Accidents Prevented Aeroplane Flights

SERIES OF MISHAPS FORCED POSTPONEMENT OF EXHIBITION

WILL FLY TODAY

Machine Now in Fine Shape and Aviator Carey is Anxious to Uphold Reputation.

Bud Carey and his flyer did not fly on Friday afternoon as advertised, but the flight will certainly be made today. Mr. Carey stated he regretted very deeply the fact that an accident threw his work so behind that it was impossible to have the machine in order in time to make the flight. It was dark when the machine was properly put together and Mr. Carey was more than willing to go up then, but as there was no means of lighting the surroundings, this was not considered a wise plan. At dusk going at a high rate of speed he would have been unable to select his landing, and would undoubtedly have come to grief in the descent. Mr. Gullmette, the manager stated that as much as he hated to disappoint the crowd assembled in North Anderson, he did not think it would be possible for Mr. Carey to make the flight and get a safe landing. Carey was willing to try it but the manager was afraid.

A crowd of several hundred persons assembled in North Anderson at three o'clock in the afternoon and waited patiently for a while for the flight to commence. An accident during the morning broke one of the braces and it was necessary to remove one of the wings and take away the biggest part of the brace wires in order to repair this damage. When this was done it was after three o'clock. The wing was replaced and it was found that one of the tires on the wheels on which the machine runs along the ground was punctured. This was repaired and a new tire placed on the machine. This was hardly on the machine when it blew out. This caused another delay and by the time everything was in readiness it had grown dark and the flight was postponed.

"It is the first time that I have ever been as much as 20 minutes late with an act or a performance of any kind," said Mr. Gullmette. "I certainly hate to break a good record and I hated to disappoint the crowd tonight, but I did not feel like encouraging the man to make a flight which I know would have been very dangerous. It would have been little short of suicide for Mr. Carey to make his flight."

The delay in repairing the machine was due to a series of hard luck. The men about the machine had been at work since six o'clock in the morning and at noon had the machine assembled. Then the accident broke the machine again and there was a lot of trouble in getting the damage repaired.

Mr. Phelps Sasseen announced that the tickets sold for the flight Friday afternoon would be good at the Saturday flight. The machine will certainly go up at 3 o'clock this afternoon. It is in good shape now and all that needs to be done is to have the aviator get in it and soar away. The machine used by Mr. Carey is a Curtiss machine, or rather a combination between the Curtiss and the Wright machines. It was really built by the men in charge of the machine now and is one of the best in the country. With special attachments the operator is able to perform movements in the air that would be impossible elsewhere.

The control of the machine is a wonderful apparatus. The steering wheel is mounted on a lever, and has two motions. The to-and-fro-motion is used to regulate the rudder. This raises or lowers the front of the machine and causes the plane to rise or come down as the operator desires. The operator is seated on a small seat directly in front of the engine and has a peculiar looking, box shaped seat, the back of which is hinged to the bottom of the lower plane. He is strapped in this and by leaning to either side, he regulates the pitch of the auxiliary planes on the sides of the machine. These are used for quick swerves and short dips. The wheel itself is used for lateral curves, and just below the wheel the switch which controls the motor. Thus it is seen that the aviator operates his machine with two motions on one wheel and by movements of his body.

The motor in the machine is an eight cylinder Curtiss motor, designed especially for airship duty and capable of making a very high speed. The speed of the machine in flight is about 70 miles an hour on a level. Of course greater speed can be made by rising to a height of several hundred feet and then making a long sweeping glide.

Bud Carey will fly this afternoon. He will visit the city of Anderson and will do all sorts of stunts in the air. He has the reputation of being one of the most fearless of American aviators and will try and live up to his reputation while here.

AFTER CHAMPIONSHIP GAME FOR ANDERSON

CAROLINA-CLEMSON TIE MAY BE 'PLAYED OFF' IN
THIS CITY

NEGOTIATIONS ON

With Manager Crosby of Clemson and P. & N. Officials and Outlook is Good.

In view of the success of the Clemson-Auburn football game in Anderson and the fact that Carolina and Clemson have tied in a game which will more than likely be the deciding game of the state championship, an effort is being made to have the tie played off in Anderson November 19, the same day to be made "College Day" in Anderson.

It has already been announced that Mr. William Jennings Bryan will speak in Anderson the night of the 19th and this in itself will be a drawing card to the city. If the games can be arranged, there is no reason why Anderson should not have one of the most successful days for colleges of the south.

Letters have been written to Clemson and to Mr. Crosby of the P. & N. If a favorable reply is secured from Clemson, Carolina will be challenged, and if they accept the challenge, as they probably will, the game will be played.

Anderson has gotten the football spirit and wants another big game for this season. A more interesting game for South Carolinians could not be staged than the game for the championship between two schools such as Clemson and Carolina.

P. & N. PASSENGER STATION IMPROVEMENTS

HAVE PROGRESSED TO STAGE WHERE STREET IS NOW OPEN

NORTH MAIN CLEAR

Improvements On Buildings On
This Street Have Impeded
Traffic for Long Time.

The scaffolds of the P. & N. station have been cleared away, leaving the block from Whitner to Earl street on Main street clear for the first time in several years. This block has been obstructed by scaffolding for a number of years at some one point between Whitner and Earl street.

Improvements being made on the fronts of one or more stores along this block have been constantly going on. Now the street is clear for one and the appearance is good. The new P. & N. station when it is completed is going to be quite an addition to the general appearance of the street.

From the looks of things now, the appearance of the station is going to be similar to that of the other buildings along this block. They are all finished with a red brick and marble and stone window sills and facings. This makes a very pretty store front and with large plate glass windows the station will be an added attraction to the town.

ANDERSON COLLEGE

The association of high school teachers representing the counties of Anderson, Pickens, Oconee and Greenville, which convened in Anderson on Friday and Saturday or last week held its meetings by special invitation in the college auditorium. Mr. W. H. Hand, state inspector of high schools conducted the conference. On Saturday the members of the association were guests of the college at luncheon.

A distinguished educator present at the association was Dr. Currell, president of the University of South Carolina. On Saturday morning he made an address in the college to the Shakespeare club, his theme being Macbeth.

The Lyceum series began on Saturday evening, October 18, with a program rendered by the L. A. C. orchestra.

The Clemson-Auburn football game was witnessed by a large number of the faculty and students. Invitations have been received by the faculty and the members of the Lyceum Library society to a Halloween party which will be given on the evening of October 30, by the Lyceum Library society. Miss Miriam Weeks of Aiken, of the class of 1914, has returned home at
