"Father of Cities."

(Philadelphia Public Ledger.) Bushire, the Persian seaport, which has been occupied by British troops, rejoices in the proud title of "Father of Cities" for that is the translation the modern Persians give to the Arabic "Abshar." It is the principal port of the Sassanid empire and was the headquarters of the comic opera Persian for the Shah's navy, the lone gulfport Persepolis, made in Germany some 50 years ago, had been when the war started, at anchor off Bushire, a showy derelict for upward of 20 years, while the command-in-chief, a German officer, reposed in Shiraz.

Bushire, however, has had its day of real naval glory, when the famous Nadir Shah made it the base for the navy he aspired to create, and some 25 years after his death at fleet of 32 vessels rode the waves off Bushire. This fleet was used in some effect against the Turks, the solve naval exploit in Persian annals. Once before in 1856-57, Bushire was in the hands of the British for a few months.

Glass of Salts if Your Kidneys Hurt

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

PHILADELPHIA IS BUSY

Only the Textile Workers Are Not Enjoying Full Time. (Philadelphia Dispatch.) The wave of prosperity which leaders in business and finance have predicted will sweep across the country appears to have struck Philadelphia already.

Full working time, besides much over-time in many industries is being enjoyed in this city by the 900 carpenters, 3,000 house painters, 900 sheet metal workers, 4,200 bricklayers, stone masons and marble workers, 600 steamfitters, 800 plumbers, 350 granite cutters, 300 soft store cutters, 1,100 boiler makers, 600 cement finishers, 1,000 electrical workers, 250 holting engineers, 500 wood, wire and metal lathers, 200 tile layers, 600 roofers and 700 upholsters.

The 400 Philadelphia insulators and asbestos workers are all employed, with a 25 per cent addition of workers imported from other cities. The 600 riggers and machinery movers here are all employed on full time and over-time. The 10,000 Philadelphia machinists are not only working full time but in many instances over-time and in some instances double time, with an addition of 10 per cent of workers imported from other cities.

Prosperity has been particularly handicapped by the war in its effect on the 100,000 Philadelphia textile workers. But despite the lack of dyes and chemicals imported from Germany even textile trades are feeling the pressure of prosperity.

Laws Against Kissing.

(London Tit Bits.) On July 16, 1913, an act was passed forbidding kissing, swing to the pestilence raging over England and France. That is the only enactment passed against kissing in England, but in several countries there are stringent regulations against kissing in public. The Bavarian State Railway forbid kissing on their railway system and the New York Central Railway company now builds in connection with every new station a "kissing gallery" or elevated platform where passengers are requested to take leave of their friends and kiss to the limit of their emotion. One of the French railway companies two years ago promulgated a by-law by which kissing was added to the list of things banned, but the physicians of Milwaukee about the same time went a step further and prepared a bill for the absolute suppression of kissing on the ground of the practice being a menace to health.

Got Him at Last.

Old Eben was walking along the street one morning, and one of his arms was in a sling. Mrs. Horton, who had often employed the old fellow for odd jobs, happened to meet him and asked: "Why, Eben have you met with an accident?" "Yes, ma'am," replied Eben, "I did, I see done up now fo' sho'. You see dis arm in a sling, don't you?" "Yes, Eben," said the woman, sympathetically. "What has happened?" "Well, ma'am," the old colored man answered, "I'll be 71 years old nex' harvest. I done see lots of trouble in my day, ma'am, but by the grace of God I miss de Kukulux, an' I miss de whitecaps, ma'am, an' I miss the vigilance committee, an' de regulators, an' now, ma'am, here in my old age de waxinators kitched me." —New York Times.

Not His Money's Worth.

When the ball players are down South in the spring the old boys do not take any chances with their pitching arms, letting the youngsters prove their energies instead. One day at Little Rock, where the Detroit team was playing an exhibition, old Red Donahue, who in his day was the sharpest-tongued man in baseball, was tossing over and letting the Little Rock batters hit at will, to the great delight of the spectators. "Oh, fud, you're easy, easy, easy," shrieked one very wild fan who was getting on Red's nerves. "I'm not half as easy as you are," retorted Red. "You paid 50 cents to see me do it." —American Boy.

The "Bulgar" and the Cop. There was a noise somewhere in the direction of the first floor and mother arose upon her elbow and looked at the clock, says The Washington Star. She saw it was 2 o'clock a. m., and noises downstairs at that hour meant but one thing.

"Daughter," she called softly. "I hear a burglar downstairs." Daughter immediately found herself wide awake and standing upright by her bedside.

"Hear it," said mother. There was a peculiar creaking and groaning. The two women tiptoed to an open window, and on looking outside they saw a man lying in their hammock. The creaking and groaning was the noise of the hammock as it swung to and fro lightly.

No, there were no male protectors in the house at the time and mother and daughter were left to become their own board of strategy. Mother thereupon decided to tiptoe downstairs and telephone the police.

"No, no," pleaded daughter clinging to the other woman; "the telephone is right by the window of the dining room and the burglar will see you and shoot you. Please don't go."

"Well," replied mother, "I will lean out this window waiting for a policeman to go by and will call him and then when I get tired you lean out."

So mother proceeded to wrap herself in a window-leaving robes, and leaned. She had not been leaning there very long when a fine specimen of a policeman came trudging around the corner of the house.

