℔ lb above the rates that buyers seem disposed to give. In water yarns for China and Germany the demand is much less decided than it was a week ago, but the sales that have taken place in the meantime have strengthened them materially, and they are held with much firmness. For the Levant and Mediterranean there has been little doing, but as producers are well engaged in most instances much firmness exists. For the home trade spinnings the demand has been only limited. Prices are steady, and not more than slightly in favor of buyers as regards Blackburn yarns, but yarns used for mixed goods are not so firmly held. Doubled yarns are steady with not so much doing in 60's and 80's, but 100's are still in demand at full if not rather higher quotations. Bolton yarns are very strong, but the advanced quotations of ½d to 1d ℔ lb check the operations of buyers. Low class yarns remain quiet.

The cloth market has been fully quieter than that for yarns, the advancing tendency of yesterday has been decidedly checked, and in some cases buyers can obtain rather easier terms, though as a rule there is weakness, and not much, if any, retrogression from the prices that have been actually obtained, though higher quotations may have been abandoned. As compared with the prices of this day week there has been little, if any, alteration to-day. Yards and China shirtings have been less enquired for, but have been steady. Printing cloths of the better makes have been firm, while other kinds have been rather easier. T cloths have been the turn lower, as has been the case with longcloths and domestics, but in none of these goods has the decline been of much moment.

At the close of the market the failure of Messrs. Fraser, Trenholm & Co., of Liverpool, largely engaged in the American cotton trade, and well known in connection with the Confederate cause during the late civil war, in the United States, became known, and had a depressing effect upon the market. Their failure, it was rumored, would involve the large sum of £1,000,000. The tendency of the market toward the close was rather in the direction of greater dullness, and this announcement had a further unfavorable influence.
