ROOSEVELT CONDEMNNS DIPLOMATIC COURSE OF ADMINISTRATION

a mind that dwells only in the realm of shadow and of shame.

"The government has not paid a dollar for this camp. Inasmuch as we as a nation have done nothing whatever for national defense during the past thirteen months, the time when during all our history it was most necessary to prepare for self-defense, it is well that private individuals should have tried, however insufficiently, to provide some kind of substitute for proper governmental action. The army officers and enlisted men have put all good Americans under a fresh debt by what they have done in connection with this camp, and we owe much to the private citizens who have advanced the money without which the camp could not have been held. But you men have had to buy your own uniforms; you have had to spend money in fifty different ways; in other words you have had to pay for the privilege of learning how to serve your country.

"This means that for every one man like yourselves who can afford to come here there are a hundred equally good American citizens, equally patriotic, who would like to come and are unable to. It is undemocratic that the young farmer, that the young hired man on a farm, that the hardworking clerk or mechanic or day-laborer, all of whom wish to serve their country as much as you do and are as much entitled to the benefit of this camp as you are, should be unable to attend such a camp. They cannot attend unless the nation does as Switzerland has done and gives the opportunity for every generous and right-thinking American to learn by say six months actual service in one year or two years how to do his duty to the country if the need arises—and the Americans who are not right-thinking should be made to serve anyhow, for a democracy has full right to the service of its citizens.

"Camps like this are schools of civic virtue, as well as of military efficiency. They should be universal and obligatory for all our young men. Every man worth his salt will wish to come to them. As for the professional pacifists and the politicians and college assistants who organize peace-at-any-price societies, and the mere money-getters and mere money-spenders, they should be made to understand that they have got to render whatever service the country demands. They must be made to submit to training in doing their duty. Then if, in the event of war, they prove unfit to fight, at any rate they can be made to dig trenches and likehen sinks or do whatever else a debauch of indulgence in professional pacifists has left them fit to do.

"Camps like this are the best possible antidotes to hyphenated Americanism. The events of the past year have shown us that in any crisis the hyphenated American is an active force against America, an active force for wrongdoing. The effort to hoist two flags on the same flagpole always means that one flag is hoisted underneath; and the hyphenated American invariably hoists the flag of the United States underneath. We must all be Americans and nothing else.

"There exists no finer body of American citizens in this country than those citizens of German birth or descent who are in good faith Americans and nothing else. . . . The professional German-American has shown himself, within the last twelve months to be an enemy to this country as well as to humanity. The recent exposures of the way in which these German-Americans have worked together with the emissaries of the German government—often by direct corruption—against the integrity of American institutions and against American doing its international duty, should arouse scornful indignation in every American worth calling such. The leaders among the professional German-Americans have preached and practiced what comes perilously near to treason against the United States.

"Under the Hague convention it was our bounden duty to take whatever action was necessary to prevent and, if not to prevent, then to undo the hideous wrong that was done to Belgium. We have shirked this duty. We have shown a spirit to abject, that Germany has deemed it safe to kill our women and children on the high seas. As for the export of munitions of war, it would be a base abandonment of morality to refuse to make these shipments. Such a refusal is proposed only to favor the nation that sank the Lusitania and the Arabic and committed the crime against Belgium, the greatest international crime committed since the close of the Napoleonic contests a century ago. It is not a lofty thing, on the contrary it is an evil thing to practice a timid and selfish neutrality between right and wrong. It is wrong for an individual. It is still more wrong for a nation. But it is worse in the name of neutrality, to favor the nation that has done evil. . . . Exactly the same morality should obtain internationally that obtains nationally. It is right for a private firm to furnish arms to the policeman who puts down the thug, the burglar, the white-slaver and the black-bandit. It is wrong to furnish the black-bandit, the burglar and the white-slaver with weapons to be used against the policeman. The analogy holds true in international life. Germany has herself been the greatest manufacturer of munitions of war to be supplied to belligerents. . . . Let us furnish munitions to the men who, showing courage we have not shown, wish to rescue Belgium from subjection and spoliation and degradation. And let us encourage munition makers so that we may be able to hold our own when the hour of peril comes to us in our turn, as assuredly it will come if we show ourselves too 'neutral' to speak

RESOLUTIONS WERE ADOPTED AT REUNION

John Eskew Was Missed at Annual Reunion of Orr's Regiment at Westminster.

Whereas, since our last reunion the following members have crossed over the river and are resting under the shade of the trees with those who have gone on before and are waiting and watching for us:

- Regimental Officer Major Leonard Rogers.
- Company A.—J. H. Philpot.
- Company B.—C. W. Spears.
- Company C.—Frank Holden, J. B. Loggens, W. H. McGill.
- Company D.—George D. Barr, John Eskew.
- Company E.—J. M. Hunnicutt, E. J. Hunnicutt, James T. Poole.
- Company F.—W. H. Doyle, D. S. Hull, T. R. Norris.
- Company K.—A. N. Cullen, George Harper.
- Honorary Members—J. Belton Watson.

And among them one, Major Leonard Rogers, the last Field Officer of the Regiment. He was a gallant soldier and faithful officer. And our beloved president of this association John Eskew, of Company D., of "Bumble Bee" song fame and in our loss of him this association loses one of its best members. He was a life of our reunions. He was a gallant soldier, faithful to duty and a Christian gentleman.

Therefore, be it resolved:
1st. That in the death of these comrades we realize that we have lost a number of our best members and our community our best citizens, but we realize our loss is their eternal gain.
2d. That a page in our minute book be dedicated to their memory.

