LOUIS C. RICHARDSON ARRIVED FOR A VISIT

REACHED ANDERSON SUNDAY AFTERNOON AND WENT HOME

IS ENTERTAINED

Engineers Club in New York Gave Farewell Banquet—To Go on U. S. S. Oklahoma.

Lieut. Commander Louis C. Richardson, U. S. N. arrived in the city Sunday afternoon on the way to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mathias Richardson in the Lebanon section, where he will spend the month of August. Afterwards he will return to New York navy yard where he is chief engineer and head of the huge machinery division.

Although in the city for only a few minutes, Mr. Richardson was greeted by many friends and officials in the United States navy and a man that Anderson county and the state of South Carolina is proud of.
When a reporter of The Intelligencer asked Mr. Richardson how long he would be at home he stated that he would be here until the first of September, when he will return to New York and turn over his affairs to his successor, he having decided to accept the post of first lieutenant of the superdreadnought Oklahoma, now under course of construction at Camden, N. J. He stated that he would probably go to this ship on or about October 1.

Mr. Richardson stated that he had recently been invited to become a member of the staff of Henry T. Mayo, vice admiral of the Atlantic fleet, but declined. Lieut. Richardson also spoke very highly of the farewell banquet which was given him on the evening of July 25 by the New York Engineers club at which the president of the club presided.
A dispatch from New York has the following to say in regard to Lieut. Commander Richardson's departure: "His departure from the yard today was arated by his numerous friends and fellow officers as a permanent one. In recognition of his faithful services in the government's employ and for his wonderful achievements in the engineering world, he was tendered a farewell dinner in the engineers club. Among those who were present to eulogize him were engineers who ranked among the highest in their profession in the country."

"It has just leaked out that Lieut. Com. Richardson was recently invited by Vice Admiral Henry T. Mayo, commander of all of the battleships in the Atlantic fleet to join his staff for the purpose of organizing a systematic machinery standard in all of Uncle Sam's fighting ships in the Atlantic. Mr. Richardson thanked all vice admiral for his kind offer and said he preferred to take the post originally assigned to him on the Oklahoma. On this ship he will be one of the executive staff and have charge of all the machinery."

"Not only the officers in the New York navy yard are regretful over the going away of Mr. Richardson, but also the 6,000 men who were in the divisions which he controlled. While here he had been fairer to them than any preceding official. He introduced systems that curtailed the cost of building and repairing battleships and made the New York navy yard the most economically operated government yard in the country."

"In former years the men in the yard were unemployed three months out of the year. Through the efforts of Mr. Richardson and Secretary Daniels a wonderful change has been wrought. The working staff has been increased more for a thousand persons and work is being carried on night and day without any layoffs."

"Captain George E. Burg, industrial manager of the yard, said today: "In all my forty years experience in the navy I have never met a man with the organizing and co-ordinating ability which Lieut. Com. Richardson possesses."

"We regret very much that he will leave us for the Oklahoma, but are pleased that he is advancing himself. I feel that the New York yard will never again have a man of his ability to operate its machinery division."

Thomas A. Edison, a close friend to Mr. Richardson, expressed similar sentiments, as did Rear Admiral Nathaniel R. Uher, commandant of the New York navy yard.

Arthur G. Dore, magazine and newspaper writer with an expert knowledge of naval affairs, said: "The going away of Lieut. Com. Richardson will be a personal loss to me. He has been a dear friend to me. During the time he has been in the New York navy yard I have had a splendid opportunity to observe his methods and ability. The results he has accomplished speak louder than any eulogium I could make. Anderson county may well feel proud of her native son. His march in the navy has been a steady one until today he ranks among the leading naval officers in the service. I wish him continued success in his new assignment."

Among those to attend the dinner given in honor of Mr. Richardson were:

Stevenson Taylor, president of the Engineers' club; Captain George E. Bard, U. S. N., industrial manager of the Brooklyn navy yard; W. B. Hoxie, vice president of the Babcock & Wilcox company; Dr. Miller Rees Hutchinson, chief engineer of the Edison laboratories and personal representative of Thomas A. Edison; Captain C. A. Carr, U. S. N., engi-

Sage and Sulphur Darkens Gray Hair

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Color, Gloss and Thickness.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.
Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.
