NO CENSORSHIP OF PAPERS IN HOLLAND

Are Sold Rapidly.

The Hague, June 3.-Holland has neither law nor regulation under which the propaganda of either side in the European conflict can be forbidden circulation. In Switzerland, caught in the very center of the whirl-pool of war, it is impossible to pur-chase certain of the more violently partisan newspapers and periodicals. The comic paners of Germany and France, for example, can be bought Neither "Simonly surreptitiously. Neither "Simplicissimus" of Munich nor "Le Fire" of Paris may be displayed in snop windows or seen in cafes, and it is only by convincing a bookseller that he is to be trusted that a strang-er in Switzerland may become pos-sessed of either. Then the sales take place furtively, behind the counter, when no one is about. In Holland it is very different. The tradition of centuries is against any censorship. Immediately back of the panes of bookship windows, wires are strung from one side to the other, and on these are hung the latest and on these are hung the latest numbers of the various illustrated press of the belligerent countries, "Le Rire" and "La Vie Parisienne" nang cheek by jowl with "Simplicissimus" and the "Lustige Blaxtter." The "Illustratire Zeitung" balances "L'Illustration" and "The Graphic." Each is opened to exhibit some warlike design celebrating the heroic exploits o fthe Germans, the Franch or ploits o fthe Germans, the French or the British. "Die Woche" of Berlin the British. "Die Woche" of Berlin and 'L'e Miroir" of Paris hang to gether, the first with photographs of the German emperor or some members of the German nobility sharing the labors of the German common soldier, while the second advertises the hardships and bravery of the French "pollus," as the red-legged French soldiers are nicknamed in this war. And there are always crowds before the wnindows of the shops, impartially examining pictures from both aides of the front both aides of the front.

In addition to actual photographs of the war, there is a revival of reproductions of those paintings of Messonier and Delacroix that celebrate the martial exploits of other times. A modern conception of the same charter, by George Scott, is called "In Alsace," and hangs in almost every bookshop window of Helland. every bookshop window of Holland. It represents the symbolic figure of an It represents the symbolic figure of an Alsatian girl clasped with evident satisfaction in the arms of a French soldier, while the black and white post topped by the Imperial Eagle lies in the dust at their feet. The design seems very popular with the crowds who haunt the windows of bookshops.

Dutch cartoonists and designs.

Dutch cartoonists and designers are also much in evidence in the field of war themes. Louis Raemarkers ber of portfolios of designs in color of extraordinary strength and clever-ness, under the general front title, "The Height of Civilization," Willy "The Height of Civilization." Willy Sluyter, a Dutch painter of some renown, has also contributed to the number of cartoons on the war, while J. Gabrizlaz and Jacch Doeser have attacked the war with pen and brush, in cartoons displayed generally in the shopwindows of the Netherlands. The Dutch have also gone in for illustrated weeklies with photographs depicting war seenes. "De Prins," has existed for some years, having been modeled on the German "Die Woche;" but "Het Panorama," which more resembles the French weekly "J'ai vu. . . " is a waretime product.

Owing to the presence of so many refugee Belgians in Holland, Belgian scenes, cartoons revealing the sufferings of Belgium and post cards of the Belgian royal family find place in every shop window where such things are sold. The queen of the Belgians in her nurse's costume, playing the role of the truest queen of modern times, is a favorite study, and appeals to the Hollanders' quite as much as their own royal lady. as their own royal lady.

FORMING COCAINE HABIT

Natives Carry on Extensive Trade With Troops-Drastic Steps Taken to Stap Practice.

Panama, June 3.-Following an in-Panama, June 3.—Following an investigation ordered by Brigadier General Clarence R. Edwards, U. S. A., commanding the Panama Canal troops, many arrest have been made and a number of convictions obtained of natives of Panama for selling cocaine and other drugs to United States soldiers stationed on the canal. Several soldiers have been arrested and will be tried for using the drugs and probably will be given severe sentences for the deterrent influence such punishment may have on the many recruits that are constantly sent to the Isthmus.

The investigation was begun a short time ago when the United States troops, following riots, undertook a separate patrol of the dis-tricts of both Panama and Colon fre-quented by the soldiers when on leave from the camps on the Canal Zone. It was then learned where soldiers were obtaining cocaine and becoming addicted to its use. It is not possible to obtain drugs on the Canal Zone because of the severe penalty attached to their sale and use within United States territory.
Captain F. W. Coleman, U. S. A.

commanding the Patrol company, early in his investigation found that many of the habitues of the tender-loin district of Panama not only were addicted to the cocaine habit but also were acting as agents for several of the largest drug stores in the city in the sale of the drug. He obtained conclusive evidence showing the connection between the small peddlers and the large vendors. He ascertained also that in many instances the soldiers and others can easily obtain the drug direct from leading drug It has been learned that between 100 to 150 soldiers have already formed the habit and that its use has been growing very rapidly especially among the recruits who have recently come to the Isthmus. Most of these young soldiers are from the interior of the United States. No cases have been found among the soldiers of the 29th Infantry, which formerly was stationed near New York city and thus probably have come in contact with the results of the drug habit.

One of the distressing features, according to the military authorities, is the lack of adequate cooperation on the part of the National Police au-thorities of Panama. They seem to be willing to arrest and fine small peddlers who are mostly ne-groes, but unwilling to make an ex-ample of the druggists, all of whom are influential men in the community. Capt. Coleman obtained conclusive evidence that one of the leading druggists of Panama was making a specialty of the cocaine traffic but tring to the apathy and unwillinguists of the Panama authorities was table to obtain adequate punish-
