AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK

Next week is "American Education Week." The President and the Governor of the various states have issued proclamations setting aside the week of December 3 to 9 as Education week.

Everywhere the Education needs will be put before the people and their cooperation will be sought in improving the schools.

On Saturday December 9th, a mass meeting will be held at the Community House, where some of the leading Educators of the State will address the people. The Educational problems of the county will be discussed.

An effort will be made to secure a speaker to address the people of each community at their respective school houses during the week.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Wolling celebrated their golden wedding on Monday evening by giving a large reception. The guests were met at the door by Mr. and Mrs. George Clowney. Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Wolling in receiving in the drawing room, which was beautifully decorated in yellow chrysanthemums and evergreens, were: Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Clowney, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wolling, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Fletcher, of Savannah; Mrs. Galloway Fletcher, of McColl; Mr. J. T. Wolling, of McColl; Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Coleman, of Columbia; Mr. J. G. Wolling, Jr., of Shelton. The bride's register was kept by Miss Gene Smith and W. G. Ragsdale. In the dining room the color scheme was white and yellow. The centerpiece was a vase of yellow chrysanthemums on a handsome lace cover over yellow. Mrs. A. Lee Scruggs and Miss Maggie B. Turner cut the block cream, which was white with yellow hearts in the center. At a prettily appointed table, Mrs. John Beam, of Shelton, poured coffee. Yellow and white mints were served. Assisting in serving were little Misses Emma Gene Clowney, Emma Louise Clowney and Louise Allen Fletcher, great-grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Wolling, also Marcie Bess Wolling, Lula Wolling Coleman and Julia Kate Wolling. There were altogether 45 children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Wolling present. Souvenirs of the occasion were little wedding bells, which were pinned on each guest by Miss Frances Clowney and Sam Wolling. Two hundred dollars in gold and many beautiful presents were received. About a hundred guests called during the evening.

CHRISTMAS BAZAAR

On Thursday December the 9th, commencing promptly at 4 o'clock, the ladies of St. John's Episcopal church will open their Christmas Bazaar in the Community Building, to the public.

Fancy articles of all kinds will be found here. There will be an attractive doll booth to please and interest the children—a candy booth with delicious home made candies for all. And every department will be complete. There will also be a cake table from which the choicest housekeeper will be able to select her favorite cake.

Refreshments will be served, consisting of a regular oyster supper, and salads, also hot chocolate, cake and sandwiches.

The bazaar will be held from 4 o'clock until 9:30—and this will give time for all to come in at least for a short time and inspect the many beautiful and useful hand made Xmas gifts and select for themselves some choice menu, offered by the ladies on the refreshment committee.

A grab bag full of nice things will be an attraction offered for the children at 5 cents a grab. Come and see.

BOOK CLUB

Mrs. J. H. McMaster entertained the Book Club on last Friday afternoon. The program was on Thanksgiving and Armistice Day, and the roll call was answered with an item on one of these two subjects. BISHOP FINLEY VISITS FAIRFIELD COUNTY CHURCHES

The Rt. Rev. K. G. Finley, bishop of the diocese of Upper South Carolina visited the churches at Ridgeway and Winnsboro Monday, and on Monday evening made a most interesting talk at Saint John's Episcopal church here in behalf of the Nation Wide Campaign. He also outlined the program of work for the upper diocese for the next two years.

SURPRISE SHOWER

A number of intimate friends gave Mrs. Mary C. McCreight a surprise shower on last Wednesday afternoon, it being her eighty-third birthday. During the afternoon her friends called informally each, presenting her with some small token of their love and esteem. Mrs. McCreight holds a very warm place in the hearts of both young and old. She presented a picture of beautiful old age, as seated by her table, laden with gifts, she entertained her friends with old time grace.

Buy your Christmas presents at THE CHRISTMAS BAZAAR to be held in THE COMMUNITY BUILDING next Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

COMMUNITY HOUSE PROGRAM

Thursday and Friday—Our Thanksgiving holiday special picture "Beyond the Rocks". Its a wonderful picture and we are glad to show it as a holiday special. These two stars are the leading stars of today and they have certainly acted at their best in this production. See it, tell your friends, bring the kids and enjoy our Thanksgiving holiday. 15 and 30 cents.

Wednesday, December 6th—Tom Mix in "Trailing". A big action picture with the smiling star. The last time we had him the audience nearly went wild over his acting. Also Mutt and Jeff in cartoons as "Bony Part". Be sure and remember the date. We are showing some Fox pictures and if you liked "Connecticut Yankee", you will like the others.