HOKE SMITH SEES LITTLE DIFFERENCE

Atlanta, Aug. 25.—In a statement sent by United States Senator Hoke Smith to Atlanta today on the cotton situation, he declares that cotton growers should not be frightened into sacrificing their cotton by the announcement that Great Britain has deared cotton contraband.

Senator Smith points out that ever since the first of March Great Britain has stopped cotton from going to the neutral ports of Northern Europe, thereby cutting off American cotton from the markets of Germany and Austria and that making it contraband now only prevents it from going into countries from which as a matter of fact Great Britain had already excluded it.

"The action of Great Britain since the first of March," says Senator Smith, "has been shown to be illegal and, in the language of the letter of the state department, a violation of the sovereign rights of this country."

"To now place cotton on the contraband list repudiates the action of Great Britain when that government protested against Russia's making cotton contraband during the Japanese war and violates the agreement made by Great Britain in the conference at London on February 26, 1909, when cotton was placed upon a free list.

"With reference to this free list, the representatives of Great Britain who were members of that conference reported to the British government, as follows: 'We have secured the adoption of a free list which will place it beyond the power of belligerents in future to treat as contraband the raw materials of some of the most important of our national industries. . . . And we trust that the free list now constituted will afford a welcome guarantee of security to other branches of British commerce.'

"The first item on this free list was raw cotton. 'If the adoption of the free list placed it beyond the power of belligerents to treat cotton as contraband when Great Britain objected, it equally prevented Great Britain from treating it as contraband when other parties to that agreement objected. 'Great Britain can no more legally keep raw cotton from going into Germany and Austria through the neutral ports of Northern Europe by declaring it contraband than by blocking those neutral ports. To stop it in either way is illogical.

"Great Britain could notify our government of a purpose to rob all vessels found upon the ocean of cotton belonging to citizens of the United States. 'This would not,' however, make the robbery legal."

The Sullivan Reunion. . . . The annual Sullivan family reunion was held in the park at Williamston and was attended by about 300 members of this prominent family. In the morning those attending gathered in the pavilion where speeches were heard and in the afternoon the affair was like a regular picnic.

ONE MORE DAY ADDED TO BIG CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

WANT MORE TIME

In Which Exhibits May Be Made at Meeting to Be Held in Pendleton.

Col. J. C. Stribling of Pendleton was a visitor in Anderson yesterday and stated that farmers in various sections had demanded that the centennial celebration be held for three days, instead of two as first planned, in order to give time for exhibitions of live stock and field crops. Accordingly the society has decided to have the opening on Tuesday, October 12, instead of Wednesday and the celebration will continue through the following two days.

Mr. Clarence Poe, editor of the Progressive Farmer of Raleigh, N. C., has been secured to give an address on the opening day and other speakers will be announced later. For the price of $1 the one will receive in addition to one year's membership to the Farmers' Society a beautiful centennial souvenir, to be composed of views of the society hall, Clemson College buildings, historic buildings of the community and cuts of progressive farmers. A history of the society will also be included. A committee consisting of J. H. Oulla, S. Rittenberg and W. H. Mills have the matter of getting up the souvenir in charge and it will be printed at the Oulla printery in this city.

Quit Meat If Your Kidneys Act Badly

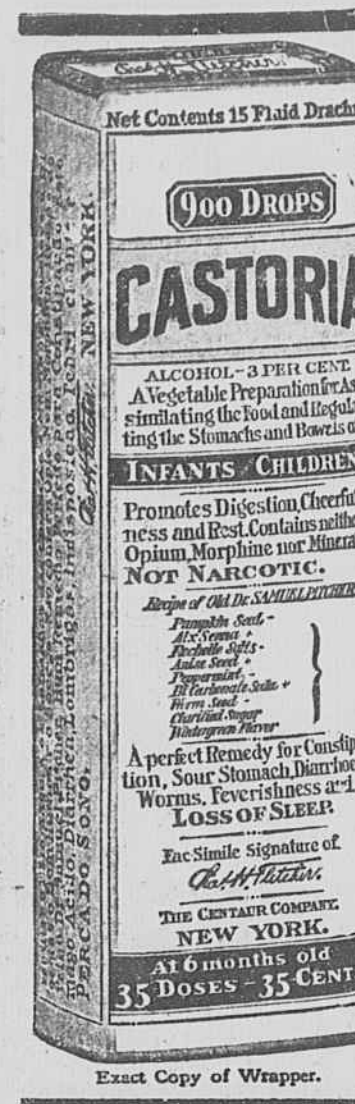

Take Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

Galvanized Metal Roofing and Siding Material

Modern progress demands more and better buildings. As good timber becomes more scarce and masonry more expensive, naturally the investigative mind is looking for a better and more economical building material that not only will give the maximum of protection at a minimum cost, but will also carry with it those additional features desired in such buildings, but lacking in so many of the materials being used at the present time. This has led to the introduction of Metal Roofing and Siding Materials as high grade building products worthy of the most favorable consideration.

CORRUGATED SHEETS are the strongest and most used of all forms of Sheet Metal Roofing or Siding.

Sheathing is not essential; Corrugated Sheets are easily and rapidly applied.

Three V-Crimp Roofing Sheets are very much superior to the V-Crimped Roofing generally sold. It is very much stronger and much less liable to leak.

HEAVY WEIGHT SHEETS—This is an important feature and a decided advantage to every user of roofings. Many unscrupulous manufacturers have put on the market products very much lighter than standard weights. The results have been unsatisfactory service, and criticisms of Metal Roofings and Sidings.

In the purchase of this material QUALITY IS OUR CHIEF AIM.
