

It Was a Small Notice

Hidden Away In The Intelligencer But It Was Read By Many People

Yesterday Mr. Babb of the well known jewelry firm of Marchbanks & Babb said to an Intelligencer man: "Well, I have certainly had it demonstrated to me that the people of Anderson and vicinity read The Intelligencer."

This is just one instance where it came to our attention that a merchant was convinced beyond the ordinary that this paper was being read closely.

We yet have some space that has not been contracted for that we will be glad to sell any good merchant who needs more trade.

"CHEMICAL EDISON" THE NEED

Doctor Norton Arrives to Aid Dyestuff Trade and Hopes to Find One. (From New York Sun.) Dr. Thomas H. Norton agent of the department of commerce, arrived in this city yesterday to begin his work of accelerating the development of the country's dyestuffs industry.

Doctor Norton was enthusiastic over the prospect that he sees before this country if it goes quickly and earnestly to work to produce the chemicals it needs from its abundant sources of supply.

Doctor Norton and his assistants took possession of a room yesterday in the Custom House which they will use as a headquarters while visiting leading chemical and dye producing houses in New York and near by.

"We are taking up every phase of the chemical industry," he said, "especially as it is affected by the lack of supplies from the other side of the ocean. We are anxious to see how we can utilize the coal industry, in which we are now wasting products worth $100,000,000.

"Germany utilizes every ounce of coal by-products, but only 16 per cent of our coke furnaces are equipped for reclaiming coal tar products. Only a few are actually recovering benzol, naphthalene and carbolic acid, which are the bases of most of the coal tar products.

"The potash problem is large. We import annually from Germany $15,000,000 worth of potash, while off the coast there are supplies of kelp which are believed to have a value of $150,000,000, now going to waste.

"Photographic chemicals are vanishing. Every photographer in the country is facing the problem of getting a developer, but all the necessary chemicals are in this country, in the form of coal tar products, and most of them can be obtained from naphthalene, which is not used in explosives.

"We don't want to get caught in such a plight again, and the department of commerce wants to stimulate American development so we can supply our own demands and then branch out into the world's trade in chemicals.

"It can be done, I know. Look at Switzerland, for an example. There is not a pound of coal in Switzerland, and yet in proportion to her population she makes more dyestuffs than Germany. She has no tariff either, while we are under a tariff of 30 per cent. Switzerland accomplished this by buying the intermediate coal tar products from Germany, and then bringing them to their required state of chemical development."

Doctor Norton said that steps should be taken by congress to protect the infant industry from the competition that will inevitably follow peace. He said that if great stocks of dyestuffs are dropped on the American market by Germany there should be a way to punish manufacturers who conspire to injure American competitive trade.

Dr. Maurice J. Langdon, a graduate of the University of Munich, and who was formerly an assistant to one of the leading dyestuff authorities of Germany is here to help Doctor Norton. He was asked about the report from Philadelphia that speculators had cornered the dyestuff market.

"It is true that a number of men who know nothing of dyestuffs have gone into the market because of the scarcity of these products," he said, "but it can hardly be said that a corner exists. I know of a number of men both in New York and Philadelphia who have bought dyestuffs to get the top price, but the Philadelphia men who talk about a corner are exaggerating. Most of the lots held are small."

WILL CONNECT TRUNK LINES IN FEW MONTHS

PROMISE MADE ABOUT ONE YEAR AGO WILL BE REALIZED

BIG ADVANTAGE

Since Power Can Then Be Shifted First One Way Then Other As Necessity May Arise.

Mr. W. S. Lee stated last night that while the officials of the Piedmont & Northern and of the Southern Power company were in this section they were looking over their property with the view of connecting the trunk power lines of the last named company and that this work would in all likelihood be started in the near future.

As it is now the company has power lines capable of 100,000 voltage from Tallulah Falls to Greenville, connecting with the main lines. This supply line passes through Seneca, Easley and Westminster. The company also has another line coming through Union to Greenwood and it is their purpose to connect the line from the last named point to the one at Tallulah Falls to Greenville at Easley or one of the other two named points. This will give the company a complete circuit, the advantage being in having this tie power can be switched from first one way to the other. It will be recalled that something over one year ago, officials of the company stated that the above connections would be made and that "Anderson would be placed on the map." When these connections are made it will be the culmination of this promise.