Coming Christmas, Wallace Reid and Elsie Furguson in "Forever", Betty Blythe in "The Queen of Sheba", Mary Carr in "Over the Hills". See them all.

Remember the Christmas Bazaar at the Community Building next Thursday afternoon, December 7th, from 4 to 9:30 o'clock.

BOOK SHOWER

The Book Shower, which was given to the Winnsboro Public Library, in the library on Saturday afternoon by the Civic League was greatly enjoyed. The room, which was prettily decorated with vases of chrysanthemums, presented a most attractive appearance with its shelves of books and tables of leading periodicals. About seventy five books were received. A number of the members of the league acted as hostesses, and refreshing tea and sandwiches were served. Between seventy and eighty guests called during the afternoon. Winnsboro has every reason to be proud of its library. We venture to say that very few towns of this size in the state can boast of such attractive quarters for its public library and reading room. What Winnsboro needs is just a little more boosting and civic pride to make this library a permanent feature in Winnsboro. One member at least out of each family in Winnsboro should become a subscribing member. Join the library now! Let's make the library Winnsboro's civic center.

BANQUET AT THE WINNSBORO MILLS

On last Friday afternoon at four o'clock the Boosters' Club at the Winnsboro Mills gave a dinner by and for themselves. There were about seventy plates laid for the agent, superintendents, overseers, office force and others in executive positions in the mill. The banquet was prepared by the members of The Woman's Club.

It would seem that an effort is made at each one of these spreads to outdo all preceding ones, and this was no exception to the rule. It was in keeping with the Thanksgiving season—a turkey dinner, with cranberries, mashed Irish potatoes, candied yams, giblet gravy, coffee, dessert, n'everything. After the inner man was taken care of, there came cigars, and the air was soon filled with smoke, and several distinct sighs of contentment were heard from the guests.

Mr. Gordon A. Johnstone, presided over the board; and after the dishes were cleared away, arose and stated the dinner was held in connection with the organization of a class in better methods of administration on the part of employees. He stated that the efficiency record in the Winnsboro Mills was high, so far as the actual material production is concerned, but that these classes would be held for those who wished to improve themselves in the theories of proper administration. He then introduced the principal speaker of the occasion, Mr. B. M. Nussbaum, president of Business Training Corporation, of New York.

Mr. Nussbaum opened his address with some pleasing remarks appropriate to his visit here, and then began to talk seriously on the subjects of efficiency, business relations and co-operation. "Co-operative work requires a desire or wish in a person's heart to co-operate, the will in his mind to co-operate, and then the intelligence to apply both the wish and will to make one's work fit in with another's", he said. Therefore this course is not for those whose work is bad, but for those whose record is already good. The course is made up of six units under the following heads: Team Leadership, Handling Men, Organization, Handling Equipment, Production Records, and Principles of Management. Two studies are taken up each month and on the completion of each text book, a class leader is sent by the school to lead the discussion of the past month's work.

The speaker emphasized the fact that the results of any industry is not dependent on the head, or the workers, but the overseers or superintendents—they are like the neck of a bottle, is the way he illustrated the point, no more can come out than the capacity of the neck allows. The object, therefore, is to train those in authority to meet the demands of modernized plants and new economic conditions. The textile business is not the same as it was, and there is no more exacting industry in the world. Together with the study of administrative problems there is a phase of self analysis, which is to be applied by the students to themselves.

to see if they are getting from themselves what they expect of others.

At the conclusion of his address, a class of sixty members was enrolled.

Instrumental and vocal music was rendered during the evening.

THANKSGIVING SHOWER

Mrs. Preston Rion was complimented with a little Thanksgiving shower at the home of Mrs. Gordon Johnstone on Tuesday afternoon. Only a few intimate friends were present. After a graceful presentation speech by Mrs. M. W. Doty, delicious pound cake, coffee and whipped cream was served by the hostess.

FIRE NEAR WINNSBORO

On Monday morning the former home of Mr. J. H. Cathcart at Adgers, was burned. The house was occupied by Mr. Thomas Boulware and family at the time of the fire. The fire had gained too much headway to be put out when discovered. Some furniture on the first floor was saved. For a time it was feared that one of Mr. Boulware's children had been burned as she could not be found, but was finally located in a farm house a considerable distance from the burning building.

It is understood that Mr. Cathcart had some insurance on the house but Mr. Boulware did not have any on his furniture.

One thing to feel thankful for: You don't owe as much money as Germany.
