Out in The Fields With God.

The little cares that fretted me, I lost them yesterday
Among the fields above the sea,
Among the winds at play;
Among the lowing of the herds,
The rustling of the trees,
Among the singing of the birds,
The humming of the bees.

The foolish fears of what might happen—
I cast them all away
Among the clover-scented grass,
Among the new-mown hay;
Among the husking of the corn,
Where drowsy poppies nod,
Where ill thoughts die and good are born

Out in the fields with God.
—Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

A few of Sam Jones' Famous Sayings.

"Many a fellow is praying for rain with his tub wrong side up."
"Repentance is the first conscious movement of the soul from sin toward God."

"Thank God, this old world has never seen the time when it did not take off its hat and make a decent bow to a good woman."
"Let me say to you: If you can't help but one family in town, let that be the family that needs the help. I have a profound contempt for folks who are always helping those who don't need any help."

"Religion is like the measles; if it goes in on you it will kill you. The trouble with a great many Christians in this city is religion has gone in on them. Keep it broken out on hands, feet and tongue."

"Everybody ought to keep a good company. There is not an angel in heaven that would not be corrupted by the company that some of you keep."

"The greatest rascals are those that are scrupulously honest. If I see a man walk across town to pay a nickel I watch him."

"Whiskey is a good thing in its place, and that place is in hell. If I get there I will drink all I can get, but I won't do it here."

"There is more religion in a laughing than crying. If religion consists of crying, I have the best boy in the world."

"I have known women too poor to own a pair of shoes; but I never knew one too poor to own a looking glass."

"The biggest fool God's eyes ever looked upon is the woman who stirs the toddy for her husband."

"Old sinners are not satisfied with us unless we live better than they do."

"If my daughter only had one dress, that should be a whole one. If it looked anything at all, I would cut it off at the bottom, not at the top."

"You have no more right to flaunt your diamonds and your riches in the face of the poor than you have to shake bread in the face of a hungry man and not give him any of it."

E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, at whose laboratory Kodol is prepared, assure us that this remarkable digestant and corrective for the stomach conforms fully to all provisions of the National Pure Food and Drug Law. The Kodol laboratory is a very large one, but if all the sufferers from indigestion and stomach troubles could know the virtues of Kodol it would be impossible for the manufacturers to keep up with the demand. Kodol is sold here by all druggists.

Maybe It's One for the Plan Too.

Some years ago, about the time that Queen Victoria's jubilee was to be celebrated, the following conversation between two old Scotch women was overheard one day on a street corner in London:

"Can ye tell me, wammán, what is it they call a jubilee?"
"Well, it's this," said her neighbor. "When folk has been married twenty-five years, that's a silver weddin'; and when they have been married fifty years that's a golden weddin'. But if the mon's dead, it's a jubilee."

Of course you pay your money. But you get your money's worth. For what does money mean to you when Rocky Mountain Tea's on earth?
Jno. H. McMaster & Co.

To-Day.

Lives of some great men remind us
That we will, if we are wise,
Leave our modesty behind us
And get out and advertise.
—Judge.

It is noticeable a cold seldom comes on when the bowels are freely open. Neither can it stay if they are open. Kennedy's Laxative (containing Honey and Tar is the original Laxative Cough Syrup. Tastes as pleasant as maple sugar. Free from all opiates. Conforms to the National Pure Food and Drug Law. Sold by all druggists.

TRAINING DOG POLICE.

Breaking In of the Seine Patrol One of the Sights of Paris.

The training of the young Newfoundlanders that are periodically added to the staff is one of the sights of Paris. It takes place in the headquarters of the agents plongeurs, a small building on the quayside not far from the Cathedral of Notre Dame. Dogs and men enter into the exercise with zest, and there is usually a crowd of onlookers. Only dummy figures are used, but the "rescue" is nevertheless a very realistic affair. The big dogs know perfectly well what the exercise means, and they wait with comic enthusiasm until the dummy is thrown into the water and an agent plongeur rushes out on hearing the splash and the outcry of spectators. While the men are busy with lines and life boya the dog plunges into the water, swims to the dummy, watches with rare intelligence for an opportunity to get an advantage, and then either swims ashore or waits for its master, who brings to the rescue long poles, cork belts and the like. The more experienced dogs, however, will easily effect a rescue from first to last without human assistance, and it is an inspiring sight to watch them looking for a foothold on the slippery sides of the river bank and pulling the heavy dummy into a place of safety.

It takes about four months to train the dogs efficiently. They are also charged with the protection of their masters when attacked by the desperate ruffians who sleep under the arches of the bridge in summer. Thus in Paris the police dogs are a proved success.—Century.

A GREAT BEER HOUSE.

Mantel Owns the Oldest and Largest Saloon in the World.

The Hofbrauhaus of Munich is perhaps the oldest and largest saloon in the world, owned by the king of Bavaria and patronized by an average of 12,000 customers a day. On holidays the number often runs up to 15,000 and 16,000. Nothing to drink is sold but beer, brewed at the royal brewery, which was started by King Ludwig the Severe in 1255. The present Hofbrauhaus was built in 1644, and the beer was brewed on the spot until 1878, when the brewery was moved into the country to less expensive quarters.

There are seats for 1,000 customers, plain wooden benches without backs beside plain wooden tables without covers. In the garden or court are 100 empty beer barrels set on end, which are used for tables. The stools, which are very heavy and hold a quart of beer, are piled up in stacks before the bar on the floor in the morning, where they remain until they are used.

When a customer wants beer he picks out a stool, takes it to one of the basins of running water which line the walls and washes it himself. Then he carries it to the counter and hands it over to the bartender, who fills it with beer from the barrel. The price is 6 cents a stool, and the profits support the hospitals of the city, although the king could claim them if he desired to do so, as the brewery and the Hofbrauhaus belong to him by inheritance.—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Surest of Oratory.

One of the mistaken theories is that a "public speaker" is necessary to the success of any public affair. This theory had its rise at a time when oratory was afad. Orators were cultivated, and they were supposed to take human passions in their hands and toy with them. In this practical age public speakers are a bore, and nobody cares anything about them. People gather to be entertained and not lectured. But, this theory having been established that a "public speaker" is important to a picnic, an orator is hailed out and set loose on a few old gentlemen with cases and a few mothers who must occupy the benches in taking care of the children.—Savannah Herald.

Shot an Angel.

Now and again we hear of strange and rare birds being shot in England, but how many sportsmen except Mr. Wells' clergyman can claim to have shot an angel? One such man exists, though it is doubtful whether he is proud of his skill. It was nighttime, and he was passing Crayford parish churchyard with his gun over his shoulder when he saw what he took for a ghost. He leveled his piece and fired, but his aim was wild. He had failed to wing his quarry. Investigation showed that the ghost was a sculptured angel on a tomb, and he had shot off one of its toes.—London Chronicle.

High Finance.

"Say," began Burroughs, "lend me a five, will you?"
"See here," replied Markley, "if you'd only save your own money you wouldn't have to borrow from your friends."

"But by borrowing from my friends I do save my own money."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Sleep.

Now blessings light on him that first invented sleep. It covers a man all over, thoughts and all, like a cloak; it is meat for the hungry, drink for the thirsty, heat for the cold and cold for the hot.—Cervantes.

Quite Different.

He—But I thought you'd forgiven me for that and promised to forget it.
She—Yes; but I didn't promise to let you forget I'd forgiven it!

Some men are born great, some achieve greatness and some couldn't tell to save their necks how it happened.
