

PLAYING HAVING WITH PIANO AND ORGAN PRICES AT OUR "QUIT BUSINESS" SALE

C. A. Reed Piano and Organ Company's Great Quit Business Sale is Getting Into Full Swing, For the People Are Coming—The Pianos and Organs Are Going.

Don't Stay Away And Regret It For Many Years

WE WILL CARRY OUT TO THE LETTER EVERY ASSERTION, EVERY PROMISE MADE WHEN WE ANNOUNCED THAT WE WOULD CLOSE OUT EVERY PIANO AND ORGAN IN STOCK AND RETIRE FROM BUSINESS.

A Ten Dollar Bill Sends a Good Piano To Your Home

Now Is the Time to Save $100 to $225 in the Purchase of a Good Piano, One of the Best Made, and You May Have Easy Terms to Pay for It. Act Quickly and Get the Benefits.

Open Until Eight O'clock 314 South Main Street

When we announced that we would close out our entire stock of Grand, Uprights, Player-Pianos and Organs, we meant every word of it. When we made the assertion that we would cut prices on the best pianos and organs as they were never cut before, we meant every word of that, too.

And when we told the people of Anderson and vicinity that this would be the one big piano and organ opportunity perhaps for years to come, we knew what we were talking about, knew that the instruments at the plainly marked prices would bear out every assertion made. If this great "Quit Business Sale" is going to disturb piano and organ prices in this section for a long time to come, we can't help it.

Furniture, Fixtures, Horses, Wagons. We are going to quit business, close out. Every instrument together with furniture, fixtures, horses and wagons, and put them into cash or good notes and contracts, and must do it quickly. Nothing will deter us. That we made no mistake in our estimates as to how the piano and organ buying public would appreciate an opportunity like this is evidenced by the large number of people attending this sale since it started.

At the rate they are going, and judging from the large number of inquiries from many nearby sections, it looks like every instrument will be taken before the time limit of the sale expires.

The prices we have made should sell every instrument in one week's time. Of one thing we are certain, and that is, these bargains will not remain long after the people realize what it means to buy the best pianos and organs at cut-in-two prices, and on easy terms of payment.

As above stated our one desire is to close out this large stock of good pianos, player-pianos, organs, fixtures, horses and wagons, everything, and do it quickly, in two weeks or less. We did not stop at cutting off all profit, but in some cases have cut the prices far below the actual cost to make them and bring them here.

If you have any use for a piano or an organ, if you will need one in the next year or two, you positively cannot afford to let this opportunity slip by. You can save $100 to $225 in your purchase, which is enough to start your children in music. Some good upright pianos, taken in part payment for player pianos, to close out for $62, $78 and $92, and a large number of high grade pianos for $137, $167 to $188, on easy terms without any advance in price.

Standard highest-grade upright pianos, beautiful Mahogany and Golden Oak cases, that sell in New York, Chicago and other large cities for $350 to $500, will be closed out at this sale for $243, $267, $292 and $317 on payments $15 to $25 cash and $8 to $12 a month, or other terms to suit.

Investigation Will Convince. A visit to this sale, an inspection of the pianos offered in connection with the price and terms, will convince you that this is a real piano opportunity, a real money-saver. You will find everything just as represented, even better, for mere words cannot describe the wonderful advantages of this sale.

Just a Word About Organs. We have dozens and dozens of new and second hand organs, that will make music for you at $8, $15, $19 up to $28. New organs at one-half regular prices. Come while you may have pick and choice.

Every instrument marked in plain figures, so that a child can buy at this sale as low as the most expert musician in the land. We want out-of-town music lovers to take advantages of this cut-price and easy terms and will ship instruments to reliable people anywhere and guarantee satisfaction and safe delivery to your home.

Our store is full of bargains—dependable pianos and organs and every one of them marked at "must-go" prices. Pianos and organs for all the people—that suit all kinds of pocket-books.

Store open until 8 o'clock for those who cannot call during the day.

