A WONDERFUL OPPORTUNITY

The C. S. Sullivan Estate owns a farm of 700 acres, seventy miles west of Augusta, Ga., which I have put in our hands for sale. Mrs. Sullivan cannot handle the property. She would like Anderson County property in part payment.

If less within, say, two miles of a nice town in which there is a bank, a large cotton warehouse, quite a number of prosperous stores, a large flourishing school with several teachers.

A splendid public road made of sand and clay runs through the property. The roads are all graded and are much better than in this county. The Augusta Southern Railway runs through the property and has a side track on this land. There is almost 500 acres cleared. There is probably 500 acres in one field almost level.

The tenant houses are better than anything in this county that I have seen. There are six houses. Four of them are six rooms, two four rooms. The land is sandy, with a good clay sub-soil within six inches of the top.

This place was sold by the present owners for $15,000.00. The purchasers who were speculators went broke owing about $15,000.00 on it and you can buy it for that sum. Now there are lots of men in this county with one or two hundred acres of land that will bring enough to pay for this place.

You can give your children a farm place and still have enough for yourself. It is in a splendid white section, good water, absolutely healthy, and all right in every particular.

On the farm adjoining this, there is the finest dairy I ever saw. They were making exactly 100 jerseys at the time I was there. Land is selling all around this at $30.00 to $50.00 an acre. This farm has been rented out for several years, but it is so level that they could not wear it out. I have just made a trip down there to look over the place, and I think it is a great bargain.

There is a stall room for 10 milch cows on the place. Fine road to Augusta. People running down there in automobiles almost every day. They make the round trip in 6 hours. Now if you have any property in Anderson County that you would like to put into this deal, let me see it. I can make a trade for you. We will give you good terms on the balance.

This place is about 15 miles from Seneca, and 5 or 10 miles from Seneca, Ga. The land looks like the best ever on the coast from Belton to Honea Path or Williamston. The place is lying out this year because it was in litigation. I had a man who worked a ten horse team on the place last year and he told me he made 1000 bushels of cotton with very little grass.

You can take it from me that this country is all right and a good place to live.

Aiken, Nov. 22.—Selecting Union for the meeting place of the 1916 convention and electing Mrs. L. L. McWhirter, of Jonesville, president for the next year the 19th annual convention of the South Carolina division United Daughters of the Confederacy, ended tonight with a brilliant reception at the Titian hall.

The election of officers came at the close of a busy day during which the convention was in continuous session, broken only by a luncheon served at 1 o'clock. The newly elected officers were installed following the election, Miss Alice M. Esple, of Columbia, the retiring president, turning the gavel over to Mrs. McWhirter.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. John Cart, Orangeburg, first vice president; Miss Mary Williams, York, second vice president; Mrs. A. G. Sibley, Bennettsville, third vice president; Miss Blythe Smith, Greenville, fourth vice president; Mrs. James W. Mixson, Union, re-elected corresponding secretary; Mrs. Walter Duncan, Aiken, recording secretary; Mrs. W. H. Cely, Greenville, treasurer; Mrs. C. McC. Patrick, Anderson, elected historian; Mrs. T. R. Trimmier, Spartanburg, registrar; Mrs. Mallie Perry, Lancaster, recorder of crosses; Mrs. Anne C. Ancrum, Camden, auditor.

Miss Mary Poppenheim, of Charleston, was nominated for president general of the general division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, 1916. A resolution endorsing Miss Poppenheim was accepted with marked enthusiasm and a rising vote.

Spartanburg through Mrs. Fike, invited the state division to meet there next year, the invitation being withdrawn in favor of Union when telegrams began pouring in to Mrs. Stepp of that city, who extended Union's invitation, from the city officials and organizations.

The state division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, adopted a resolution today agreeing to lend its efforts toward the establishment throughout the state of camps of United Sons of Confederate veterans.

This afternoon the children of Joseph's Wholesaler children's chapter entertained the convention for an hour with recitations and songs and Miss Frances Peabottom, state chairman of the children's chapter, read her annual report.

NATIONAL SCOUT OF THE SALVATION ARMY

WILL DELIVER ADDRESS IN COURT HOUSE THURS. DAY EVENING

SUBJECT "HEROES"

New and Original Illustrated Lecture, Bristling With Thrilling Descriptions.

Col. J. E. Margetts, the national scout superintendent of the Salvation Army, will deliver an address at the court house Thursday evening, November 25, at 8 o'clock.

Concerning the lecture, the title of which is "Heroes," the following comment will be of interest: "Heroes" is a new and original illustrated lecture, bristling with thrilling, appealing descriptions of the display of rare courage, distinguished valor, and deeds of daring.

Our hero-fathers are vividly seen in striking sketches of their struggles, risks and chivalry to gain America and to obtain American freedom. Interesting stories of heroes of patriotism, including Columbus, the Pilgrin fathers, Paul Jones, Paul Revere, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, James A. Garfield, President McKinley and others make a most interesting chapter, especially to young people.

COL. J. E. MARGETTS

Heroes, in picture and word are shown bravely suffering, villainy, treachery, persecution and death by fire and sword to save Christ and to secure religious liberty. Especially thrilling is the reference to the early Christians in Rome, and the intense wickedness of Nero, culminating in the burning of Rome and afterward to his own suicide.

Presented by heroes are graphically portrayed in heroic service and gallant action to save and benefit the bodies and souls of their fellow men and to honor God.

Even boys and girls of the city are heroes, and several incidents on this line are given.

The work of the Salvation Army in various branches is touched upon, and true stories of brave deeds are related where, in the pursuit of their duty, many army officers gave their lives to save others.

