TREMENDOUS CROWDS HEARS B. F. M'LENDON

SERMON LAST WAS ONE OF BEST YET PREACHED HERE.

OVER 3,000 ATTEND

On Sunday Night Tent Could Not Accommodate People and They Stood Outside.

A crowd of over 2,000 gathered at the tent last night to hear Rev. Baxter McLendon and for one hour and a half he held his congregation spell-bound with his mighty utterances of truth, in his own, individual way. His sermon was in substance as follows:

"You who have read the Bible, will remember that for a long time, the Amalakitites had been a source of great trouble to the children of Israel. God's patience had borne long with Israel, but with the Amalakitites his patience seemed to cease to be a virtue. And God said to his mind that these Amalakitites should be punished and He spoke through the prophet to the king that these sinners were to be punished, wiped out, root and branch. And Saul's army was to be the instrument for the elimination and extermination of these rebels. There is a limit to God's mercy. The man who goes up against God is playing a losing game. The man who makes up his mind to defy God will go on the mat and take the count. Saul marshalled his army of several hundred thousand in obedience to God's command. Again God speaks to the prophet and this time it is changed. You listen to it and you will hear the falling of tears. You seem to see a broken hearted God. Saul has turned back from following me. He has not kept my commandments.

"If God were going to write about you and me, I wonder what he would say? He did speak about this backsliding, compromising, rebellious fallen king. If God were to speak about you fellows, who kneel low and pray loud, as the front seat artists in the churches, if he could press a button and raise a curtain and show your heart as it really is, I'll tell you some of you would want stained glass windows, and curtains and heavy tapestry over that. You may deceive the pastor, you may deceive the evangelist, and the minister and evangelist may deceive you, but you can't pull the wool over God's eyes. You can fool all the people some of the time, you can fool some of the people all the time, but you cannot fool all the people all the time, and my brother you cannot deceive God for a moment. God refuses to be bribed; God's eyes cannot be closed. There is such a thing as backsliding when one but God knows. It is remarkable what people think they can do with impunity when they get away from home. They throw off restraint then, and they say I can do as I please, but while the great God is on the job.

"The evangelist told the story of an old fellow up in the mountains of North Carolina at some rotten mud and some speckled trout. And he said that some of the Anderson fellows were speckled trout at home and rotten mud away from home. (Applause.)

"He told how the poor preacher's life was shortened, and a premature grave was dug, by the hypocrisy and inconsistency of his church members. "God pity the preacher," he said, "whose flock runs after the whiskey bottle, the theatre, the card party, sooner than the prayer meeting."

In closing the evangelist went after theatres, and dancing and other forms of worldliness that prolonged cheering and applause by one among the largest congregations that ever assembled in religious meeting in the city of Anderson. He preached for over one hour and then said that his sermon was just two-thirds finished. He closed by crawling in the chair and looking on the preachers and saying that somebody in the churches of America will have to be brave enough and with a clarion blast, call a halt, and if the American churches do not call a halt, you may read, Ichabod on your door post, "thy glory is departed."

Sermon Sunday Night.
On Sunday night the evangelist preached on "The Ten Commandments," and it was one of the most straightforward attacks on sin and the breaking of the laws of God that has ever been heard in Anderson. It is estimated that 3,000 people heard this sermon. The tent will accommodate 2,200 and then seats for 300 have been placed on the outside. All of these were taken and then several hundred stood or sat down on the outside of the tent.

Only a Few Can Go.

Those who are so fortunate that expense does not have to be considered are now going to health resorts to get rid of the impurities in the system that cause rheumatism, backache, swollen, aching joints and stiff, painful muscles. If you are one of those who cannot go, yet feel that you need relief from such pain and misery, try Foley Kidney Pills. They restore the kidneys to healthful activity and make you feel well and strong. Evans Pharmacy.

AUDITING OFFICES TO BE TRANSFERRED

RAILROAD OFFICIALS IN THIS CITY WILL MOVE TO ATLANTA, GA.

COMBINES OFFICES

Change Made From An Economical Standpoint—Mr. Anderson Made Auditor.

Upon returning from Washington, D. C., yesterday morning, Mr. Bond Anderson, auditor of the Blue Ridge railway, announced that the auditing department of the Blue Ridge railway would be moved from this city to Atlanta, Ga.

Although not officially announced until yesterday, it has been known in Anderson for the past two weeks that it was very likely that this change would be made, however, it was not thought that it would go into effect by July 1. Orders have now been published for the removal, and Mr. Henry W. Miller, vice president of the Southern railway, says that the change will be made by the latter part of this month. From an economical standpoint it was thought best to have this change made and Mr. Anderson, Mr. R. Duff Murray, Mr. William Trammell and Mr. Phillip A. Wilhite, of the local department, will be removed to Atlanta.

Heretofore Mr. Bond Anderson has been known as assistant auditor but when the change is made he will be auditor, it being the intention of the company to combine the auditing departments of the Blue Ridge, the Augusta Southern, the Danville and West Georgia, Tallulah Falls, the Lawrenceville branch and the Hartwell railroads and one or two more roads, which are controlled by the Southern, into one office in Atlanta and Mr. Anderson will be placed in charge.

Mr. Anderson came to this city about ten years ago from Asheville, N. C., and he and Mrs. Anderson have made many friends here who will regret to have them move to Atlanta. Mr. and Mrs. Murray and Messrs. Wilhite and Trammell have many friends here, too, who will regret having them go away.

Superintendent John R. Anderson stated yesterday afternoon that he hated to see the change made but that it being done for the best interest of the railroad and that the concentration of forces in Atlanta could do the work for the above named railroads without so much expense. Mr. Anderson also stated that the offices in the station here now occupied by the auditing department, would be rented when they are vacated.

A HINT—Your home needs the protection of a Mutual Benefit Annual Dividend Policy

A GUIDE

The man who invests his money in life insurance, as in anything else, desires, and is entitled to, a dollar's worth of value for every dollar paid. He wants the policy best suited to his individual needs, and he wants it at the lowest cost consistent with safety. The Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company of Newark, N. J. aims to give him this.

The first and foremost consideration in life insurance is the security of the company. Security means strength and strength is measured not by the ratio of assets to liabilities, but by the character of the assets and the adequacy of the contingency reserves to protect such assets. The age and size of a company have a bearing on this question because of the experience available.

The Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company was organized in 1846. Its growth has been healthful and normal for nearly seventy years. After a thorough examination of the company's whole experience, a mortality reserve was voluntarily set aside to provide for fluctuations in mortality. Furthermore, after examining the fluctuations in the value of the company's assets, which are of the highest character, the officials voluntarily established contingency reserves on a scientific basis to cover all the known financial hazards of the business.

If the past, therefore, is any criterion for the future, the Mutual Benefit is amply secured not upon a guess system, but on a scientific mathematical basis. Its strength is not determined by the ratio of its assets to its liabilities, but by the high character of its investments and its proper surplus arrived at intelligently through scientific investigation. The strength and security of the company is demonstrable. The company's long history, extending over a period of more than three-score years, has enabled its officers to arrive at scientific conclusions based on adequate experience. Security has never been sacrificed in order to obtain speculative profit on an abnormal rate of interest. This company, by reason of its character and traditions reflected in a long history, is especially fitted to issue liberal policy contracts on the annual dividend plan providing incomes for long terms of years.

The Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, of Newark, N. J. appeals to the discriminating. Send for leaflet, "Security," which substantiates the above claims.
