Boys Of Monterrey To Sing Tuesday

By TOM PREWETT
Staff Writer

The Carolina Field House has played host to many different types of entertainers in its history but on Nov. 23 at 8 P.M. it is to host a unique children's choir known as the Singing Boys of Monterrey.

At 8 P.M. Sunday evening prior to their U.S.C. concert, the boys' choir will appear on the Ed Sullivan Show. Their Carolina performance is sponsored by the Artists Series Committee of the Student Union headed by Ray Flynn.

The 30 "dark-eyed choristers form South of the Border" who compose the choir, are now on their first extended tour of North America which will take them all over the United States and to some of the major cities in Canada. Before now, they have only performed in a limited number of University-sponsored concerts in some of the Southern states.

Felipe Ledesma, the director of the Monterrey Singing Boys, has had a wide range of experience as musical director of such groups as the Vienna Boys' Choir. He was assistant to Romano Picutti, director of the Singing Boys of Mexico until 1956 when he took "Los Ninos Cantores de Monterrey" under his wing.

The boys of the choir are sometimes considered their country's most effective "Ambassadors of Good Will." They were organized in 1951 under the Rev. Father José Jesus de Cortes, whose primary objective was to enhance the moral and artistic education of the underprivileged children of Monterrey, Mexico's industrial capital.

The group's repertoire does not consist only of Spanish or Mexican music, as might be expected, but includes many songs from all over the world, sung in their original languages, including Russian.

The Singing Boys of Monterrey will include in their program works by such masters as Franz Schubert, Claudio Monteverdi, and Benjamin Britten. A highlight of most of their concerts is a group of Russian peasant songs by the renowned composer, Igor Stravinsky. Their treatment of colorful folk tunes of their Mexican homeland is usually cause for a standing ovation wherever they perform. They have also commissioned original works by leading contemporary composers, including Ernst Krenek, whose "Missa" their programs often include.

In an interview, Dr. Ledesma, the group's director, said that he thought American musical taste to be generally "good." "I am quite familiar with the great musical activity in the United States, including your many first-class symphonic organizations, the excellent musical institutions, and the abundance of concerts, all of which speak well for the good taste of the North American public."

visit several CPA firms. Other trips planned include visits to the district offices of the IBM Corporation and the Royal McBee Corporation, and a trip to the local CPA firm of Clarkson, Harden & Gantt. Plans also include several guest speakers and a meeting with the Central Chapter of the South Carolina Association of CPAs on December 10.

Our officers for the Fall Semester are: George Laurey, president; Michael S. Strange, vice-president; Stanley W. Applebaum, corresponding secretary; Marshall T. Copeland, recording secretary; Walt A. Christensen, treasurer; and Professor John S. Herin, faculty vice-president.

Carolina Libraries Announce Hours For Thanksgiving

Libraries of the University will close at 5 p.m. Thanksgiving Eve, remain closed Thanksgiving Day, and reopen with the regular schedule on Friday, Nov. 26.

Dr. George Curry, associate dean of the University for learning resources, said that with the increased use of the campus library system the hours the libraries are closed are being kept to a minimum.

The number of days when the libraries are not in service will also be reduced over the Christmas-New Year holidays.

National Accounting Organization Holds First Initiation Ceremonies

The USC Chapter of Beta Alpha Psi, the National Accounting Fraternity, held its first initiation ceremony for new members at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 11.

The following new members were initiated: Cecil P. Craig, Sr., Harvey D. Cross, Jr., H. Lawrence Dennis, W. Frankie Dial, Jr., Myer Drucker, William B. Fulmer, Edward C. Jensen, Corwin M. Metcalf, Robert D. Sapp, David R. Smith, Max N. Walker, and James W. Worthy.

Gamma Beta Chapter of Beta

Alpha Psi was installed at USC on May 14, 1965. This is their first initiation ceremony since faculty and student charter members were initiated.

The purpose of Beta Alpha Psi is to recognize good scholarship in accounting and to promote high standards of personal and professional conduct. The University Chapter is the only chapter of Beta Alpha Psi in South Carolina.

Planned events for the remainder of the semester include a field trip to Charlotte, where they will

Postal Authorities At USC Handle Thousands Of Letters Each Day

By PAT DILLINGHAM
Staff Writer

If your post office box number is U-4686, you have the last USC box presently in use.

Ten to 12,000 pieces of first class, circular and campus mail are delivered through the USC sub station to members of the Carolina community each day.

In addition, the 11 employees handle 23 sacks of newspapers and magazines (four to five thousand) and 375 pieces of parcel post a day.

J. M. Lawrence, USC postmaster, stated that over $900 in stamps are sold each week, and 30 to 40 dollars worth of money orders are sold each day.

