GERMANY CONTROLS BIGGEST COAL FIELDS

Occupation of Belgian Fields Gives Teutons Lead Over Great Britain.

London, Aug. 3.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The situation as regards coal, which, with iron, forms one of England's chief sources of power, has suddenly taken on a sinister aspect, as England begins to realize that the dominance in this basic element which creates the sea power of British naval and merchant ships and moves the vast industries of Lancashire, Yorkshire and the country at large, has passed by the fortunes of war from the Anglo-French allies and rests today under Austro-German control.

This is one of the facts, not openly revealed, which has altered to the surface during the recent strike in the Welsh coal fields. While continuance of the strike itself has been averted, yet the menace of the coal situation in its broader aspects has been made apparent for the first time. This situation, broadly stated, stands this way:

Before the war, the Anglo-French allies dominated the coal resources and power of Europe, while the Austro-German allies controlled the German, Austrian and Hungarian fields aggregating an output of 217 million tons, or about 35 per cent of Europe's coal product.

Today, however, the German occupation of Belgium has given them the great Belgian coal fields of Hainaut, Antwerp and Liege—fourth largest in Europe—their advance in Flanders has given them the rich coal fields of the Pas de Calais district, and, as Mr. Lloyd George states, "The French coal fields are now held by the enemy," while the Austro-German sweep in Russian Poland has developed the chief coal fields of Russia, located in Poland, those of the Caucasus being minor in comparison.

This change in the control of the coal fields, since the war began, has exactly reversed the position of the two parties to the conflict, so that the former Anglo-French dominance of 65 per cent against Austro-German 35 per cent of coal resources, is changed to an Austro-German dominance of 65 per cent against an Anglo-French control of 35 per cent—a complete change about in the control of this elemental agency of power.

An indicating how this change has come about, the following shows the normal output of each side before the war:

United Kingdom—236 million tons.
France—55 million tons.
Belgium—33 million tons.
Russian Poland—15 million tons.
Total—388 million tons.
Germany—175 million tons.
Austria—36 million tons.
Hungary—6 million tons.
Total—217 million tons.

Compared with this condition of the coal fields before the war, the following shows the coal condition since German's inroads on the coal fields of Belgium, Flanders and Poland:

United Kingdom total—236 million tons.
Germany—175 million tons.
Austria—36 million tons.
Hungary—6 million tons.
France—35 million tons.
Belgium—32 million tons.
Poland—15 million tons.
Austro-German control—289 million tons.

That is, the Austro-German coal resources in the fields dominated by them is now about three to two of the Anglo-French resources, which are restricted principally to the United Kingdom. This was so apparent that Mr. Lloyd George warned the Welsh miners he France was now looking to England for her coal, and five French transports were waiting at Cardiff to take on coal for France when the strike was settled.

In view of the importance of coal in supplying the Allied fleets with their motive power—a power quite as essential to the ships as their shooting gear—a parliamentary commission has recently made a thorough inquiry into conditions in the British coal fields. This has brought out some interesting facts, showing how the British output has been depleted by the war. The report states that out of 999,000 coal miners at work before the war, 18,000 have answered the call to enlist, or over 18 per cent of the coal miners. In the trenches or at the Dardanelles. For example, in the one country of Wales, Glamorgan, the heart of the coal industry, there are upwards of 30,000 miners enlisted, or over 39 per cent of the mining force. The enlistments, too, are the pick of the miners, between the ages of 19 and 38. Since the Parliamentary commission made their inquiry, the number of miner enlistments has risen to 250,000.

Singularly, refugees Belgian miners have filled all the ranks in Wales. But this has been far from sufficient, and the output of the Welsh mines has fallen off 35 million tons since the war began. This has led to proposals to stop enlistments from coal miners; to permit woman labor in some of the lighter surface operations; and to temporarily take off the restrictions on boy labor under 14 years. But while the Parliamentary committee suggests these remedies, it does not recommend them. Its chief recommendation is to stop "absenteeism"—a practice of the miners of taking a week or more off at Easter time, August bank holiday, and other holiday seasons. But this would have to be voluntary with the miners. And if it brought the British output up to normal again, the Allies would still remain at this in practically the same source of coal power remaining to the Entente Allies. There are, of course, distant coal resources of the Allies, in India, from the sound of cannon, and with no other inspiration save the thought of their afflicted land, there to exchange ideas and to determine the fate of the country—from such action would undoubtedly result the strong and unyielding agreement requisite to the creation of a provisional government, which should adopt the first steps necessary to the constitutional reconstruction of the country—and to issue, first and most essential of them all, an immediate call to general elections.

An adequate place within the Mexican frontiers, which for the purpose might be neutralized, should serve as a seat of conference; and in order to bring about a conference of this nature the undersigned, or any of them, will willingly upon invitation, act as intermediaries to arrange a time, place and other details of such conference, if this action can in any way aid the Mexican people.

The undersigned expect a reply to this communication with a reasonable time; and consider that such time would be ten days after this communication is delivered, subject to prerogation for cause."

Recipes for Various Dainties

Written for The Intelligencer by Miss J. C. Garlington, in Charge of Tomato and Canning Club Work in Anderson County.

Pickled Or Corned Beef.
 100 lbs. beef.
 4 qts. salt.
 4 oz. salt petre.
 4 lbs of brown sugar.
 Mix well, cut up beef and rub each piece with salt and put in barrel, over this put what is left of sugar, salt and salt petre. After six or seven days pour off liquor and boil keeping it skimmed while boiling. Cool, and put back over beef, keeping vessel well covered and beef under liquor. Sometime more liquor has to be made after boiling.

Peach Butter.
 Select nice ripe peaches. Peel and cover with water and cook until thoroughly done. Mash them, and to every pound add three fourths of a pound of sugar, cool slowly until it is thick. Add spices if desired.

Spiced Tomatoes.
 To each pound of sliced ripe tomatoes allow 1-2 teaspoonful of the each of cinnamon, cloves, and allspice, and 1-4 teaspoonful of salt, 1-2 pound of sugar, and one scant half pound of vinegar. Slammer until thick and place in jars.

Pear Pickle.
 Peel and cut in halves nice pears. To every seven pounds of fruit add three pounds of sugar, one pint of strong vinegar, and spices to taste, cook slowly until the fruit can be pierced with a straw. Take out fruit and cook syrup until thick. Seal while hot.

Grape Juice.
 Wash ripe perfect grapes and cover with water. Heat grapes until they burst. Put into bag to drip, but do not squeeze. Strain again. Sweeten to taste, heat again, and just as it begins to boil bottle and seal.

To Save Fresh Tomatoes.
 Place in stone jar nice firm tomatoes, with stem 1-2 in. long. Make a brine of one cup of salt to a gallon of water. Pour over enough to cover tomatoes. Tie up jar, these will keep a year.

Chowder.
 3 qts. boiling water.
 One pint minced onions.
 One quart potatoes cut in dice.
 3 teaspoonful salt.
 1-2 teaspoonful pepper.
 3 tablespoonful butter.
 1 tablespoonful fine herbs.
 Cook onions and butter together for one-half hour, slowly that the onions will not brown. At the end of this time, add boiling water, potatoes, salt and pepper and cook one hour longer. Then add the fine herbs and bottle.
