

Just a Little Exercise for Stout Ladies

Ida Schnell Doing "The Crab"

"Why, it is the easiest thing in the world," said Ida Schnell all around woman athlete. You may see the smile on her face, and the lack of strain that "doing the crab" is not difficult for her. If it were difficult her face would show the strain of the exercise.

"It is just a nice little exercise for fat ladies," she said. "When you bend over that way, and walk along on your hands and feet a little it pulls the muscles of your stomach. It will pull all the fat from them. If you do this for a month you will lose most of your fat."

How to Pronounce It. "Yes," said Lor de Dah, according to the Saturday Journal, "this is a turkeze ring."

"Excuse me," said Bertie, "the correct pronunciation of that word is turwoise."

"No, turkeze, excuse me." "I say, turkwoise."

"Well, let's go to a jeweler and ask him."

"Right."

"In order to settle a wager," said de Dah to the jeweler, "would you mind telling me if the correct pronunciation of the stone in this ring is 'turkeze' or 'turkwoise'?"

"The correct pronunciation," he said, "is glass."

ARTISTIC DANCER AT THE ANDERSON

Mlle. Alherva DeBorah Delighted Many Patrons Both Afternoon and Night Performances.

Mlle. Alherva DeBorah, the English classic dancer, appeared at the Anderson yesterday afternoon and last night in two Greek and Egyptian dances, Val Caprice, and Anitra's dance, and the "Salome Dance" or the "Dance of the Seven Veils." The attendance was very good, but nothing like it should have been, for Mlle. DeBorah is an artist of rare ability.

In her graceful classic dances, Mlle. DeBorah is a lithe, swaying, capricious creature of moods and motion and dark eyes and floating draperies. On the stage she appears as a primitive elemental thing—half woman and half fairy. She is a real part of the music; she interprets and responds to the sweep and swing of the rhythm like a slender flower stem in the wind.

The climax of the performance was the Salome dance, made famous by Gertrude Hoffman. The manipulation of the seven veils caused much comment. Each one was distinct and the manipulation of these continuous veils they are seen gradually falling from the beautiful figure. Salome is left almost bare as she brings in the head of John, then after a wild and fantastic series of gyrations, Salome sinks exhausted on the stage.

Mlle. DeBorah will appear at the Anderson again today in two performances, one at 4:30 p. m. and the other at 8:15 p. m.

How to Dose Animals.

After thrusting a struggling porker into a barrel and pouring his medicine on and not in him, the amateur veterinary will do well to heed the following suggestion for giving medicine to animals which is printed in the current issue of Farm and Fireside.

"When fluid medicine is to be given to sheep, cattle, horses, or swine, a practical and simple form of drenching tube can be made by taking a piece of rubber tubing one-half inch in diameter and about three or four feet long. Affix a tin funnel to one end of the tube and a piece of iron or brass tubing four to six inches long at the other end.

"When drenching, insert the metal tube into the animal's mouth back as far as the metal tube will reach, then elevate the funnel end and allow the drenching medicine to slowly pass into the animal's mouth. Care should be taken not to raise the animal's head too high—just high enough to allow the medicine to gradually flow back to the back part of the mouth.

"The medicine can be checked if flowing too fast by pinching the rubber tube.

"In most cases it is better to drench the animal while standing, and in the case of sheep, if the medicine is given in a standing position, the gasoline remedy or similar worm remedies will pass directly to the fourth stomach, whereas if the medicine is given when the sheep is placed on its haunches or in a sitting position the medicine has been found to be less effective."

Going Up.

Jimson—How is your rheumatism getting on?

Bilson—It is getting along slowly, but I'm feeling hopeful now.

Jimson—I'm glad to hear that.

Bilson—Yes, it commenced in my feet and has gradually worked up to my shoulders. I'm in hopes that in about a week it will go off into my hat.—New York Globes.

Beneath Them.

"The Ayreases occupy the street floor, I understand. Do they associate with the people in the other departments?"

"No, indeed; they consider those who live above them beneath them.—Boston Transcript.