Twice daily the campus post office picks up and delivers official mail to various USC departments.

Sorting mail, Lawrence urged that all inter-campus communicators please specify department and not building that a letter is to go to.

Mail boxes are filled three times each day. On a regular day mail arrives at 6:30 a.m., 10:30 a.m., and 2:30 p.m.; it is in the boxes by 9:30 a.m., 11:30 a.m., and 3:30 p.m.

Lawrence and three other full-time staff members are assisted by seven USC students who work part-time. The training period for a new employee, Lawrence stated, is three to four months.

The USC post office is considered a sub-station of the Columbia Main Post Office. It is the second largest of five sub-stations in Columbia.

Lawrence commented that because other sub-stations use some of the same numbers as the USC post office, failure to precede a University box number with "U" might delay delivery considerably.

The increased volume of mail on campus this year has presented a problem to the post office, as has the training of new personnel.

Even larger, however, has been the task of deciphering incorrectly addressed mail. Nicknames used with no box number or with incorrect numbers are time-consuming puzzles, Lawrence stated.

Also troublesome are the window purchases of a few stamps, which, according to the postmaster take as much or more time as the sale of a $1 book of stamps. Larger purchases might decrease the present figure of 1,000 customers per day that visit the post office windows. Lawrence first worked at the Columbia Main Post Office and has been USC postmaster for 20 years.

Having attained 90 hours of credit from the University 15 years earlier, Lawrence resumed his education and graduated with a B.S. in management from USC in 1962.

Residence Officers Elected

Women's residence halls have elected presidents and vice-presidents for the fall semester.

President of South Tower is Janet Carol Selman of Charleston and vice-president is Martha Susan Wells of Lake City. Richard Had Residence Hall officers are president, Cara Belle Lee of Manning and vice-president, Martha Kay O'Quinn.

Pat Taylor of Shaw Air Force Base will serve as president of Wade Hampton, a freshman residence hall, and Sarah Brandt will be vice-president. Officers of Sims dormitory, elected last year, are president, Joyce Ayle of Gayce and vice-president, Joyce Goodnight of Gastonia.

Elaine Lennon of Anderson and Elaine Prestory of Mt. Pleasant have been appointed senior residence counselors for the fifth floor of S 4th Building.

Y Tells Arrangements For Bell Camp Picnic

The Freshman Y will hold a picnic Sunday, Nov. 28, at the R. G. Bell Camp.

Bus transportation will be provided. All picnickers are asked to meet in front of the Russell House at 2 p.m. Picnickers will be returned by 8 p.m.

There will be a bonfire, campfire stew, and marshmallows. The Rev. Jerry Hammett will hold the evening service.

Entertainment will include folk singing and guitar playing. The cost for non-members is only $55.

A table will be set up in the Russell House Monday through Wednesday, November 22-24. All those interested in attending may sign up for the picnic.

Freshman Y will hold its weekly meeting Nov. 22, at 1 p.m. in the Spanish Room of South Dormitory.

Committee chairmen will present progress reports on the picnic prepared.

The Freshman Y Thanksgiving project will be conducted Tuesday afternoon, November 23. All volunteers for this project should contact Rasty Ellerbu.

Department Of Economics Holds Lecture Seminar

The Department of Economics of the College of Business Administration has announced its first seminar in economics.

Professor William Emerson Schmidt, of the George Washington University Department of Economics, will be the guest lecturer at the seminar scheduled for Nov. 19.

Professor Schmidt has chosen for his topic "Debt, Default and Development."

Professor Schmidt is a scholar in the field of international economics and finance. He has appeared before the Joint Economic Committee of the Congress as an expert witness and is a noted speaker and teacher.

Professor Schmidt will present his topic in Room 205, Russell House, Nov. 19 at 3:15 p.m.

The department of economics invites all students to attend.

CLOBBER CLEMSON

Now! New Chevelle SS 396 by Chevrolet

New '66 Chevelle SS 396 Convertible and Sport Coupe.

Equipped with a Turbo-Jet 396 V8, special suspension and red stripe tires.

These cars weren't meant for the driver who is willing to settle for frills.

They're engineered from the chassis on up as no-compromise road machines.

Standard output of the new Turbo-Jet 396 V8—which powers both models—is 325 hp. This remarkably efficient power plant is also available in a 360-hp version.

So much for what happens on straightaways. How about curves? You ride on a special SS 396 chassis—with flat-cornering suspension and wide-base wheels.

A fully synchronized 3-speed transmission is standard. Or you can order a 4-speed or Powerglide—also Strato-bucket front seats, center console and full instrumentation.

Sound like a car you could get serious over? That, as you'll see at your dealer's, is precisely how Chevrolet engineers planned it. Seriously.
