I left Anderson this morning travel-ing west about 25 to 20 miles. I saw no cotton headed towards Anderson. In fact, all the cotton I saw was going in the opposite direction I have not been able to get the Lavonia and Hartwell markets today Westminster is paying 11 1-4 cents today.

Don't you think that the papers in Anderson county, which claim to be such great friends of the farmer, should print daily the market from all over this country, so the farmers can be well posted and can determine for themselves whether to sell cotton in Anderson or elsewhere? As it is the farmer drives his cotton on the square without knowin what the mar-ket is in Abbeville, Greenwood, Seneca. Westminster, Lavonia and Hart-well.

The best plan to sell cotton is to run it through the warchouse, or at least that has been the plan I have adopted for several years, and find it very satisfactory.

Very truly yours, J. J. Fretwell. September 23, 1915.

Mr. Fretweil's question relative to the cotton market quotations from seven years old. Forty nine had other towns of this state and Georgia minds of moral children of seven to being printed in the daily newspapers of the county is a legitimate one and merits a respectful answer.
