THE FEASTERS AND COLEMANS.

From Edrington's History.

Andrew Feaster (the name was then spelt Phister, 1740.) emigrated to this State from Bucks County, Penn. His father, Peter Feaster, died on the road and was buried some where in Virginia. From him was descended the present family of Feasters of the Beaver Creek section of this county, better known as the Feasterville township. He had a cousin, John Feaster, who came at the same time and settled in Edgefield county. He was the great grand-father of Laurens Feaster of the "Dark Corner" section. Andrew Feaster was twice married; by the first wife only one daughter, who married Andrew Colvin of the Sandy River section of Chester county, now known as the Halsellville township, near where John Simpson now lives. She moved with some of the children to Greene county, Ala., and lived to be quite an hundred years of age. His second wife was Margaret Fay Cooper, who had by a former marriage two children, Adam and Eve Cooper, both of whom lived to be quite old. Eve married Jacob Stone, whose mother was Ruth Lyles, a member of the Chester branch of that family. Jacob Stone was a soldier in the Revolution and drew a pension as long as he lived. Andrew Feaster's children by the second marriage were John, who married Drucilla Mobley, daughter of Edward Mobley and sister of John Mobley, who died a few years since. She died June, 1886. John's children were Jacob, better known as "Squire Jake," Andrew, Savilla, Susan, Mary, Chaney and John M., the two last named are yet living. Savilla married Robert Gregg Cameron, and now lives near White Oak. John M. married Keziah Pickett. He is now living in Florida on Indian River. Jacob, son of John, married Isabelle Coleman, daughter of David R. Coleman, than whom a better man never lived. Jacob Feaster lived and died near Buckhead. His children were Jacob F., who married Elizabeth Stone. Moses C. Feaster is the only living child of that marriage. Edith D. married Henry J. Lyles; they had four children, three of whom are now living. John C. married Miss Sallie Lyles, youngest daughter of the late Col. Wm. S. Lyles, by his first marriage to Miss Woodward. Susan E. married S. M. Simons of Lexington County, S. C. David R. married Miss Victoria E. Rawls of Columbia, S. C., by whom he had several children. His first wife died in January, 1877; and in December, 1878, married Mrs. Hattie E. Coleman, nee Porter, a daughter of Rev. C. M. Porter, of Ridgeway, S. C. By her former marriage she had five children. By her marriage to D. R. Feaster she had four. They have one of the largest families in the county. Sixteen children and six grand-children. There were two girls younger than D. R., Isabelle and Mary N., both of whom died quite young. Andrew Feaster, John Feaster's second son, married Mary Norris, of Edgefield County, by whom he had eleven children, 5 sons and 6 daughters. The youngest son, T. D. Feaster, is now living near the old homestead. He is the only one of this family now living in this county. The eldest son and daughter are living in or near Columbia. The fourth son, Elbert H., was blind from infancy, and was educated at Boston, Mass. He was a remarkable man; he knew every one by their voice. Once having been introduced and conversing with the veriest stranger, he would ever after know him by his voice, no matter where he met him. Nathan A. Feaster, second son of Andrew, was twice married; first to Maria Louisa Rawls, of Columbia, by whom he had one daughter, who married John G. Wolling, of Feasterville. His second wife was a Miss Brown, of Anderson county, a sister of Col. Newton Brown, by whom he had one daughter, who is now the wife of a Mr. Trimble of the town of Anderson. His third wife was a Miss McClanahan of Greenville County. There are two children by the marriage now living in Greenville, a son and daughter. Jacob N., Andrew Feaster's third son, was twice married, and is now living in Florida. The eldest daughter married Dr. T. J. Rawls, of Columbia. The doctor is dead and Mrs. Rawls and her only child, B. A. Rawls, are now living in Columbia. The second daughter married Wm. Williams of Anderson county and moved to Texas since the war and there died. Belle, the third daughter, married Wm. Loneragan of Charlotte, N. C., by whom she had several children; only one is now living, the wife of G. W. Coleman. Julia, the fourth daughter, married Robert H. Coleman who died at Augusta, Ga., during the late war. Mrs. Coleman now lives in Florida. Sallie, the prettiest of all the girls, married George Butler and died without issue. Narcissa M. Feaster died a few years since unmarried, Susan, John Feaster's eldest daughter, married Robert F. Coleman, a son of the Patriarch D. R. Coleman. Mrs. Wesley Mayfield is the only one living of that family. The second daughter, Mary, married H. Jonathan Coleman by whom she had sixteen children, eleven of whom lived to be grown, 9 sons and 2 daughters. Truly may it be said that Feaster-ville township was benefited by the issue of this marriage. It gave to the township three of the very best physicians, two of whom, Drs. Preston and Franklin Coleman, gave up their lives in Virginia for the "lost cause." Only two of the boys are now living, D. R. Coleman of Feasterville, and G. W. Coleman, of Cash's Depot, S. C. Allan lost his life at Petersburg; Jacob F. died at Wilmington, N. C., in 1864. Dr. R. W. Coleman, better known as "Dr. Bob," was one of the best nurses that ever lived. He married Nancy McConnell by whom he had several children. He was as game as a Kukulx to the day of his death, which occurred in May, 1873. John Feaster, the eldest son, married a Miss Gladden and died in February, 1856. His wife died the April following, leaving six small children to the cold charities of the world. But the noble old Roman H. Jonathan Coleman was equal to the occasion. He and his married children took these orphans and raised them in their families as one of their own children. H. J. Coleman, Jr., died in May, 1874, leaving a wife and five children. His widow is now the wife of D. R. Feaster. Dr. Preston Coleman married a Miss Secrest of Lancaster. He