The lecture, which is interspersed with several touching illustrated scenes, concludes with a vivid description of a hero of salvations who, while going down upon a sinking steamer, sang and pointed their fellow passengers to Christ.

The lecture, which has been given from Maine to Florida, and from New York to Chicago, is in every way interesting and appealing, and lasts about two hours. There are over 100 dissolving pictures.

Colonel J. E. Margetts, the lecturer, is an officer of over 24 years' service, and has been for the last 14 years the National Young People's secretary of the Salvation Army, attached to the national headquarters in New York City.

During the colonel's leadership this important work has been greatly developed, and many new features have been introduced, to add to the efficiency and attractiveness of the work. Among the new developments recently organized are the Life-Saving Scouts for boys, and the Life-Saving Guards for girls, which are very popular and are growing continually.

Colonel Margetts is the national scout superintendent of the army, and is hoping to see Life-Saving Scouts and guards troops organized in every corps.

It is primarily in the interest of the young people's work that the colonel is in this city.

PRINCE OF PILSEM WAS DELIGHTFUL SHOW

One of Largest Audiences of Season Greeted This Pleasing Attraction Last Night.

Perennially pleasing, "The Prince of Pilsem," appeared at the Anderson theatre last evening and was greeted by a large audience. It is a great pity that Anderson does not always get shows that hold to the standard as advertised as did this attraction last night.

"The Prince of Pilsem," like good wine, seems to improve with age. Frank Pixley and Gustav Luders never wrote so well as they did in this over-pleasing opera. They wrote other operas which enjoyed a brief season of popularity, but "The Prince of Pilsem" is everlasting in its possibilities to please.

The music is well known. The favorite numbers have become household melodies and the action of the opera is so bright and effective that when even indifferently presented it is still potent in its power to entertain.

With Jess Dandy Dandy in the leading role of Hans Wagner, the opera was welcomed last night with much applause. His consummate good humor, his genial, jovial personality, the very spirit of comedy which seems to exude from his ponderous person creates infinite delight. Last night he was warmly welcomed.

The company supporting Jess Dandy has been well selected and the entire production freshened and brought up to date.

No one who really enjoys a good musical well sung, will ever grow tired of "The Message of the Violet," "The Song of the Sea Shell," and "Heddelberg." They are the classics of light opera.

Otto, the Prince of Pilsem, sings his aria with a spirit necessary to make it effective. Helen Fitzpatrick as Nellie Wagner was charming. Her piquant personality and pleasing voice were appreciated by the audience. Miss Harris as Mrs. Madison Crocker was one of the distinctive features of last night's performance. It is a telling part, which she presents in a most prepossessing way. She is an admirable actress and availed herself of all of the better opportunities of the character. More than this, Miss Harris displays herself in a series of gowns that for beauty and richness are marvels in their way.

Billy Arnold in the role of Tom Wagner has a part which is always attractive. It gives him a chance for good acting and an opportunity for vocal display which he did not neglect. His duet with Florence Hensel, "The Message of the Violet," was exceptionally well sung, and Miss Hensel supplied the necessary volume to make a distinctive feature of the performance. Irene Duke as Blanche and George L. Meyer as Francos work well together and are exceptionally clever dancers.

A very important feature of the present production of "The Prince of Pilsem" is the costuming. The costumes were designed by Archie Gunn and Will F. Barnes and are exceedingly artistic. Because of their unique design and richness of fabric this feature will always attract attention. The chorus is a good singing body. In fact, the chorus is the backbone of the opera.

Says Simple Laxative Better than Castor Oil

Case of Chronic Constipation Yields to Mild Laxative Compound.

MRS. MARY AUSTIN

Writing from the House of the Good Shepherd, at Sunnyside Ave. and 50th St., Seattle, where she is the guest of her life-long friend, the Reverend Mother, Mrs. Mary Austin, widow of a wealthy San Francisco, who lost everything in the fire of 1906, says she experienced speedy relief from the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and that she found this gentle, pleasant-tasting laxative more effective than several doses of castor oil.

The active principles of certain laxative herbs are combined in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to act on the eliminative organs in an easy, natural way, without griping or other discomfort. Its freedom from opiate or narcotic drug of every description, combined with its gentle action and positive effect, make it the ideal laxative for family use. Druggists everywhere sell it for fifty cents a bottle.

Make us tell you all the woes of his heart before he goes. Don't tell him he's a chump but tell him to get up and hump; tell him not to be so slow, but get around and say "Hello!" I'm alive, what can I do to help myself, as well as you?

Do not wait until he's dead to strew bouquets around his head. Nice words spoken are out of place, if not said before his face. Make him see that you're his friend, and will stay such to the end. Yes, tell him now, though he's rough: "Why, old brother, you've just the stuff this world needs — to make it go, now brace up and cry, "Hello!" There are plenty such about, that are worth the digging out. In this way you surely can make him feel that he's a man. He will always think of you as his best friend, true and true. In the future you will know what good it does to say "Hello!"

When you see a friend in woe, walk right up and say, "Hello!" Say, "Old Brother, how'd you do? How's the world?" "Well, right up, and don't be slow, laugh and shake, and say, "Hello!" slap the brother on the back; bring your hand down with a smack. His clothes are poor — make no show, never mind, just say "Hello!" That come-uppance shirt may conceal a great strong heart, true as steel; that old coat and shabby vest cuts no ice, but do your best to make him happy here on earth and to feel that he's worth. Don't you know that such a chap has every day his sure mishap? All he needs is hearty cheer to make him happy while he's here. Don't let him think that the earth was dead against him since his birth. Crack his shell, draw him out; don't let him whine, sulk or pout.
