THE ANDERSON

THE PARAMOUNTS

"Blackbirds" and "The Chorus Lady" This Week.

The Paramount feature at the Anderson Monday will be "Blackbirds," featuring Laura Hope Crews. This elaborate production is said to be a fitting sequel to Miss Crews' best photoplay, the Lasky-produced production of the "Fighting Hope," which has created widespread favorable comment.

The Paramount feature on Thursday will be "The Chorus Lady," with an all star cast including Cleo Egle. It is said that this is one of the most popular contributions ever made to the Paramount program by the Jesse Lasky company. It is a picture of a young man who runs two whole years in New York and seasons uninterruptedly on tour.

"CABIRIA"

Date is Changed From December 16 to December 15.

The date of the presentation of "Cabiria" has been changed from December 16 to the 15. This is a 12 reel feature and cost New Yorkers 50 cents and $1.00 to see it.

CHILDREN'S PRESENT

Mr. Trowbridge Will Admit Children Free to "Cinderella."

Mr. Trowbridge states that the Anderson children have patronized his theatre so well that as a Christmas present he will present one morning "Cinderella," to which the children will be admitted free. Another feature picture of that week will be "Wildflower."

"EVERY WOMAN"

Will Appear in Anderson, Thursday, December 30.

Mr. Trowbridge announced yesterday that he had signed contract for "Every Woman," a Henry W. Savage production, for December 30. This is a musical comedy with 50 people and no show coming south this season is recommended higher. They appear here under a very high guarantee.

"When Dreams Come True," will appear in Anderson on January 8. This is a musical comedy highly recommended.

A new play signed for the Anderson is entitled, "He, Him, and I." It will be here on January 7.

It is very likely that Nell O'Brien's minstrels will be the attraction on December 17, since this date is desired by the company. It is on the par with Al G. Fields.

Nat C. Goodwin will appear at the Anderson in "Never Say Die," on December 17.

JACQUITH COMPANY

Musical Comedy at the Anderson Beginning This Week.

The following from the Asheville citizen speaks highly of the Jacquith Musical Comedy company.

Presenting something entirely new and different from the usual run of musical comedy, the K. C. Jacquith players scored an instantaneous hit in "One Little Maid" at the Majestic theatre yesterday, playing to good audiences at both afternoon and night performances. The show is new and what is decidedly better, is original. The time-worn jokes that usually embellish these shows are missing, and the comedy is clean and wholesome. The costumes are new, the screen effects splendid, the voices of both principals and chorus are excellent, and the evolution of the chorus, in some places, would do credit to some of the high class musical comedies on the road today.

Alfred Beaumont, Dolly Sanders, Walter B. Edmundson, Charles Watson, Fay King, Alice Maurice, and "Casey" Jacquith, the principals, are all splendid in their parts. Miss Maurice and Miss DeLong, in particular, possessing excellent voices, while Fay King shines as the star vocalist of the male persuasion with the troupe. Walter B. Edmundson and "Casey" Jacquith furnish the comedy roles, the comedy in question being of the highest order and clean in every particular. The show is by far the best that has visited the Majestic in many months, and is in a class with the best that theatre has ever produced. "One Little Maid" will be offered today and tomorrow, the bill changing Thursday.

TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE

Appears at the Anderson Next Friday Night.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" which comes to the Anderson December 10 for one night only is the story of big humans, big hearts and big purposes. Beyond all the little spirit of feudalism, there is the blue in the skies, canopied the lonely rugged tree; the sweet spirit of June, and the iron willed masterful Judd. The Will E. Cuthane Amusement company have given a most elaborate production to Eugene Walter's dramatization of John Fox, Jr.'s widely read book, and those who love June in the romance will be more than charmed with Miss Elly O'Connor's delightful presentation of the mountain heroine, who has already become enshrined in the hearts of a million book lovers.

POPULAR SCREEN STARS

Manager of Anderson Signs Franchise for Exclusive Output.

Embracing some of the most famous successes of the American dramatic stage for those film adaptations they have exclusive control, the World Film corporation, through a franchise signed here yesterday with the Anderson theatre, assures local patrons of the silent drama the best in feature photoplays.

Distributing the exclusive output of W. A. Brady, the Shuberts, Charles K. Harris, and allied film interests the World Film corporation recognized throughout the country as the most potent factor in the motion picture industry, will send to Anderson, such popular screen stars as Clara Kimball Young, Robert Warwick, Alice Bray, Vivian Martin, and Holbrook B.ann, in a varied repertoire of film successes. Among those scheduled for early presentation are: "Old Dutch"; "The Cub"; "Rip Van Winkle"; "Marrying Money"; "The Dollar Mark"; "The Fairy and the Wall" and others.

Miss Young, of the statuesque type of stage beauty is accredited as the most beautiful woman working before the camera today. "Hearts in Exile," John Oxenham's virile story of Russian oppression, showing the fate meted out to the exiles of Siberia, entrenched her fame permanently among devotees of the motion pictures.

Robert Warwick idolized both on screen and stage—being a recruit from the latter—will be seen here very shortly in "The Flash of an Emerald" made under the direction of Emilie Capellana who also produced "Les Miserables," when Victor Hugo classic beckoned a new idea in multiple reel features.

