Varsity Show.

FASHION NOTES

Clothes and more clothes are making their appearance on the campus as Carolina begins. It seems that our beautiful co-eds are the perfect models of what Vogue and Mademoiselle say that the campus favorite should wear.

Ann Vaughan, that attractive Miss from Richmond, shows off her black "best" dress with the most adorable topper fashioned of dubonnet felt with a snood of tiny dubonnet and black feathers. Also from Richmond is titian blond Betty Faulkner, who is attracting every eye with her going-to-school costume jewelry.

Columbia's Steadman Cork is wearing blue taffeta with the new low waistline while Nina McGregor wears black moire with velvet buttons and a perky bustle. Talking about bustles Erna Wieters, one of the new Charlestonians, has a startling red velvet bustle on a red checked taffeta evening gown.

Almost any shade of red is quite the thing this year. Willodene Rion and Marie Ulmer have pairs of eye-catching gloves of "stop and go" red. Marie wears hers with a black silk and Willodene hers with grey. Mary Dixon flashes around in cerise pumps to off-set her black dress of old-fashioned bengaline.

Taking the co-ed's fancy this year is velveteen. One of the most attractive outfits is Marian Jean Campbell's two piece black dress with a tiny Peter Pan collar.

We saw Maxine Forbes, of Upper Darby, Pennsylvania, rushing off to pledging ceremonies looking a typical Southern belle instead of a Northerner in her filmy white trimmed with black velvet ribbon.

Audrey Marler of Walterboro is most attractive in her yellow and brown plaid skirt with a tight bodice of brown velvet trimmed in the plaid. The skirt is full of tiny pleats.

Hunting-pink is the latest word in colors this season and Dorothea Crouch is one of the first to come out in it. With her matched sweater and skirt she wears a beautiful lavalier of opals and diamonds.

FRATERNITY PARTIES

After last week's "no dates," the new co-eds are enjoying the weiner roasts, spaghetti suppers, and hay rides given by the fraternity men for their rushees. It's hard to keep up with the very active campus especially with registration descending upon us—so until the next Gamecock—adieu!

Boring As Ever And Just As Long

The placement tests this year were boring as usual, (quoting the co-eds): The psychology test was a pain. The original language test was too original (who besides the author can figure out what Mobbie and Pobbie mean?) Half the people didn't even know what analogy meant, much less what the test was about.

One of the co-eds said the lighting

Betty Faulkner, Washington, D. C. Delta Zeta, Mana Paul Connor, Orangeburg; Geraldine Wooly, Columbia; Nancy McKinzie, Columbia; Marjorie Edwards, Columbia; Elaine Boylston, Springfield; Nina McGregor, Columbia; Lillian Gayle, Columbia; Jessie Thomas Scott, Matthews, N. C.; Lu Melle Plowden, Summerton; Ruth Brown, Arlington, Va.

was bad (and so is this damn type-writer) and her neck hurt from leaning over to read. They were too strict about timing on the tests, but nobody cared. They were all too ready to hand in the darned things. (The fifty cent fine for lateness was the principle of the thing.)

There are two consolations with regard to the placement tests: First, they had their pictures taken for the annual. Second, they're over, and done with!
