of human interest. It appeals to the hearts of men always.

Life insurance preserves business by protecting the factors which make business a success; life insurance builds estates and furnishes the safest it is, cannot be learned from the nemedium for the distribution of estates; life insurance encourages the marriage of the prudent man and woman and lays the home foundation; life insurance replaces hardships and adversity with ease and serenity-and peace of mind adds length of days.

Life insurance is every day, common sense, intelligent business with a practical spirit of understanding and co-operation; life insurance certifies to a man's love of family and deepens the love and respect which wife and children hold for him.

Life Insurance Universal.

Life insurance is universal in its beneficience. Its service is adapted to all classes and conditions of men. The poor need it. The rich demand it Life insurance insures the unexpected. It lives up to its promises and pays all just claims promptly and unostentatiously. It is positive and permanent.

Life insurance stands between the home and the enemies of its happiness and security. For cooperative service in home protection, it is the greatest institution in the world.

Life insurance, by good conduct and large results, is constantly securing wider and better recognition. Legislation is less hostile and supervision is more helpful and sympathetic.

Life insurance has outgrown the original purpose for which it was insti-tuted and has become a dominant factor in every department of life. It is admitted to be essential to the maintenance of the social business and fiancial

Life insurance renders large public service. General taxation is lessened because of it. Fewer almshouses are needed. Old age for the beneficiaries of life insurance does not mean becoming a community charge. Children are educated—are given a fair chance in life—and good citizenship is assured. Life insurance has its "finished product." Last year, more than five hundred millions of dollars were paid to the beneficiaries of life insurance. The full meaning in human comfort of the many individual payments in all parts of the country under all imaginable conditions, making up so great a total, is impossible of expression.