was captain of Company C, 17 S. C. regiment, and had his leg shot off at the knee at the second battle of Manassas. He and Dr. B. F. Coleman were educated at the Citadel Academy. Dr. P. F. was lieutenant of his brother's company. He was wounded and died a few months after at Winchester, Va., where his body now lies. D. R. Coleman had his eyesight impaired by a blast during the construction of the S. & U. railroad. G. W., the youngest son, went to the front at the age of 17. Eliza both married Micajah B. Pickett. Sarah married Beverly O'Mitchell; both living in Americus, Ga. John Feaster's grand-daughter, Chaney, married H. A. Coleman. There were eight children by this marriage; only three are now living. J. A. F. Coleman is now living at the old homestead, a man of high social qualities and industrious habits. He is better known by the sobriquet of "Bees-wax." David A. Coleman married Sarah A. Youngue who survives him, he having died during the late war. She has reared as noble a family of boys as there is in Feasterville township. J. A. F. Coleman married a daughter of Samuel H. Stephenson who lives in the hearts of his neighbors and friends and everybody knows "Uncle Sam" and it will not be left for the future generations to do so, but the present one, calls him blessed. Henry A. Coleman married Rebecca Youngue. He was wounded three times at the second battle of Manassas and did not live long after, leaving an only daughter now living with her mother in Winnsboro, S. C. Robert C. Coleman, the youngest son of "Uncle Henry's," was drowned while bathing at Church Flats in 1862. The eldest daughter married Wm. Youngue, son of Robert Youngue. The second daughter married James Levy Hunter of Chester county, but now of Powder Springs Cobb County, Ga. Isabelle, the third daughter, married Thos. L. Manning, of Marietta, Ga. The fourth daughter married A. J. McConnell, better known as "Dick." She died a short while after her marriage. He was first lieutenant of Bailey's Co., 17th regiment, and was killed the day of the blow-up at Petersburg. John Feaster's youngest daughter, as has been mentioned before, married R. Gregg Cameron. She raised seven sons and four daughters; James, the eldest emigrated to Florida to look after the interest of John M. Feaster, whose daughter he afterwards married. He died not long after, leaving a widow with one child. John married Mrs. Hoffman, nee Robinson. She did not live long, and John died in Columbia 8 or 10 years ago. J. Feaster Cameron was a man of education and refinement, a nobleman of the day. He was colonel of an Arkansas regiment, was twice shot and left for dead, but he was spared to be a living witness to the destroying power of ardent spirits. Here was one of the best of lawyers, a hero of many battles that fell a victim to our nation's curse, strong drink. The second son, Dr. Andrew S. Cameron, married Susan T. Arnette, a daughter of Mrs. Wesley Mayfield, of Buckhead. He died soon after the war, leaving a widow and one child. She having since died, her son is living with his grand-mother, Mrs. Mayfield. Robert Cameron died during the early part of the war. Alex, the only surviving child, resides near White Oak. He married the second daughter of James W. Youngue, by his Crosby-Estes wife. The eldest daughter married Henry Youngue, son of John L. Youngue, from whom Youngue-ville took its name. The second daughter married Dr. Christopher Simonton, a good man and a first rate doctor. He moved to Florida, but lived only a short time. She returned to South Carolina with her two children, John and Robert. John since arriving at manhood, returned to Florida. Robert is at the old John Simonton homestead, and is one of the most successful planters in that section. Sarah married John Simonton, a brother of Dr. Chris; he also moved to Florida where he soon died. The fourth and youngest daughter married Col. Lee McAfee of North Carolina. She was one of the prettiest women of the land. She and her husband both died early—leaving an infant son who was reared, and now resides with his grand-mother at the old Cameron homestead. Out of this family of eleven children we now have living the old mother, her son Alex and five grand-children. Andrew Feaster's second son, Jacob Feaster, married a Kenne-more, and died without issue, leaving a good solid estate to be divided between brothers and sisters. One of Andrew Feaster's daughters married E. Wooley, who removed to Edgefield and thence to Cass, now Barton county, Ga., where he died, leaving one son, Col. A. Feaster Wooley. Another daughter married Hundly McShan. They had several children, all of whom removed to the West. The boys, Ferdinand and Andy to Mississippi and Arkansas. One of the daughters, Judith, married Isaac Coleman. She died a few years since in Union county this State, at the home of one of her daughters, three of whom have married in that county; one to Wm. Tucker; she is now a widow; one to Wm. Jeter and another to John Jeter. Isaac Coleman still survives. Another daughter of Andrew Feaster's married Moses Cockerell. There are only two children now living, John Feaster Cockerell and Margaret Stone, who married a son of the old Revolutionary soldier before mentioned. She is now 85 years of age. Of the step-son Adam Cooper, all of his descendants removed to Mississippi. His son George, the crack rifle shot of his day, married a Triplet of Chester county. His children all now live in Winster county, Miss. Adam Cooper's daughter, Margaret, married Capt. Wm. E. Hill, a brother of Simeon Hill, and here the old election, it was called Hill's Box, afterwards Feasterville, and it was then said, that as the Hill box goes, so goes the county, and it verified, to the disappointment of many who had run well elsewhere; but Hill's box gave them "Hell," as they expressed it, and this was so often said, that they gave it the name of Hell's Box. This same Simeon Hill was "one of the plain, old-fashioned, honest men" of the day, of whom nothing could be said except in his praise. David R. Coleman, the Patriarch of the Coleman family in Fairfield, was born in Halifax County, N. C., May 19th, 1763,
