

Student Senate Minutes

November 27, 1961

The regular meeting of Student Senate was called to order by President John Chappell. The roll was called and the minutes were approved as published.

COMMITTEE REPORTS:

State Student Legislature Committee: Jimmy Truesdale, chairman of the Carolina delegation to the State Student Legislature, announced that the 1961 session will be held November 30-December 2. He said he is hoping for a profitable meeting.

OLD BUSINESS:

Student Faculty Committee Appointments: President Chappell announced that the Student Faculty Committee will hold its first meeting Monday, December 4, at 4:30 p.m. in Russell House Assembly Room. Thereafter the committee will hold a weekly luncheon meeting at 1:00 in Russell House. The following people were appointed to the committee: Joe Major, Brenda Williams, Howard Hellams, Mike Sheheen, Doug Gray, Herb Adams, Bob Plunkett, and Sarah Krebs.

Mike Sheheen gave a report on the Greater University Fund Drive. He explained to the Senators that the fund is attempting to raise a total of $2½ million for scholarships, library volumes, and clerks, professorships, and research fellowships. He then asked for the support of the members of Student Senate for a student participation program for this drive. Jimmy Truesdale moved that Student Senate go on record as supporting the Greater University Fund. The vote was unanimous in favor of support.

Lou Ingram came before Student Senate to make a report about the University Players.

The University Players has canceled its production of TWO BLIND MICE which was to have opened tomorrow night (November 28) for a run of five nights in Drayton Hall.

The decision was made with deliberation, but was manifestly necessary due to various handicaps under which the production has labored since its inception. The Players was depreciated by approximately $50.00 in the late venture, other expenditures being entirely recoverable pending a subsequent production. Such a production is planned to open early in the second semester, with the initial phases getting under way in the immediate future.

There are, however, lessons to be learned from this disaster, and we hope that you will cooperate with us in extracting the most out of what would otherwise be a total loss. Dr. Fellers and I do not feel that this is the time for a free-for-all discussion of the matter as there are certain University Administrative interests involved in this problem. We have put our finger on some real problems in activity planning, but in anticipation of a final solution which may, indeed must, benefit the campus, we do not wish to relate the problems without an attending proposed solution. In this particular regard, I urge your cooperation and confidence.

There are some general problems which I will generally describe:

- (1) Irresponsible attitude in some quarters.
- (2) Use of Drayton Hall curtailed under a philosophy that first things first means the maintenance of buildings before building use.
- (3) This means the Yale Drama Festival Plans are out, but our other plans are still under way.

Student interest: Does this mean there is none? We don't frankly know, but if there is none, it is vital that a program of this kind is vital to the educational climate of our campus.

Howard Hellams made the following resolution:

WHEREAS, the men's intramural athletic program has been so successful, and

WHEREAS, there is no organized athletic program for the young ladies of the campus, be it therefore

RESOLVED, that the Student Senate establish a girls' Intramural athletic committee as a permanent committee of student government to organize a suitable program of athletics for the remainder of this year and to be empowered to begin planning a full scale women's athletic program for the school year, 1962-1963. This resolution was passed unanimously. Appointed to the committee were Beth Stuckey, Mary Kearns, Carol Lawson, Laney Baldwin, Miriam Rhome, Helen Timmerman, and Glenda Earl.

Ernest Willis moved that the WUS committee be reactivated to clear up any misunderstanding that may have occurred last year. This motion was passed. Appointed to this committee were: Molly Drayton and Howard Pettyman.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,
Brenda Williams
Secretary

University Will Publish 'Names In South Carolina'

Indian place-names receive extensive treatment in the Winter edition of "Names in South Carolina," published "sporadically" by the Department of English at the University of South Carolina.

Prof. Claude Henry Neuffer is editor of the publication.

Dr. A. L. Pickens, a retired biologist, is author of the Indian place-names article which ranges from "Adshusheer" ("appears to be Siouxan for 'small river'"), to "Okatie" (or "Okeete"), Choctaw for water.

The current edition of "Names in South Carolina" is as wide-ranging as previous ones. One article discusses place names on or near the Cooper River. Others deal with names in the Greenwood-Edgefield area, and in Pickens, Oconee, and Lexington counties.

Since the publication was founded eight years ago its subscription list has grown from 150 to more than 700, and more requests are received for back issues than can be filled.

The American Name Society and the International Onomastic Society (Belgium) have published articles praising "Names in South Carolina" for its interesting and unusual method of preserving the region's place-names.

Editor Neuffer has addressed local groups on the subject of names, and last year presented a paper on "Names" at the annual meeting of the South Atlantic Modern Language Association.

This year Prof. Neuffer was guest speaker at the annual convention of the S. C. Librarians' Association at Charleston.

The editor seeks information concerning the origin of these names: Pooshee Plantation (Berkeley County), Marsh Creek (Greenville County), Horse Hole (Beaufort), Varennes (Anderson), Highland Homes (Laurens).

Also, Whippy Swamp (Beaufort), Blooming Vale (Williamsburg), Punccheon Creek and Horse Pen (Georgetown), and Palachocolas (Hampton).

Replies should be sent to Prof. Claude Henry Neuffer, editor, "Names in South Carolina," Department of English.

International Studies Series Presents Talk

Frank S. Meyer, well known journalist, lecturer and book reviewer of the "National Review," will speak at the University Tuesday, Dec. 12, at 7:30 p.m.

Meyer's address, "Leaders and Leadership in the 1960's," is the third of six lectures presented by the USC Department of International Studies in the series "The Quest for World Security: the 1960's."

Once active in radical movements and formerly an important member of British Communist circles, Meyer was familiar with many of the figures who later became prominent in international Communist movements.