FAMOUS FLIER TO GIVE EXHIBITION IN NORTH ANDERSON

Bud Carey, One of Most Sensational Flyers, Will Make Thrilling Flights Friday and Saturday—Came to Anderson Under Contract Which Proved Worthless and is Giving Exhibition to Avoid Serious Financial Loss—Is Highly Recommended As Expert Flyer.

Mr. S. C. Gullmette, the manager for the Henry Meyerhoff, (Inc.) Carnival company, who had the contract with Mr. Porter A. Whaley, secretary of the mythical Anderson County fair, called on quite a number of Anderson merchants yesterday and succeeded in getting sixty-two dollars subscribed to a fund for the purpose of inducing his aviator, Bud Carey, (who came all the way here from Lewiston, Maine, to fulfill his contract with Mr. Whaley) to make two flights Friday and Saturday of this week.

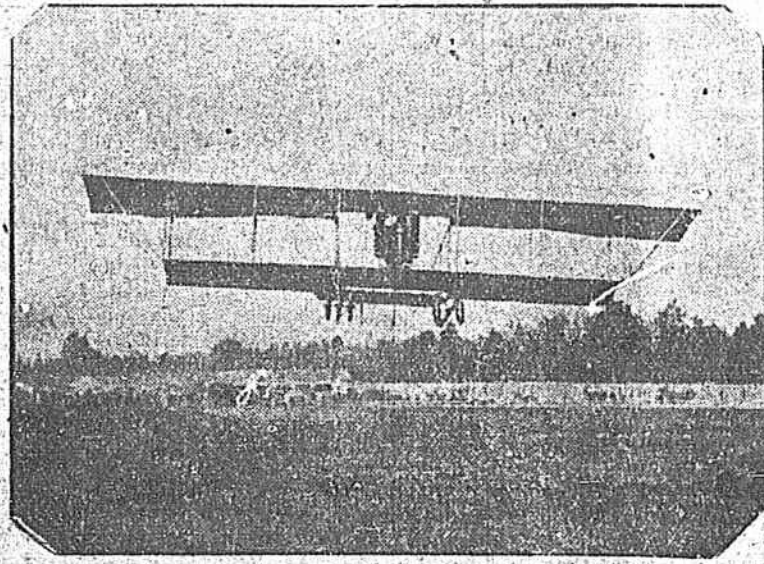

To say that Mr. Gullmette was disappointed in expressing it very mildly, but believing that the good people of Anderson and vicinity believe in fair play, he had decided to put the two days aviation meet on her this week, and has gone ahead and made arrangements to that end.

He says he will go around the Square and the other business streets today, giving the business men the fair, and naturally that if they did not get some particularly nice treatment to counterbalance the rather raw deal that they have been given, they would always harbor an ill feeling towards Anderson, and instead of boosting it, they would be inclined to knock it.

The press reports received about Mr. Carey's flying are very flattering indeed; he has just finished a very successful flight at Lewiston, Maine, Chatham, Maine, Staunton, Virginia, and other places. The following report of a hair breadth escape was clipped from the Portland (Maine) Express of October 18, 1915.

The illustration picturing the aviator just above the tall building (Fidelity building) in Portland shows the daring aviator just before he plummeted to the bay. In talking about this accident yesterday, Carey stated, "If I had been ten feet lower when my motor went bad, I would have chance to subscribe whatever amount that they feel disposed to contribute toward securing this attraction for Friday and Saturday, which Mr. Gullmette says will certainly bring into this city five to ten thousand people.

Mr. Gullmette states that he has put the very small price of twenty-five cents for adults and fifteen cents for school children believing that this will give everybody a chance to see this wonderful aviator fly, and pull all the thrilling aerial stunts that have made him the second Beachey of this country.

Mr. Gullmette stated further that he had been in the show business for thirty years and that he had never seen such a mix-up as the one occasioned by Mr. Whaley's contract with his company, which brought all these carnival and aviation people here, when as a matter of fact, there was no Anderson County Fair association, and no fair was intended. Mr. Gullmette stated that his main purpose in pulling this aviation meet Friday and Saturday, was to give these two aviators a chance to get their flying machines out of the express office, and up to their next town in Virginia where they are booked for a county fair all next week, without any further loss to them. Another strong reason, as he put it, was to show these Anderson gentlemen that had been stung on a gas balloon some years ago that this biplane was a different aircraft, and that the stunts that Bud Carey will pull of here are not seen more than once in a lifetime.

