Good Material.

The next Legislature will be composed of many talented men, who can be depended upon to zealously guard the people's interests. Being chosen because of personal merit and without regard to factional sentiment, the newly-elected members, as well as those who were re elected, will equal in ability any of the houses of this body for years past. As usual there will be many important issues to discuss and frame into laws, and it is expected that the speedy transaction of the business of each house will be so apparent to those who are watching the proceedings that no cause will be given for unfavorable criticism of unnecessary delay as the result of too much discussion.—Hampton Guardian.

He Felt Embarassed.

When Mark Twain was first introduced to General Grant the latter shook hands in a perfunctory manner and immediately relapsed into his customary attitude of reticence. There was an awkward pause; it grew longer and longer as the humorist tried to think of something bright to say. Finally, as if in sheer desperation, Twain looked up with an assumed air of great timidity, and said: "Mr. President, I—I feel a little bit embarassed. Do you?" The President could not help smiling, and Mark took advantage of the chance the incident presented to give place to others.

Ten years later, when statesman and humorist met again, General Grant with a twinkle in his eye, said, before Twain had the chance to utter a word: "Mr. Clemens, I don't feel at all embarassed. Do you?"—October Ladies' Home Journal.

The Home Paper.

"The paper tells you when to go to church, to county court and probate court," says an eminent divine, "and when to send your children to school. It tells you who are dead, who is married, who is sick, who is born and many other things you would like to know. It calls attention to public enterprises and advocates the best of schools, of law and order in town. It records the marriage of your daughter, the death of your son and the illness of your wife, free of charge. It sets forth the advantages and attractions of your town, invites immigration, and is the first to welcome newcomers. Yet in spite of all these benefits, some people say the home paper is not half so good as the city paper, that has no interest in your business or success. The home paper, like the home church, is too often neglected by those who are benefited by it."—Ex.

Changed Their Minds.

A young couple in a Lancashire village had been courting for several years. The young man one day said to the young woman:

"Sall, I canna marry thee."

"How's that?"

"I've changed my mind," said he.

"Well, I'll tell you what we'll do," said she. "If folks know that it's thee as has given me up, I shanna be able to get another chap. So we'll have the banns published; and, when the wedding day comes, the parson will say to thee, 'Wilt thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife?' and thou say 'I will'; and when he says to me, "Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband?" I will say, 'I winna.'"

The day came, and when the minister said, "Wilt thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife?" the man answered, "I will."

The parson said to the woman, "Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband?" and she said, "I will."

"Why," said the young man, furiously, "you said you would say I winna."

"I know that," said the young woman; "but I've changed my mind since."—Ex.

Libraries for Country Towns.

A writer in the October Ladies' Home Journal shows how easy it is to establish and maintain public libraries even in the small country towns. Co-operation of effort under capable, enthusiastic direction, it is pointed out, will bring the sought-for results. The article details with exact directness the best way to proceed, even suggesting entertainments by which money can be raised for the library fund. At a small cost, the writer makes it clear that every small town can enjoy the benefits of good library.

Girls Living in Country Towns.

In the October Ladies' Home Journal Edward Bok devotes much of his editorial page to showing country girls and women the way to make their lives mean more—how they can partake more fully of the true enjoyments of life. He has perscribed a method of country living which can readily and profitably be pursued, and which will go far toward the emancipation of the country woman from much of the drudgery, and lighten the isolation of farm life.

"Just as Good as Scott's and we sell it much cheaper," is a statement sometimes made by the druggist when Scott's Emulsion is called for. This shows that the druggists themselves regard of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda as the standard, and the purchaser who desires to procure the "standard" because he knows it has been of untold benefit, should not for one instant think of taking the risk of using some untried preparation. The substitution of something said to be "just as good" for a standard preparation twenty-five years on the market, should not be permitted by the intelligent purchaser.

Be sure you get SCOTT'S Emulsion. See that the man and fish are on the wrapper. 50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

The State Executive Committee Finds the Contested Election Cases.

The three contested election cases left over from its last meeting were taken up Friday night by the State Executive Committee. The meeting was well attended by committeemen from all over the State, the following members being present at the roll call:

Abbeville, A W Jones; Aiken, W W Williams; Anderson, W A Neal, Bamberg, H H Conn; Barnwell, L G Richardson; Beaufort, S Smith; Charleston, J W Barnwell; Chester, T J Cunningham; Chesterfield, G J Redfern; Clarendon, Louis Apolt; Colleton, H W Ackerman; Darlington, A J A Perritt; Dorchester, T W Stanilland; Edgefield, L J Williams; Fairfield, W J Johnson; Florence, D H Traxler; Georgetown, M W Pyatt; Greenville, M L Donaldson; Hampton, M B McSweeney; Horry, L D Long; Kershaw, G L Winkler; Lancaster, W P Caskey; Laurens, G P Smith; Lee, R E Carnes; Marion, J D Montgomery; Marlboro, W D Evans; Newberry, Cole L Blease; Oconee, J J Keith; Orangeburg, Robert Lide; Pickens, T C Robertson; Richland, U R Brooks; Saluda, B D Chapman; Sumter, R D Lee; Williamsburg, J H Blackwell; York, D C Clark.

The three cases under consideration were the election of sheriff in Berkeley county, of Senator in Sumter and the Ellerbe-Norton contest in the sixth congressional district. The Berkeley county contest was taken up first, but Mr. Morrison, who appeared, thought he was not ready to go on with his case. Next came the Sumter county contest. This had been sent back to the county executive committee and a recount ordered. A great deal of feeling has been shown in this matter, and the Sumter people seemed to be satisfied with a recount of the votes. After considerable discussion and an array of evidence on both sides, the committee decided to settle the matter by another primary in Sumter county the second Tuesday in October.

The contest of J E Ellerbe and James Norton came up next. After a brief consideration of the matter the committee decided unanimously in favor of James Norton, he being declared the nominee of the Democratic party in the sixth congressional district.

The Berkeley county contest was found to be considerably mixed up, and the matter was disposed of by ordering another election for sheriff of Berkeley county on the second Tuesday in October.

An Old Idea.

Every day strengthens the belief of eminent physicians that impure blood is the cause of the majority of our diseases. Twenty-five years ago this theory was used as a basis for the formula of Browns' Iron Bitters. The many remarkable cures effected by this famous old household remedy are sufficient to prove that the theory is correct. Browns' Iron Bitters is sold by all dealers.
