MILITIA MEN MET.

Ask Congress to Support the Measures Favoring the Guard.

Capt. E. C. von Tresckow, Lieut. Eben J. McLeod and Lieut. H. H. Birchmore attended the National Guard Association of the state in Columbia last Thursday as representatives of the Camden company.

The association urged that the General Assembly appropriate the sum of $25,000 to reimburse the Federal government for loss of property supplied by the government to this state.

The following officers were re-elected: Maj. Patrick J. Drew, of Barnwell, president; Maj. R. F. Watson, of Greenville, first vice president; Maj. A. H. Silcox, of Charleston, second vice president; Maj. J. Shapter Caldwell, of Columbia, secretary; Capt. A. C. Doyle, of Columbia, treasurer, and Lieut. Bartley Bull, South Carolina naval militia, recorder.

The members of the legislative committee are: Maj. R. F. Watson, Maj. J. S. Caldwell, Capt. J. Frost Walker, Jr., Lieut. Laurens T. Mills, and Lieut. George W. Beckett.

The members of the executive committee are: Maj. P. J. Drew, ex officio chairman; W. W. Moore, adjutant general; Col. E. M. Blythe, Col. H. B. Springs, Maj. A. M. Brailsford and Lieut. Bartley Bull.

Gen. Willie Jones and Col. Henry T. Thompson, of Columbia, were elected honorary members of the association.

Gen. Moore urged all of the officers of South Carolina to attend the annual meeting of the National Guard Association of the United States to be held in Asheville next summer.

The sessions which were held in city council chamber were marked by several addresses advocating improvement of the National Guard in every department. The chief address was delivered by Gov. Manning who promised his hearty support in making the guard a success.

The association adopted a resolution urging the South Carolina delegation in congress to support any measure looking to the future welfare of the National Guard.

The resolution follows:

"Whereas this association believes that the National Guard is the natural defense of the United States and that with proper federal support can readily be made a most efficient organization for the defense of this country.

"And whereas it is the sentiment of this association at its annual meeting held this 20th day of January, 1916, in the city of Columbia that the resolution adopted by the National Guard Association of the United States at their annual meeting held in the city of San Francisco, Cal., be and the same is hereby approved by this organization.

"Therefore, be it resolved, That our representatives in congress be urged to support any measure looking to the future welfare and development of the National Guard.

"Resolved, further, That we believe that if every state furnishes its proper quota of men and that the federal government appropriates adequate funds to thoroughly arm and equip, train and discipline them a force of about 500,000 efficient troops will be in the service of the United States for any emergency that may arise, and at a fraction of the cost and with greater dispatch than any other scheme of organization could possibly be undertaken and maintained.

"Resolved further, That copies of these resolutions be forwarded to the military committee of both houses of congress, to our representatives at the national capitol, to the press of the state, and also to the service journals."

WINNINGS AT BRIDGE WHIST

Woman Says Husband Won From $1,000 to $10,000 a Night.

In an affidavit accompanying her application for alimony pending a suit in the Supreme Court of New York for separation from Joseph B. Elwell it is stated by Mrs. Helen D. Elwell that her husband has had an income as high as $18,000 a year from teaching "bridge" to society people; that his royalties from his books on the game run from $5,000 to $7,000 a year and that in play he has been highly successful, [illegible] $1,000 [illegible] $10,000 a night and at one session [illegible] $30,000 in an evening. She [illegible] than [illegible].

[illegible] whist [illegible] of [illegible] fine [illegible] One [illegible] high [illegible] Elwell is not a [illegible] successful [illegible] the board. It is [illegible] same [illegible] games. The greatest analyst [illegible] chess world is [illegible] himself [illegible] that is played [illegible] years [illegible] height [illegible] Dr. Lasker, the chess champion [illegible] been beaten if [illegible] opponent [illegible] different move at critical [illegible] play. He [illegible] soft [illegible] Lasker's game [illegible] others [illegible] until they were confused [illegible] chafed under the criticism [illegible] is peace. The [illegible] world [illegible] meeting between [illegible] great [illegible] the champion [illegible] met [illegible] won so easily [illegible] Dr. Tarrasch has been heard of since [illegible].

The [illegible]test writer on [illegible] has been [illegible] poor by his losses at poker. [illegible] deviser of a system to beat faro [illegible] made a fortune [illegible] it the [illegible] known.

Many reports have been current of high stakes at bridge but this is the first confirmation that has come thru the courts. To win $30,000 in one night Mr. Elwell must have been playing in a game where the stake was $10 a point, at least, and at that he would have to run in remarkable luck or to be against poor players to score 3,000 points more than his opponents. Necessarily his partner would win $30,000 also so the night's play meant $60,000 for the two men.

That puts bridge almost on a par with faro or roulette in a gambling sense. In a play at Canfield's a little more than 13 years ago the scion of a prominent New York house lost a little more than $100,000 in one night's play against faro and roulette but the scandal that followed that event marked the beginning of the end of Canfield's career in New York.

Mrs. Elwell piques the curiosity in telling so much and yet withholding so much about bridge. If men with card sense knew the returns from clever play were so high as the affidavit indicates they might give more study to leads, to echoes, to the art of bidding and all the other fine points that make bridge so fascinating and so difficult.—Commerce and Finance.