Mr. Gullmette stated in conclusion, that he sincerely hoped that the merchants and bankers, and other business men of Anderson would come across handsomely today, and give these two young men a liberal treatment; that it was none of their fault that they had jumped all the way down here from Maine and found no bee crushed against that tall building; nothing could have saved me." And yet this man, after accident and near accident, day in and day out, continues to fly, and do these death defying aerial stunts.

"While making a flight over the city of Portland this morning the engine of Bud Carey's biplane refused to work and the aviator was forced to make an 800 foot dive into Back Bay. He missed death by inches only for with the water for which he was racing, and which meant life if there was any chance at all, still 80 feet away, the running wheels under his plane grazed the top of a box car on the tracks at the foot of Hanover street, and an inch lower would have made a different story.

Cary received as his only injury a sprained back, while the machine was more or less damaged and will probably take a couple of days to put into shape. The accident of course made necessary the abandonment of the afternoon flight.

"Spectators in the street and on the roofs of buildings, this morning first caught sight of Cary 10 minutes of 10, headed toward the city from the starting field, and climbing pretty fast as he came in. He flew once across Monument square and away towards the eastern end of the city, turning back over Portland street and up to Congress at a point about over the store of Porteous, Mitchell & Braun.

"Bank of Death." "At this point he made a steep bank known as the bank of death, and immediately after straightening out from the bank began what looked at first like his usual dive across the top of the Fidelity building. It did not take the thousands of watchers long however to see that he was diving at a greater drop than usual, and this added to the fact that his course was across the Longfellow House and that he finally disappeared from sight toward Back Bay instead of making his usual rise into the air again, shot a thrill of fear through the thousands in the streets below.

Almost at the same moment that Cary disappeared from view the crowds in Monument Square, could be heard insistent and repeated blasts from the whistle on the dredge in Back Bay. No more was needed and with one accord nearly a thousand men, women, children, truck teams, delivery wagons and autos started on a wild run down Preble street and for the open space on the other side of the tracks of the railroad.

While the whistle out in the bay still blated and before the crowd had hardly made up its mind which way to stampede, the police ambulance tore up Congress street and handed down Preble, and reached the scene of the all but fatal descent, before Cary had been brought ashore.

"At the moment that Cary began the abrupt dive that followed his steep bank over Congress street, and ended in the waters of Back Bay his mechanic and partner, Charles Grieder, was shading his eyes with his hands out at the starting field, and wondering what fool stunt "old Bud" was pulling now. He waited long minutes it seemed though as a matter of fact it was seconds, for the moment when the machine would start to rise, as he has many a time before. This time it did not rise and almost before the glint of the big wings was lost to view from the starting field, he had leaped into an auto and with C. H. Friend who had taken to the field the bombs Cary was to drop began a mad race for the city.

Some idea of the speed made from the starting field to the edge of the water at the foot of Hanover street, can be gained from the fact that Grieder arrived before Bud had been brought ashore, and almost as soon as the police ambulance.

Wet But Smiling. "The crowd that lined the edge of Back Bay less than a minute after Cary began his 800 foot dive from over the city, found instead of the still water and the rising bubbles, they had feared to look upon, a very wet, but smiling aviator standing upon the skids of his biplane, and waiting for a boat from the shore.

"Newcomers who could see neither aviator, the water nor the machine, shuddered and pressed their way through the first line, inquiring in awed voices, 'Did it kill 'im,' and heard the good news with a sigh of relief. Meanwhile Cary had been brought off, and three or four police finally shouldering a lane through the crowd, led the limping birdman to a waiting auto, but not until he had secured a cigar, which was his first request upon getting ashore. Dripping wet as he was, carriage robes were thrown round him and he was hurried to his room at the Congress Square Hotel.
