GRAPHIC DESCRIPTION BRITISH ENCAMPMENT NEAR GRECIAN PORT

Saloniki, Greece, Dec. 9.—The camp of the British Mediterranean expeditionary force lies to the west of Saloniki—or Thessaloniki as the Greeks have it—among the rolling foothills of Mount Kothichou.

Whatever they are, they are beyond any doubt content to leave Gallipoli. The climate of Saloniki is nothing to boast of at this season. It rains every day. The rough, badly paved streets are muddy and full of chuk holes.

On Road to Camp. The road from the harbor to his camp lies through the old Turkish quarter of the town, at a steep angle up narrow, winding streets.

The Camp Hospital. A top of one hill is a flag pole with the flag of the red cross—the camp hospital, presided over by a gray medical colonel of gentle manners and an air of wonder and bewilderment at finding himself so far away from England in so strange a land.

At every crossroad, the returning Tommy loses himself in a dense crowd of Greek soldiers, so slight in comparison with the stocky, deep-chested French, so diminutive in comparison with the tall, wiry British.

Between Burial Grounds. Finally the way to the camp leaves the town, between the high walls of twin burial grounds—one Jewish the other Greek. A little further on is the old Turkish cemetery.

Along the road hundreds of itinerant vendors of everything portable set up improvised stands in the fields. Neckties, hot chestnuts, suspenders, writing paper, raw shrimps, socks, sweetmeats, tortices, old photographs taken—and bang goes Tommy's pay!

cripples, little girls in tattered, hollow-cheeked misery, the old of every race and kind.

Finally the tent city appears, seeming to cover unending acres of hill-tops. The road and a stream separate the French and the British. Along the stream the British Tommies kneel washing their clothes against the rocks as any French washwoman might.

From time to time smart officers, with red tabs on their collars to indicate that they belong to the staff, plunge over the edge of a miniature cliff towards the camp stables, where the horses are picketed in the open.

On the opposite hill are the staff tents, with a stamp on the canvas that shows them to be from India. If there are not enough benches for officers and guests, someone sits on one turned the Greeks have scarcely enough to supply their own soldiers, much less the foreigner on their soil.

Every day more transports arrive pouring out their soldiers—Greek, French, British—Horses, kicking helplessly are lifted bodily from the crannies of the ship. Wagons, cannon, ammunition cases, stores—all cluster the quays. Silently the French slip up the railway line to the front, scarcely before one can realize that they have arrived.

Between the French and the British there is the completest working cooperation. The French have the predominant force and they have taken the major burden of the execution. General Serrail is beyond question the ablest officer in the Balkan field on the side of the entente at least.

Why You Should Use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Because it has an established reputation won by its good works.

Because it is most esteemed by those who have used it for many years, as occasion required, and are best acquainted with its good qualities.

LIFE INSURANCE PRESIDENTS MEET

The Ninth Annual Convention in Session in New York City.

New York, Dec. 9.—The ninth annual convention of the association of Life Insurance presidents met in New York today for three days' discussion of such subjects as the development of city communities, farming activities, and of railroad facilities, and the part which life insurance investment funds play in all three.

The chairman of the convention, William B. Wyman, president of the Berkshire Life Insurance company, of Pittsfield, Mass., reported that the assets of life insurance companies of the country had practically doubled in the last ten years, and said this was characteristic of the ability of the American people to amass large funds rapidly and without much ado.

While the assets of American life insurance companies have doubled in the last ten years, the amount loaned by them on real estate mortgages has increased more than two and a half times, said Mr. Wyman.

On the opposite hill are the staff tents, with a stamp on the canvas that shows them to be from India. If there are not enough benches for officers and guests, someone sits on one turned the Greeks have scarcely enough to supply their own soldiers, much less the foreigner on their soil.

FIRESTONE TIRES

Tells Her Experience To Benefit Others

Mrs. Dunlap Sends a Letter Addressed to the Readers of the Paper.

A sense of duty to others who might suffer as she had impelled Mrs. R. C. Dunlap, of Dekalb, Mo., to send the following signed statement to the St. Joseph, Mo., News-Press:

"The readers of the News-Press, especially those suffering from gallstones, stomach trouble and appendicitis, will find in Fruitola and Traxo a permanent cure. After suffering for three years the most excruciating pain from gallstones I found this wonderful remedy and am now in perfect health and have been for almost four years. Never have any symptoms of the old trouble. I had been told by three doctors that nothing but an operation would save me. I know several who have undergone an operation but still have gallstones. This medicine is an oil which softens the stones and cures the liver. It can be bought at any drug store."

Fruitola is an intestinal lubricant that softens the congested masses, disintegrates the hardened particles that cause so much suffering, and expels the accumulation to the patient's great relief. Traxo is a tonic-alternative that acts on the liver and kidneys, stimulates the flow of gastric juices to aid digestion, and removes bile from the general circulation.

"Lenders of money are beginning to realize that they should give consideration to how capital supplied by them is going to be used, whether to provide luxuries and encourage extravagance, or to improve values and increase income from the properties taken as security. The rule applies alike to city, village and farm properties, and I believe the time will soon come—if it has not already arrived—when there will be a better understanding and closer cooperation between borrowers and lenders, to the end that borrowers may be better enabled to meet their obligations at maturity, and lenders may be made to feel more secure in the investments they are making."

TELEPATHY AND APPARITION

Curious Story of Soldier's Visit to Friend's Home.

A curious story of telepathic thought transference accompanied by a ghostly vision is reported on good authority from a Kansas city. Two or three evenings ago a woman who lives in that neighborhood heard a loud knocking at her front door. She opened it, but nobody was to be seen. On retiring to the sitting room, however, she noticed a dim figure in khaki standing at the further end. After some seconds this figure melted away. The woman told her husband, and the next evening they received a visit from an old friend, a soldier just back from the front, to whom she related the incident. He asked at what time it happened. She told him at half past seven exactly.

"That's very strange," the soldier remarked, "for yesterday while I was crossing from France I looked at my watch, and finding the time to be half past seven I said to myself, 'I wonder what Mr. and Mrs. will say when I drop them a call this afternoon evening.'"—London Evening News.
