ISENHOWER GRANTED BAIL.

Hearing Before Associate Justice Watts in the Court House Thursday.

Applications for bail in habeas corpus proceedings were heard here Thursday afternoon before Associate Justice R. C. Watts, in the case of Ernest Isenhower, Jesse Morrison and James D. Rawls, of Fairfield county, in connection with the recent tragedy at Winnsboro court house, when Sheriff Hood and others were killed. Bail was granted in the sum of $7,500, $5,000 and $3,500, respectively. Isenhower, one of the defendants, was present at the hearing and was represented by C. L. Blease. A. L. Gaston and J. W. Hannahan represented Morrison and Rawls. Solicitor R. A. Cooper appeared for the state, representing the interests of Solicitor Henry. In addition to several affidavits presented, defendants' attorneys made brief arguments in behalf of their clients. Cooper read the proceedings of the inquest held at Winnsboro and followed this with a short argument opposing the motion for bail. A crowded court room heard the proceedings, which lasted over an hour.

As indicating the plea which the defense will set up when the case comes to trial, C. L. Blease, in his argument before Judge Watts, based the legal claim for bail on the ground that Ernest Isenhower shot at Sheriff Hood in defense of his brother, Clyde Isenhower's life. He attempted to show from the affidavits read before the presiding judge, that there were two separate and distinct crimes in the Winnsboro tragedy. The first was committed when Clyde Isenhower shot the negro in the custody of the sheriff. Responsibility for this was admitted in so far as the deceased Isenhower was concerned. Counsel argued that after the shot was fired and the negro fell dead there was no further cause for protection by the sheriff and that when Sheriff Hood fired upon the retreating figure of Clyde Isenhower, he precipitated an entirely new difficulty, that he was then the aggressor, that Clyde Isenhower must then needs protect himself from assault and that Ernest therefore had the right as his brother to shoot in his defense.

MANY LAURENS VOTERS HEARD CANDIDATES.

spoke of his struggles as a school teacher and mill worker, and later of his election as magistrate and probate judge by large majorities. He pointed out that Union had not been represented in Congress in 70 years and that she had a claim for representation now. Where other things are equal, he said, she should be given the preference. Mr. Johnson favored rural credits, government ownership of ships, federal aid for good roads, federal pensions for Confederate soldiers and other measures intended for the advancement of the people of the district.

A. H. Miller.

In keeping with his past speeches, Mr. A. H. Miller spoke but a few minutes, declaring to the farmers that the time had come when they needed a representative in congress who was a farmer himself and in sympathy with their needs. He declared the district hadn't had a representative from the farming classes in a hundred years and that the time had come for a change.

The candidates will rest for three days and during the latter part of this week will speak at three places in Greenville county.

DIED SUDDENLY IN ATLANTA.

Mr. V. L. Milam, Citizen of Clinton Thought to Have Suffered Sunstroke.

V. L. Milam, of Clinton, died at an Atlanta hospital Friday after falling unconscious on the streets a few hours before. The precise nature of the attack is uncertain, but he is understood to have suffered a sun-stroke. The body was shipped to Clinton for interment. The following account of his death appeared in The Atlanta Georgian the day following:

M. W. Milam, a merchant of Clinton, S. C., died here in the Grady Hospital at 12:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, after being picked up unconscious from sunstroke by Sergeant J. D. Howell, of the police force, at the corner of Piedmont avenue and Houston street, two hours earlier.

Milam was unable to speak after reaching the hospital, and papers found in his pockets appeared to conflict as regards his initials. A check from the Dixie Flour and Grain Company for $36.10 was payable to M. W. Milam, while a Woodmen of the World card read L. D. Milam. At any rate it appeared that the deceased was a member of the firm of M. W. Milam & Son., merchants, of Clinton.

WATTS MILLS.

Watts Mill, S. C., July 19.—The revival services came to a close Sunday night at the tent here.

Mr. Mac Lawter and Langston Graydon have returned home after a visit to Atlanta and Birmingham.

Mr. Will Minor of the U. S. N., is spending a vacation here with his sister, Mrs. Willie Jennings. After 30 days he is going to return to the battle ship, Arkansas, where he is stationed.

Mrs. Hazel Bolt of Rabun Creek section, is visiting Mrs. C. R. Roberts this week.

Bill Childress of Duncan, is visiting some of his friends at Watts Mill.

REVIVAL SERVICES.

The revival services at Watts' Mills came to a close last Sunday night. The meeting was said to have been one of the greatest revivals in the history of the Watts Mills village. The preacher, J. W. Littles, has a way of getting and holding the large crowds that flock to hear him. He seems to have evangelistic qualities very much like the noted Billy Sunday, using very plain language and denouncing sin in the severest terms. There have been one hundred and eight conversions during the two weeks' meeting here. A number have already joined the different churches.

The following is a letter from the Woodmen of the World showing their high esteem for the evangelist:

Rev. J. W. Little,
Watts Mills, S. C.

Dear Sir:—We the members of Fairview Camp No. 422 W. O. W. wishing to show our appreciation in a substantial way, of the great and noble work you have been doing in our neighborhood for the past two weeks, give to you as a free will offering $25.00.

We do not make this donation because you are a member of a secret order or because you have endorsed Fraternalism. We give because we as men composing a fraternal and brotherly organization believe that your labors have done good, are doing good, and will continue to do good. We believe that this community has been greatly benefited by your efforts and we are glad that the people of this town and community have had the opportunity of hearing the good tidings of gospel and salvation at this time. Because we believe that such efforts as have been put forth by you are worthy of the due consideration of each and every member of this or any other camp of Woodmen, we, as a fraternal band, stand ready at all times to help along any good cause for the mutual benefit of all mankind and in this spirit we give you this donation as a token of brotherly love and affection.

Fairview Camp No. 422 W. O. W.
By L. E. Bishop,
Consul Commander.

The total contribution was one hundred and thirteen dollars. Mr. Little has gone home for a few day's rest, after which he will hold meetings in Charlotte. His home is Marshville, N. C. He has done evangelistic work over eleven states.
