ECCE HOMO

J. J. Hill, Noted Railroad Builder And Capitalist, Passes At The Age Of 87

HIS MANY VENTURES IN GREAT NORTHWEST LED TO HIS BEING AFFECTIONATELY DUBBED 'THE BREADBASKET OF THE WORLD.'

(By Associated Press.) St. Paul, May 29.—The funeral of James J. Hill will be held at his home here Wednesday afternoon. The burial mausoleum will be at his farm five miles from St. Paul.

Died at 9:30. St. Paul, May 29.—James J. Hill, railroad builder, capitalist and most widely known figure of the northwest died at his Summit Avenue residence at 9:30 this morning as a result of an affection due to bowel trouble. He was 87 years old.

Unconscious. St. Paul, May 29.—Hill was unconscious nearly twelve hours before he died. Dr. Herman M. Riggs and Dr. Stanley Seagram together with members of the immediate family were at his bedside. Hill's personal secretary, M. F. Brown, announced his death to waiting newspaper correspondents.

Found World's Breadbasket. James J. Hill discovered "the breadbasket of the world" in the great northwest; he led in its development from a wilderness into what now comprises six wealthy states dotted with $90,000 farms; and he blazed a trail for transportation which reached eventually from Buffalo to Alaska, with a total mileage of rail and steamship facilities that would nearly straddle the earth.

Near Death in Ontario. Near Orillia, in Ontario, where Louis Jerome Hill was born in 1829, the son of an Irish-Canadian farmer, he died when the boy was 15, there stands a tree stump labeled "The last tree chopped by James J. Hill."

Traveler Stopped at Hill's Farm. It marked the lady's resolution to go to the study that is told, a strange traveler had stopped at the Hill farm to take dinner, and left his horse at the gate. Young Hill saw the animal was tired and he carried it a pall of water. The stranger was pleased with the lady's thoughtfulness, and as he drove off he tossed him a newspaper from the United States and called out gravely: "Go there, young man. That country needs youngsters of our spirit."

As a mere roustabout lad of 18, he journeyed from Maine to Minnesota. When in 1858, he disembarked from a Mississippi river packet at St. Paul that year was a frontier town of 1,000 inhabitants. As the sign of St. Paul, S. C. & Co. was then the DuBoque & St. Paul Timber Co., he

REV. W. A. GAINES DEAD AT SENECA AT AGE 85

Much Beloved Baptist Minister Of That Place Passed Away Suddenly Saturday

(Special to The Intelligencer.) Seneca, May 29.—Rev. W. A. Gaines, a retired Baptist minister, died suddenly at his home here Saturday night about twelve o'clock. Mr. Gaines, who was in his usual health about nine o'clock, expecting to take the early morning train to Greenville, to preach in the absence of the pastor, Rev. A. F. Holder, who is in Seneca conducting a revival meeting. About twelve o'clock his wife was aroused by his heavy breathing, and arose and tried to arouse him up, but to no avail. He breathed his last in a few seconds. He was in his eighty-fifth year, but retained a remarkable hold upon life for a man of that age. He only retired from the duties of the active ministry a few months ago, and came to make his home here. He is survived by his widow, who was a Miss Bookheart, and his second wife, and the following children: The Hon. J. M. Gaines of Greenwood, who for several terms was state senator for that county; Prof. R. E. Gaines, who occupies the chair of Mathematics in Richmond college, Richmond, Va., and who is very prominent in the laymen's movement in his own denomination; as well as the interdenominational movement; Paul Gaines, who is an electric engineer in Memphis, Tenn.; Prof. Frank Gaines of the A. & M. college of Mississippi; Mrs. A. C. Gaines of Trenton, this state; Mrs. Emma Padgett, a teacher in the Greenville Women's college; and Mrs. Clara Patton of Washington, D. C.; and two brothers, Messrs. M. B. Gaines, of Seneca and E. P. Gaines of Honer Path; besides numerous nephews and nieces, many of them living in Greenville and Anderson, among them Dr. D. M. Fanness, president of the Greenville Women's college, and L. P. Gaines of Greenville. Mr. Gaines had greatly endeared himself to the people of this community in the short time that he has lived here. He was a man of deep piety, broad sympathies and human interests, a scholar and able preacher. The interment will be at Greenwood Tuesday afternoon at 6 o'clock.

T. R.'S MANAGERS ARE ALREADY ON JOB AT CHICAGO

(By Associated Press.) Chicago, May 29.—Republican Roosevelt headquarters were opened here and the work of getting the delegate votes was begun, several hours before Roosevelt himself arrived en route to Kansas City, where he will speak tomorrow. Gen. Wm. L. Rorer, former secretary of the navy in the first Roosevelt administration, is expected to arrive here today to take active charge of the Roosevelt campaign. It is expected that the plan of Frank M. Cleveland, former postmaster general, to have Hughes name put in nomination first, may cause a hot fight between the supporters of Hughes, Roosevelt and Wood.
