MAJOR And MINOR LEAGUES

A Champion at 53.

Walter J. Travis.

Walter J. Travis, aged fifty-three, showed a crowd of young golfers what he could do at his age when he won the Metropolitan championship on Long Island against a field of men of national renown in the game.

Travis right now weighs nearly 140 pounds and is about five feet eight inches in height. He wears glasses because the strain of watching golf balls during many years has slightly impaired his sight.

With a tenacity, which is, perhaps, the greatest Japanese trait, the genro pluckily held to their viewpoint just as they did before the outbreak of the war between Japan and Germany when they questioned the wisdom of sending an ultimatum and of dragging Japan into a world-wide war.

He has gone from our midst and how we miss him! He had been unwell for some months, and himself realized the end was near although friends tried to make him think otherwise.

When we come to say something in his memory, it is hard to know where to begin for his noble traits were many. He was a grand father to be loved, for he was indeed fond of his children and grandchildren. His advice to them was good and what was better far, he always set a good example.

He loved to study the Bible and talk about its precious promises. For many years he was a faithful member of New Hope Methodist church, the growth and welfare of which was always dear to his heart.

He was not afraid to die, to him it was but a passing over to be with his Saviour and his loved wife who he had missed so much. Since her death over a year ago, he had no longer seemed the same. There are not many who live together fifty years without a cross word.

We think our grandfather could well agree with Browning in his Prospect where he so beautifully expresses his sentiment about death and the meeting with his loved wife.

"For sudden the worst turns the best to the brave, The black minute's at end, And the element's rage, the fiend-voice that rave, Shall dwindle, shall blend, Shall change, shall become first a peace out of pain, Then a light, then thy breast, O thou soul of my soul! I shall clasp thee again, A-d with God be the rest!"

WHY NOT GIVE COUNTRY CHILDREN A TASTE OF CITY AIR.

In the June Woman's Home Companion Mary Heaton Vorse, writing a mystery story entitled, "The Invader," presents a country girl who makes the following comment:

"I wish they'd have city air children just like they do fresh air children. I'd love to go to the city and visit a lady, and live in a large house and have her do all the city things for me, just like Miss Winslow does every country thing for Bessie Miller."

HOW MEN ORATE IN THEIR HOMES.

In the July Woman's Home Companion Mary Heaton Vorse writes a highly interesting and amusing article entitled, "Oratory in the Home," in which she says there is many and many a woman who would love her husband if it were not for his conversation.

"A terrible blight falls over the average male in the bosom of his family. Outside, in the club, he may be a charming talker, and the orator in him who uses symbols for thought temporarily dies. But enter the home, and you find him dealing out sentences, comment, instructing, lecturing, striving to mold the joyous and new-minted individualities of his sons and daughters into heaven-knows-what forlorn and conventionalized image of what a boy and girl ought to be.

ELDER STATESMEN RULE JAPAN

Tokio, June 12.—The status of the genro or elder statesman in modern Japan has been brought into passionate discussion by the activity of the genro in the recent crisis between Japan and China.

Advocated of a more constitutional regime in Japan openly attack the genro. While admitting that their counsel may be wise they claim that their influence is a stumbling block to constitutional progress.

Opinion as to the genro is divided just as is opinion relative to the result of the crisis. The press is happy at the avoidance of war but wishes that fewer concessions had been made.

W. W. Sullivan is the son of Mr. W. W. Sullivan of this city and he has made this record in a class that has an enrollment of several hundred.
