

Shun Tainted Money.

William Jennings Bryan has praises for churches and colleges that refuse to take money that has been made by dishonest means. He spoke recently in the New National theater, Washington, D. C., under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. He took for his subject the "Prince of Peace."

"One of our rich men," he said, "has reached the point where he sometimes finds difficulty to find people to take his money. And that I regard as the best evidence of the growth of moral sentiment in this country. It means something when a great church pauses, hesitates, refuses to accept the money until it knows how it is made."

"I believe the time will come when churches and colleges will refuse to go into partnership in spending money immorally made. The influence of that public opinion will be powerful factor in the restoring of right eousness. These institutions should say to a man: 'You do not make your money honestly; we will not share the odium with you.'"

Was a Mad Man.

Champ Clark, of Missouri, made a speech at Des Moines, Iowa, the other evening, in the course of which he said that the half had not been told of the incidents at the Gridiron dinner at which Foraker and Roosevelt clashed at each other.

"I was sitting a little way from the president," he said, "and say, I have seen six men meet violent deaths at different times, but I never saw a madder man than Roosevelt was at that time in my whole life."

"If we compel the Harriman-Bliss-Odell gang to tell the truth about the campaign contributions, we would sweep the country. If we had a district attorney in New York that was worth powder and lead to blow him to hell, Sing Sing would be full of those thieving Republican bosses that their arms and legs would be sticking out of the windows."

Skill of the Ancients.

New York Press.

"We are losing all our secrets in this shabby age," an architect said. "If we keep on, the time will come when we'll be able to do nothing well."

"Take, for instance, steel. We claim to make good steel, yet the blades the Saracens turned out hundreds of years ago would cut one of our own blades in two like butter."

"Take ink. Our modern ink fades in five or ten years to rust color, yet the ink of mediæval manuscripts is as black and bright to-day as it was 700 years ago."

"Take dyes. The beautiful blues and reds and greens of antique oriental rugs have all been lost, while in Egyptian tombs we find fabrics dyed thousands of years ago that remain to-day brighter and purer in hue than any of our modern fabrics."

"Take my specialty, building. We can't build as the ancients did. The secret of their mortar and cement is lost to us. Their mortar and cement were actually harder and more durable than the stones they bound together, whereas ours—horror!"

Leave Them Outside.

Don't bring them into the lodge room,
Anger and spite and pride,
Drop at the gate of the temple
The strife of the world outside.
Forget all your cares and trials,
Forget every selfish sorrow,
And remember the cause you met for
And haste ye the glad to-morrow.

Drop at the gate of the temple
Envy and spite and gloom;
Don't bring personal quarrels
And discord into the room.
Forget the slights of a sister,
Forget the wrongs of a brother,
And remember the old commandment
That ye love one another.

Bring your heart into the lodge room,
But leave yourself outside—
That is, your personal feelings—
Ambition, vanity, pride.
Center each thought and power
On the cause for which you assemble:

Fetter the demon Discord
And make ye the monster tremble.

Aye, to fetter and chain him,
And cast him under your feet,
That in the end we aim at,
The object for which we meet.
Then don't bring into the lodge room
Envy or strife or pride,
Or aught that will mar our union,
But leave them all outside.

How to Run a Newspaper.

When a man goes astray,
Keep it out,
When the critic roasts a play,
Keep it out.
When two men in anger clash;
When a merchant goes to smash;
When the cashier steals the cash—
Keep it out.

When they quarrel in the church,
Keep it out.

When a teacher wields the birch,
Keep it out.

When nine women fair to see
Whisper something over tea—
Print it! Goodness, gracious me!
Keep it out.

When two statesmen make a deal,
Keep it out.

When another tries to steal,
Keep it out.

Stories thin and stories tall;
Good and bad and big and small—
Anything that's news at all—
Hear 'em shout:
"Keep it out!"

Found Out.

I think that there's but little room
For doubt, they're bride and groom.
She looks at him with so much pride,
It's certain she must be a bride.

And his adoring looks betray
His groomship—it's a give-away.

I notice, too, the lady's hat—
I'd want no better proof than that.

But taken with the lilac dress,
It puts the matter past a guess.

Then he's so natty and so trim
There's not the least mistaking him.

Their baggage! See the silver tag
That gleams upon the lady's bag.

His suit case! I've seen very few
So very yellow, fresh and new.

No ordinary married man
Would carry one so spick and span.

And—did you see him look at her
As they approached the register?

Just wait a little while and see
When she puts sugar in his tea.

There! That will shake your unbelief;
He's just picked up her handkerchief.

And note her sudden carnine bloom!
Sure bet they are bride and groom.

How a
Studebaker
Saves You
Money

THE way to figure the cost to you of a wagon, a carriage, a buggy or a set of harness—

Is to figure the cost per year as long as you use it.

If a farm wagon, for example, that costs you $60 lasts 20 years and requires only $2 repairs, the cost to you of that wagon is $3.10 a year.

If another wagon costs only $50, and lasts 10 years, and requires $10 worth of repairs, the cost to you is $6 a year, at least.

Which is the cheaper?

There is no doubt about the lasting qualities of Studebaker wagons, carriages and harness.

It's the material that goes into them—plus the way they are made.

Studebaker farm wagons have axles 3/4 inch deeper than others, made from selected butt-cut Black Hickory—air-dried from 3 to 5 years.

The axles are also re-inforced with a special bar of steel running from the heel of one skein to the other.

The Studebaker Patent Truss Skeins are made from cast iron having a transverse strength of over 3,000 pounds to the square inch—25% greater than the requirements of the United States Government—and probably 50% greater than the ordinary wagon.

The Studebaker hubs are large in diameter—furnishing a proper foundation for the spokes. They are treated with a secret solution, which greatly adds to their weather resisting qualities.

Studebaker is over-looked.

Do you wonder that it lasts?

Do you wonder that it is the wagon with a reputation behind it?

You cannot afford to buy a "cheap" wagon, when you can get the best for so little.

It is poor economy to be constantly paying out money for repair bills.

Pointed Paragraphs.

We are all happier for a lot of things we don't see.

Aid is never satisfactory. The best way is not to need it.

You probably expect more of a friend than you are willing to give.

The worry of to-day is usually the result of carelessness of yesterday.

Bravery isn't much credit to a bulldog. He hasn't sense enough to be afraid.

People would be less suspicious of others if they didn't know themselves so well.

The man who really knows a lot about women is usually willing to admit that he knows nothing.

No poor man has any business to marry a woman who has a man for making nothing out of something.

Even when a friend urgently requests you to point out his faults, don't do it if you value his friendship.

No storekeeper becomes so well acquainted with a customer that he likes to have him go behind his counter.

Compliments are like wine—it only takes a small dose to go to the heads of some people, while others can stand a good deal.

Every man ought to marry a woman who is a good manager, because few men are any good unless they are properly managed.

When a man's first baby arrives, he wants to treat all his friends; when the seventh comes along, he expects all his friends to treat him. —[Chicago News.

The Retort Courteous.

The Chicago Chronicle declares that President Roosevelt has been "greatly humiliated" by the compliments paid him by certain Democrats, notably John Temple Graves and Mr. Bryan. The Chronicle says: "President Roosevelt has not deserved the humiliation."

It must hurt the president terribly to hear a Democrat speak a good word for him occasionally. Perhaps he would like to have his compliments come exclusively from men who, like John R. Walsh, proprietor of the Chicago Chronicle, have been indicted over one hundred times for fraudulent transactions.

If Mr. Roosevelt can prosper with an everyday enthusiastic endorsement by Walsh, he should be able to survive an occasional word by humble Democrat.