Manager Trowbridge of the Anderson theatre, alert to the interest of local motion picture fans, believes the coterie of stars embraced in the world program, is unquestionably the most effulgent constellation to be sent to Anderson since the silent drama has occupied so important a place on the local theatrical horizon. His enterprise in this and other instances is commendable and it is to be hoped that his efforts to give the people of this city the best to be had, will meet with the approbation it so justly deserves.

The first World feature to be shown at the Anderson is "Old Dutch" featuring Weber and Fields, which will be exhibited on Thursday, December 16, and later productions will be shown each week thereafter.

THE PALMETTO

HAS TEN PEOPLE

Good Attraction Booked at Vaudeville House This Week.

Mr. A. M. Pinkston announced yesterday that he would have the Seymour Musical Comedy company with ten people at the Palmetto this coming week. This company comes direct out of Atlanta Ga., and is said to be one of the very best in the circuit. They have a troupe of ten, plenty of girls, and a male quartette which is said to surpass any that has ever before appeared at the Palmetto.

Owing to the fact that this booking was not made until late Saturday afternoon, the photos have not yet been received and will not therefore, be on exhibit in the lobby of the theatre today.

AT THE BIJOU

"THE GIRL AND THE GAME"

New Serial Feature Has Been Secured by Manager.

"The Girl and the Game" is the name of a new serial feature which Mr. Pinkston has contracted for. He stated yesterday that he did not know whether this would be put on at the Palmetto or the Bijou, but very likely it will be at the latter place. It will begin on either January 4 or 11.

"The Girl and the Game" is said to be a stupendous railroad film novel in 15 chapters, featuring the fearless film star, Miss Helen Holmes.

It comes from the brain and pen of Frank Hamilton Spearman, the foremost author of railroad stories of the world. Mr. Spearman is a master creator of plots. He stands absolutely unrivalled in his chosen field of literature—a field that smacks of thrills and realism—of great deeds done in the face of tremendous odds. Frank Spearman has written such successful novels as "Whispering Smith," "Robert Kimberly," "The Mountain Divide," "Held for Orders," "The Daughter of a Magistrate," "Dr. Bryson," "The Nerve of Foley," and a score of other widely published works. In "The Girl and the Game," Mr. Spearman has woven a wealth of personal experience and observation. He lays bare the cold-blood code of rail finance—the money trickery of the silk-hatted few who fight to control the webs of steel that gird our continent.

HE DID HIS SHARE

How the Rich Man Changed His Mind When Tuberculosis Struck Home.

Anthony Schofeld lives in Missouri and had made his money in copper and zinc. He had worked hard from a boy in the drift up to the rank of foreman, then to superintendent and finally to owner. Sickness never worried him. His six foot giant frame had stood many hard knocks and was good for many years. A year ago in answer to a pretty girl who asked him to buy some seals to help the miners who had tuberculosis he replied gruffly: "Let 'em work and save. That's what I did when I was young, and I've never been sick and have got enough to keep me now."

It was a different Schofeld who approached the Red Cross Seal girl at one of the booths yesterday. In twelve months his daughter had been stolen away by the monster tuberculosis and his son, just graduating from college, had been compelled to drop everything else in his search for health from this same disease. The doctor had said that the disease could be traced back probably to childhood, when his two children had been nursed by the consumptive daughter of a consumptive miner. The rickety, disease breeding tenements in which the miner was compelled to live were owned by Schofeld now. "I'd give my two eyes and both legs and arms to have my daughter with me and my son restored to health," he confided to the Red Cross Seal girl. "I can't get away from mine and my boy well if I'd given some attention to the prevention of this disease ten or fifteen years ago. Now it's too late for that, but I'll keep somebody else's son and daughter safe. Here, give me all the seals you've got and then go and get all you can find and charge them all to me. If money can make amends, which it can't I'll do my share."

As the astonished girl handed over to him her entire supply of 20,000 seals and took his check in return she heard him mutter his daughter's name—and repeat, "I'll do my share."

Chicago's Protest.

Chicago's "wet" population protested in a body of nearly one hundred thousand men, women and children, against the Sunday closing law which Mayor Thompson is enforcing. The protest was in the form of a parade, which took nearly four hours to pass a given point, the marchers walking eight abreast, with two rows of automobiles and floats occupied the center of the streets. Dry leaders commented variously on the protest. Seven hundred and fifty thousand persons are said to have watched the marchers from the sidewalks. One man was crushed in the crowd and died, but there was no disorder. The parade was six times the size of the one organized for Thompson's "Prosperity" demonstration, and eight times as large as the "dry" parade of several weeks ago. It was the largest parade held in Chicago since the famous

McKinley "full dinner pail" turnout. None of the banners referred to Mayor Thompson except by innuendo. Some of the most striking read: "Temperance is Strength—Prohibition Spells Weakness;" "The World's Greatest Outrages were Sured in the Cradle of Intolerance;" "Oppression is but Another Name for Reform;" "Bad Laws are the Worst Sort of Tyranny;" "Fanatical Prezy is the Parent of Blue Laws;" "Normal Man and Woman Object to Being Classed with Defectives and Weaklings" and "If All the Pool Laws Were Enforced, Half of Chicago's Population Would be in Jail."

Matter of Endurance.

"My Dear," said Mr. Hawkins to his better half the other evening, "do you know that you have one of the best voices in the world?"

"Indeed?" replied the delighted Mrs. H., with a flourish of pride at the compliment. "Do you really think so?"

"I certainly do," continued the heartless husband; "otherwise it would have been worn out long ago." —Philadelphia Public Ledger.