He later broke away from the Communists and is now one of the outstanding spokesmen of the new conservatism.

His book, "The Moulding of Communists: The Training of the Communist Cadre," is based on his experience and insights found in his intimate relationship with the Communists.

The book describes in detail the way in which Communist cadres are created, trained and directed. Sponsored by the Fund for the Republic

Engineering Dean Given Fellowship By Radio Institute

Dr. Rufus G. Fellers of the University has become the second person in the state to be elected a Fellow of the Institute of Radio Engineers (IRE).

Dr. Fellers is dean of the College of Engineering at the University.

The other IRE Fellow in South Carolina is Dr. Warren R. Ferris, a member of the faculty of the USC Department of Electrical Engineering in the college.

Election as a Fellow by the IRE Board of Directors is an unusual professional distinction conferred only upon persons of outstanding and extraordinary qualifications and experience in the fields of electronics, radio, allied branches of engineering, or the related branches of the arts and sciences.

Dean Fellers was elected an IRE Fellow as a result of his research in the Millimeter Wavelength Region — research which has extended over a decade at the U. S. Naval Research Laboratory and at Carolina.

of the Ford Foundation, the book was published by Harcourt, Brace and Co. in 1960.

Meyer is presently working on a new book that explains the relationship between freedom and conservatism.

Born in New Jersey, he was educated at Princeton and Oxford universities. He also studied at the University of London and the University of Chicago. During World War II he served in the U. S. Army.

The lecture series is presented annually by the USC Department of International Studies. The public is invited, and there is no admission charge.

All interested girls are urged to fill out applications and return them along with a recent photograph, to the Angel Flight.

Applicants will be interviewed by a board of officers. After interviews are completed, there will be a party for applicants, with attendance by invitation only.

New members of Angel Flight will be chosen in time for them to attend the annual Military Ball on February 14, 1962.

Senior AFROTC Cadets Receive Preliminary Flight Instruction

Twelve senior Air Force ROTC cadets at the University are among 1,500 cadets participating this fall in the Flying Instruction Program conducted at 160 colleges and universities throughout the country.

USC students enrolled in the program are Edgar A. Altman, Roy G. Andes, Jr., Harry G. Bates III, Marvin S. Ervin, Neil R. Fox, and Thomas P. Johnson, Jr.

Also, Haskell M. Kirkpatrick, Jr.,

Willard K. Mincey, Neal E. Monette, John T. Noe, Allen C. Pate, and George E. Walters.

An integral part of the ROTC curriculum for all seniors who apply for Air Force pilot training, FIP is designed to screen out cadets who lack basic aptitude or desire for pilot training upon graduation and commissioning.

The screening device results in saving the cost of dropping a cadet from the pilot training program after completion of part of nearly all of the extremely expensive process.

In addition, cadets who go through the instruction program prior to entering the service usually are more successful in completing training than cadets who have not been exposed to FIP.

This is the fifth year the Air Force has enrolled its cadets in FIP, which is strongly endorsed by the Air Training Command charged with pilot training programs.

Cadets in FIP will fly a total of 35 hours in single engine, private aircraft, including 20 hours of dual instruction and 15 solo hours. Instructors are pilots of Federal Aviation Agency-approved flying instruction schools.

Also, all cadets receive 35 hours of ground school instruction from Air Force rated officers assigned as members of the AFROTC detachment staff. Ground school includes instruction in weather, navigation and Civil Air Regulations.

The Flying Instruction Program was authorized by Public Law 879, 84th Congress and began its first four-year operational period in 1967. The program has been reviewed each year by Congress.

Successful in predicting pilot aptitude and desire, the program has this year been authorized for another four-year period, with annual review.

McMaster Houses Paintings By Former Carolina Artist

Twelve paintings by a Carolina graduate, Mary Jane Harley, are now on display at the USC Department of Fine Arts gallery in McMaster School.

The artist was graduated from the university in 1959 with an A.B. degree in fine arts. She later received the master's degree in education from Columbia University where she is continuing her studies under a scholarship and student fellowship.

All of the paintings now on exhibit are modernistic. The use of textures and tones is outstanding in these abstracts.

"This To Start From" is a light, sensitive painting in pale greens and off-white, in contrast with "The Struggle," a forceful, violent painting in brown with blue, green and gold accents. The latter employs the emphasis technique of flat areas against raised surfaces.

The duo "Hindsight" and "Foresight" fight for attention. "Hindsight" is a warm, clear painting, while "Foresight" is cold, brittle and indefinite.

The flowing movement and warm colors of "It May Happen" are accented by the same technique as "The Struggle." The flat areas of the painted surface emphasize the raised surface. The painting is strong and moves well.

Mary Jane Harley said, "I was very hesitant to assign a title to each painting. The titles are not really descriptive — they are not meant to serve as outlines for or word representations of the paintings."

LUCKY STRIKE presents: LUCKY LUFFERS

"I'll say it just once more: 'Volunteers for judo, step forward!'"

"Maybe they are just bluffing, but I'm keeping my head down."

"For cryin' out loud, Hawkins! Who ever taught you to put up a tent?"

"Doesn't anybody know how to fire this thing?"

"THE SMOKING LAMP IS LIT!" For Sailors and Marines, that means happy time. They can slow down and light up a Lucky. In the Army and Air Force, the cry is "Take ten!" — Lucky lighting time again. But Lucky you; you can enjoy Luckies any time. Why, you can even have one right now. And won't it taste great! Full, rich tobacco flavor — that's why college students smoke more Luckies than any other regular. March out and buy a pack.

CHANGE TO LUCKIES and get some taste for a change!
