Hampton for Senator.

Sumter Watchman and Southern.

The suggestion made by Col. Willie Jones that Gen. Wade Hampton be sent to the United States Senate to succeed Gen. John L. McLaurin, is credited to Col. Jones's heart but not to his head. We yield to no admiration of Gen. Hampton who one could entertain a high opinion as a soldier or as a statesman. His people at a time when he needed a brave, pure and noble leader to lead the fight against the corruption, not only have been wanting in loyalty but it is our candid and honest opinion that it is not wise to be kind to Gen. Hampton. It would draw him from the field of ease and retirement to the old age. At his age, his feeble and hearty manhood if he could stand both physical and mental to the position, his present feeble health it is that he could not discharge duty in the Senate, and should undertake to do so would be at the sacrifice of his health. Furthermore, at this time the State needs, if it ever did, the services of a strong, energetic and aggressive man in the Senate. If Senator Hampton were but twenty years younger no one would have a word to say against his election, but at this time it would be a mistake to elect him and it would be no kindness to him.

Force of Habit.

A merchant and preacher were talking about the cotton situation: "Cotton, you know," said the former, "is the staple article with us. Every thing else is measured in cotton."

"So it is," said the latter; "but I consider it absolute folly that this should be the condition of things. Why don't the farmers raise something else than cotton?"

"Just for the same reason," replied the merchant, "that you preachers continue to preach long sermons. They have got into the habit and can't get out of it."

Principal S. M. Mason of Fort Mill recently gave the children of his school an outing at the Catawba Indian Reservation near Fort Mill. This was an excellent idea. While all school houses have not an Indian nation near by, there are many historical spots over the State not far removed from some school building that would afford abundant material for the teacher to get the children interested in local history.

Asa, S. C., Oct. 14, 1901.—Mrs. M. Eliza Grafton departed this life at Mitford, October the 12th. She was born in Chester County, October 18, 1822. Mrs. Grafton has been a "shut in" for several years from injuries caused principally by a fall; but the immediate cause of death was pneumonia.

Her remains were interred at Catholic Church on the 13th inst. in the presence of a large assembly of relatives and friends.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. I. C. Brown from the 4th verse of 23rd Psalm.

He spoke of the solemnity of death, but that Christ in her life had taken away the sting and terror, and interestingly portrayed the beauties of a Christian life, giving hers as a model. The casket was covered with flowers. Early in life she was a member of Concord Presbyterian Church and later a member of Catholic, of the same faith. So, we may be permitted to say in the days of her youth, she accepted Jesus, grew up with Him, lived with and for Him through middle life to a ripe old age—then Heaven.

Only two weeks ago a friend spent a pleasant day at her home and was forcibly impressed with the expressions of thoughtfulness of others, and she seemed delighted in showing a cherished flower, given her by a friend who had passed away years ago. This little act of remembrance was a token of loyalty to friends. It is useless to say that her fond son and his devoted wife gave her every care and comfort in the evening of life, which methinks is the crowning pleasure of old age.

Two children, Mr. H. C. Grafton and Mrs. B. A. Ragsdale, and one brother, Mr. R. C. Caldwell, survive her.

May God comfort them in this calamity.

Miss Florence Codil, of Yorkville, will open the Mitford school to-day.

Mr. T. T. Lumpkin, of Charlotte, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. A. M. Jackson.

Miss Matthews, of Clover, is visiting at Mrs. I. J. Nichols'. C. S. F.

Our people are busily engaged in getting out their cotton and carrying it to town to give away for  $\frac{7}{8}$  cents or thereabouts.

By the looks of the fields over half of it has already been harvested and the low prices are making the farmers feel curious. They don't know what to think. It seems that everything is high, but cotton.

We were all grieved at the death of our late President; greatly shocked at its manner. There is no doubt that Mr. McKinley was one of the best presidents that ever occupied the White House. We must all say, down with the anarchists; but not only them, but all organisms that use violent, underhand or unjust means to attain its ends. In crushing them out the Christian church will have its hands full as well as the common school. There is probably some of the anarchist spirit everywhere and they must be taught to see that it is wrong before they will believe.

Mr. J. W. Durham has built himself a store at Durham's crossroads. He completes it just in time to catch the beginning of the fall trade.

Miss Lilly Mobley is again at her uncle's, Mr. W. A. Neil. We always welcome her. B.

Bryant and Longtown.

Rev. J. M. Wilson, of Seneca, visited friends here during the past week. He was at one time pastor of the Presbyterian church at this place, and while here he greatly endeared himself to all. He spent Wednesday night at Mr. Jno. T. Stewart's.

Miss Christine Elliott, of Winnsboro, visited the family of Mr. T. W. Mellichamp a few days ago. Mrs. Barrett left for her home in Braidentown, Fla., several days ago.

Miss Jennie Gladden is visiting relatives in Winnsboro.

Mr. Albert and Cuttino Mellichamp are attending the Co-educational Institute at Edgefield.

Magistrate A. W. Matheson went to Winnsboro Monday on business. E. H. D.
