FAMILY WASHINGS

We are doing family washings rough dry at very reasonable prices. The clothes are washed and starched ready to iron, and the flat work is ironed ready for use.

Give us one trial at your weekly washing and you will never be content to have it done again by a "washerwoman," probably in an unsanitary place, reeking in filth and deadly germs.

Our laundry is absolutely sanitary and our methods of washing clothes are the very latest and when we wash your clothes you will see at a glance that they are clean.

Just telephone and we will send a wagon for your laundry this week and return it in three days.

LARGELY ATTENDED IN SPIKE OF RAIN

PEOPLE HEAR EVANGELIST THOUGH RAIN FELL FAST FOR AWHILE.

ON "BACKSLIDING"

This Subject Was Handled Well and Hearers Went Home With Deep Impression.

Although the weather was very unfavorable last evening, a large crowd went out to hear Rev. McLondon. His subject was on "Backsliding," and in substance the sermon was as follows:

If even I am at a loss to know what subject to settle on for my sermon, I am glad to take a good text applying to backsliders, because I know that it will appeal to the majority of my congregation. I pray a good deal, cook my sermons well on my knees and study hard to choose the message that I am to deliver. Some people look on backsliding as an insignificant thing, but the Bible tells you and I tell you that it is a serious offense against God. I regret to preach a sermon along these lines, but as long as the facts are as I have related them I can not be silent. I am not a preacher of expediency. There is not an expedient hair in my head. I am going to preach the truth as I see it in the Bible and find it in my experience.

"God speaks much of the sin of backsliding. There are several kinds of backsliders. There are those that respond to every invitation and for a time live as a Christian should, then when the revival is over, and the routine of every day life begins, they gradually slip back into their former ways. And you know it often happens that those who are the first to come out and take a vow and lead a Christian life, are the first to deny it afterwards. I often feel like calling them the ground hog Christians. When spring comes, the ground hog awakens from his winter sleep and emerges into the warm sunlight and lives an active life until the storms of winter comes again, then he crawls into his winter home of hibernation, and falls into a sleep of months. Oh it is easy to think of things divine when the revival is on. There is inspiration and enthusiasm on every side. These ground-hog people have family prayers and go to Sunday school and attend prayer meeting, but when the revival is over they crawl into their holes of hibernation and fall into a deep sleep. I have sometimes thought that it might be a God-send if the community could be swept by a cyclone after a great revival and wipe them all into glory.

"I recall the story of the Irishman who went to the priest to confess a murder. The good father confessor was shocked and he asked Pat to explain. 'Well' says Pat, 'I was in a boat with a fellow and we began to discuss religion. Wasn't long before we left the dis-off. I asked him if he did not believe in the Holy Catholic church and he said no. I took him and held him under the water for some time, then I took him out and asked him if he believed in the Holy Catholic church, and he said no. So I held him under the water again for a long time. When I lifted him out he was sputtering and blue in the face. Now does ye believe in the Holy Catholic church, and he said yes. Then, your reverence, I ducked him again, and I held him under the water for a still longer time until he was dead.'

"What in the world did you mean by that, Pat?' 'Well, father, I knew the man and wanted to make sure that he would die in the faith.

"I would rather a blood-clot would form on my brain tonight or my lungs congest or apoplexy knock me over than to be untrue to God and go back into a life of sin. Yes, it would be better to lose father and mother and wife and children and everybody and everything that is near and dear in this world than to lose Jesus Christ and backslide and go to the devil.

"Read the Pentateuch. See how many times you lose patience with those old Israelites. God was always doing something for them. He sent a deliverer to lead them out of bondage. A pillar of fire led them by night and a cloud by day. He drowned their enemies and fed them on manna. Their garments never wore out and they had God's word that they would reach the promised land, but they were never satisfied. They growled, complained, whined, criticized, knocked and said 'Moses, what is the matter with you? Weren't those graves back yonder in Egypt? Think of the good things we had down there. Melons, onions and fishes.' We old Methodists, Presbyterians and Baptists are not satisfied with what God has given us.

"Lots of people mean business when they start out, but they do not cut all the short lines. They fall to cut loose from some predominating, enslaving, blackening, stinking sin that binds and blinds and grinds and damns and it draws them back. They remind me of the boy who was asked if he had been converted. He thought the questioner had said vaccinated, and he replied that he had but it did not take. I held a meeting a few months ago in a community and it was the mildest, dearest, dried-up bone yard place I have struck in several moons. Nobody else professed it and nobody accused them of having it. After we had had a great revival the people were giving testimonials and one man stood up and said he lost out with God because he thought he could stay home on Sunday and read his Bible and Christian literature and be a Christian. Another young man stood

AGRICULTURAL AGENTS WERE HERE YESTERDAY

INSPECTION TOUR

Were Well Pleased With Agricultural Conditions Generally Over This Section.

T. O. Plunkett of Atlanta, Ga., agricultural agent of the Southern Railway, and George Reese, field agent of the railway company, spent a few hours in Anderson yesterday morning, having just completed an inspection trip over the Blue Ridge railway. They visited Walhalla, Seneca, Pendleton and Belton and finished up in Anderson yesterday.

While here they were asked as to the agricultural conditions and they replied that they were very well satisfied with conditions generally.

While here they visited the Anderson grain elevator and the Burris Milling company and expressed themselves well pleased with both.

up and said I lost out with God when I cut out my family prayers. A prominent doctor then stood up and said, I backslid when father sent me to a cord-playing, wine-guzzling, theater-attending college. I am against a lot of popular amusements popular among church members, as you people in Anderson are beginning to find out. I don't give a picayune whether you like my preaching or not. It is a question of whether you are interested in decency. You can not go wrong in life and come out right in death. Emerson said, 'What you are speaks so loudly that I can not hear what you say.'

The evangelist then closed by begging the people not to be Benedict Arnolds, Judas Iscariots and renegades and traitors to God Almighty.

Admiral Mayo Vindicated.
(News and Courier.)

When Rear Admiral Mayo, in command of an American squadron lying at Tampico, sent a demand to the Huerta commander that port that the American flag be saluted as an apology for an offence committed by soldiers of Huerta, many held that his act committed the United States government irrevocably to the drastic policy which it then proceeded to carry out against the Mexican dictator. There was, at the time and subsequently, some talk of displeasure at Washington towards Mayo. It was hinted that it was felt in administration circles that the American naval commander had gone too far, had exceeded the spirit of his instructions, and had needlessly placed the administration in an awkward predicament where it was forced to choose between active hostilities against Huerta and repudiation of Mayo's act with resultant demoralization of the navy's morale.

If there was ever any truth in these rumors—and probably they were groundless—it is clear that Mayo has been vindicated by the passage of time. He has been signally honored by being selected as the first of three vice admirals who will raise their pennants on their respective flagships following the passage of an act of congress reviving this naval grade. There were not lacking some who blamed Mayo in severe terms for what he did at Tampico. Now that the government has given evidence of its confidence in him and its appreciation of his capacity, it is worth wide recalling these strictures only in order to note how completely they have been refuted. His appointment to the grade of vice admiral should dispose once and for all of the report that, because of his act at Tampico, Mayo is looked upon by his superiors as a man whose judgment is not to be trusted.

ORGANIZE RIFLE CLUB

Efforts Made to Have One Formed at Belton.

The matter of organizing a rifle club at Belton has been taken up with Adjutant General Moore and he has sent application to the proper authorities in Washington, D. C.

It is stated that there is much enthusiasm at Belton over the project. Giving to the power of the government rifles great caution has to be used in getting a range large enough to avoid public danger.
