(By Associated Press.)

Marathon, Texas, May 19.—The order of withdrawal sent to the Sibley-Langhorne expedition column two days ago has been countermanded and American troops that invaded Mexico in search of the Glenn Springs bandits will remain there indefinitely. It was reported here tonight the column will probably be reinforced by troops from the Funston column.

Eight hundred troopers arrived at Columbus, New Mexico, today from Pershing's headquarters in Mexico. It was stated that these troops would be sent to the Big Bend section of Texas. Whether they would be ordered into Mexico was not stated.

Slow Mobilization Causes Delay

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, May 19.—General Funston's realignment of the border patrol is being delayed, war department officials said, by the slow mobilization of Arizona and New Mexico militia. Although the Texas companies responded more promptly the enlistment in all three states is not up to paper strength and Funston will get only about three thousand men instead of three thousand, five hundred expected. There is still talk here that the realignment will include the withdrawal of Sibley's forces south of Boquillas, but no definite plan has been announced.

Thompson said the government was not involved and he was supported by District Attorney Swann. Tonight, however, United States Attorney Marshall issued a statement declaring any publication of facts in the case now would be "most regrettable from a standpoint of the administration of federal justice."

New York police listened on the telephone for Seymour and Seymour, a firm engaged in war munition contracts, it is alleged.

Cotton Seed In Bags Increases Shipping Cost

Department of Agriculture Not In Favor This Plan Handling Product

Washington, May 19.—The expense and trouble of using bags in handling and marketing cotton seed outweigh any advantages bags may give in reducing the loss from careless handling of this crop, according to cottonseed specialists of the U. S. department of agriculture. They therefore recommend the use of bags only in special cases, as for planting seed, less than carload shipments, and for river transportation. Careful studies, however, show that in handling cotton seed in large quantities the first cost of the bags, coupled with the fact that they deteriorate quickly and have to be kept in repair, makes them too expensive.

Shipping In Bags Involves An Extra Cost And Labor In Filling, Emptying, And Weighing, And Makes Accurate Sampling More Difficult

Shipping in bags involves an extra cost and labor in filling, emptying, and weighing, and makes accurate sampling more difficult. Time is lost in emptying seed from bags, as loose locks of cotton and burrs tend to make the seed cling to the bagging. Thread from the mouth of the bag also often gets mixed with the seed, catches in the conveying and cleaning machinery, and causes choke-ups and delays.