"Hey, there!" called mother. "You're just the man I want to see." The policeman was polite and attentive and mother continued: "A man is asleep in our hammock and has been there for a long time."

Whereupon the guardian of the peace yawned and replied: "Don't worry, ma'am; that was me."

Refused Privilege of Debate.

(Wall Street Journal.) In these days when all persons feel themselves free to debate all questions at all times and places a bit of old history from The Journal of Education shows that this was not always so. The educational magazine says that in 1827 an incident was made to the school board of Lancaster, O., for the use of the sign of house for a debate on the question, "Are Railroads Practical or Not?" The board refused to consent to the opening of the school house for a debate on such a foolish proposition and made its answer a formal part of its proceedings, a part of which reads: "You are welcome to use the school house to debate all proper questions in, but such things as railroads and telegraphs are impossibilities and rank infidelities. There is nothing in the world of God about them. If God had designed that His intelligent creatures should travel of the frightful speed of 15 miles an hour by steam, He would clearly have foretold it through His Holy Prophets. It is a device of Satan to lead immortal souls down to hell."

Pretty Big Force.

"Have you much of a police force in the village?" asked the city man in the country. "We certainly have," replied the native; "he weighs 210 pounds." —Kansas City Journal.

DAVIDSON PLAYS TIGERS SATURDAY

Game Will Mark Formal Opening and Dedication of New Riggs Athletic Field.

Clemson College, Sept. 28.—Saturday will be a great day at Clemson from an athletic standpoint. The Clemson Tigers will meet the Tarheels from Davidson in a fierce contest on the new athletic field, which will be formally dedicated on that day, and christened Eggers field. Great preparations are under way looking to make the day one long to be remembered. Yells will reverberate and songs will resound, and there will be much doing that will interest and amuse besides the regular program. Notice has gone out to all the old stars and fans, and many have signified their intention of being on hand.

The game will be fiercely contested, Davidson and Clemson tied last year in a 0-0 contest. That the tie will be broken this year each team is confident, and the Tigers are hoping for the long end of the score. Davidson held the powerful teams of Lee tenth one of the powerful teams of last season to a meagre score last Saturday, which fact indicates that Davidson is stronger than last year. Coaches Williams and Carson are driving their men at a lively clip this week in order that they may have a well rounded bunch for the fray. The game with Furman in which the Tigers piled up a score of 99 points—the second highest of the season—served as a fine practice. Several week places were found that will at once be strengthened. The coaches had a fine opportunity of trying out all of the candidates, and the lineup Saturday will likely carry some surprises.

PHILADELPHIA CINCERS NATIONAL LEAGUE PENNANT

Boston, Sept. 29.—Philadelphia won the National pennant today by defeating the Braves 5 to 0. Alexander, the Philadelphia pitcher, held Boston to one hit. Philadelphia now can lose every game and keep the lead. Manager Corrigan, of the Boston Americans, watched the game.

BOSTON BRAVES WILL TRAIN AT MIAMI FOR FIVE YEARS

Boston, Sept. 29.—The Braves will train in Miami, Florida, for the next five years, their president has announced. He said he signed a contract with the chamber of commerce there providing the field and a seating capacity of four thousand.

TO OBSERVE FEBRUARY 22.

Belgium Likely to Adopt Our Holiday to Show Gratitude.

(New York Times.) If Belgium is ever freed of the invader and once more takes her place among the free nations of the world there is every reason to believe that February 22, the birthday of Washington, will be made a national holiday in King Albert's country. By honoring Washington, the Belgians think they can show their appreciation of what the United States has done for the relief of Belgium in a statement issued yesterday, said: "Early in February last officials of the various provinces in Belgium began to discuss the question of making Washington's birthday a holiday. The burgomasters and other officials in all the provinces throughout Belgium held meetings and drafted an official proclamation a copy of which has just been received by the commission.

The copy of the proclamation received by the commission was issued by the burgomaster and aldermen of Hodamovi. It included a letter ordering the schools closed written to the teachers by the aldermen in charge of the schools, which said, in part:

"On the 22d instant the people of the United States are celebrating a national holiday. The circumstance will be for our distressed people an occasion when we may show to that great republic our feelings of high admiration and gratitude. During the long months of our great distress and need, that generous nation has taken up the task of abolishing misery from our homes in assuring with a spirit of humanity the distribution of food throughout our country."

"So will the 22d of February be for every Belgian citizen a day of veneration for that wonderful people from whom we are receiving so many marks of true friendship."

Why They Laughed.

Iona, Carr, vacationing at a Michigan lake, tells us a good and true tale of a club woman from Racine, Wis., who was a delegate to a recent convention of women clubs in Cleveland, says The Plain Dealer.

One morning she inadvertently left her convention bag in her room and when she discovered her loss she sent a maid up after it. The maid soon returned; the woman quickly pinned the ribbon on and hurried to her convention duties. And all day people kept staring at her and laughing—she couldn't understand why. Of course, the sagacious reader already knows that she was wearing the wrong badge; but she herself didn't suspect it until dinner time. She rushed into the dining room, late, and the family greeted her with shrieks of laughter.

"Well," she sighed, sinking into a chair, "what is the matter with me? I've been gilded all day." And they pointed to her badge. She removed it and read in large gold letters: "Racine Poultry Show. First Prize Bantam."
