PICKENS, SOUTH CAROLINA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 15, 1907

NO. 12.

In Society's Whirl.

The most delightful place to visit is Mr. Legare's park, and what a grand view of the Blue Ridge we have from there! It is a picture one never tires of. Then there is the throng of happy young people who gather there in the afternoons and evenings to enjoy the many pleasures that our big-hearted congressman has prepared for them. There is a lovely skating-rink, a merry-go-round, a shoot-the-chute, a number of seesaws and swings, and even a spring-board, with a nice bed of sawdust, where the small boy may jump and roll to his heart's content. The people of Pickens will long remember the many happy hours they have spent in this beautiful playground this summer, and visitors will carry away with them many pleasant memories.

Monday evening the young people had a most delightful dance at the elegant summer home of Mr. Ben Hagood.

THE PAST AND PRESENT.

Mr. J. T. Price of Americus, Ga., is in the city for a few days, stopping to see some of his old friends before returning to his home from the mountains North Carolina, where he has been spending several weeks.

The aged parents of Mr. Price are still living at the old family homestead over in Pickens. They are not far from the hundred mark, but are hale and hardy. His father is Mr. T. R. Price.

Since he has been visiting among his relatives, Mr. Price has been counting up the number of living descendants of his parents and counting only grandchildren, great grandchildren and great-great grandchildren he has accounted for 195, and he is sure that there are more than 200 as there are some of the family out west whom they have not been in communication with in several years. Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Price have five children living. It is a large family and the members are scattered over about twenty states.—Greenville News 13th instant.

Mr. Price is well known to many of our older citizens, being at one time a member of the bar in Pickens but he gave up the law, studied telegraphy and has been following that avocation in Alabama and Georgia for the past twenty years. He is a brother of W. R. (Pete) Price. His many friends throughout the county will be glad to read the above notice of him.

C. H. Alexander Dead.

Our people were shocked beyond measure last Monday morning when the news came flying over town that Claude Alexander was dead. They were stunned by the intelligence and could not grasp the import.

Mr. Alexander died in a sanitarium in Asheville, N. C., where he had been for about ten days in quest of health, but all that could be done for him was of no avail.

Claude Hagood Alexander was a son of P. McD. and M. E. Alexander and was about 33 years of age. He was raised in Pickens and received his early training at the common schools here, later graduating at the College of Charleston. He read law in Washington and was admitted to practice but did not follow his profession.

A few years ago he was married to Mrs. Laura Hagood O'Neal, of Birmingham, Ala., and his wife and two children and his mother and one brother survive him.

He was a young man who had a large circle of friends and was universally liked by all who knew him, and they, with heavy hearts, will drop a tear to the memory of C. H. Alexander.

His death has brought the bitter cup of sorrow to the lips of friends and relatives.

It is sad at any time to stand beside the bed of the dying and watch life's ebbing tide drifting the loved one slowly, perhaps, but surely, into the great ocean of eternity. We cannot meet the pain of parting with some degree of fortitude; but the sting of death, in all of its agonizing features, bursts upon us in all of its horror when we part with a loved one in the rosy flush of life and receive them back in the cold embrace of that grim monster, Death. None but those who have sat in the shadow of a great bereavement can justly weigh such a sorrow as this.

The silver cord is loosed, the golden bowl is broken, the dust has returned to the earth as it was; the spirit has returned to the God who gave it.

The devoted boy who remembered his Creator in the days of his youth, ere the evil days came, or the years drew nigh when he should say "I have no pleasure in them," has finished his course and reached the heavenly goal while yet an infant in the race of life.

The last services were held at the home of his mother on Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock, Rev. J. F. Matheson officiating, and at 6 o'clock at the Hagood family burying ground the mortal remains of our friend and neighbor were lowered to his final resting place, to calmly await the reward of a just God.

To the broken-hearted mother, brother, wife and little children, who sit in sorrow where his footsteps shall never again find echo, we extend our heartfelt sympathy. When they have drained the cup may the peace that passeth all understanding come to them from One who cares for each little sparrow that falls.

Liberty.

Mrs. D. H. Davis, who has been quite sick for some time, is better, and hopes are entertained for a complete recovery.

Several visitors are now entertained by our citizens in and around town. Mrs. M. E. Bontwright and Mrs. Edith Leonard, of Polzer, are visiting relatives in the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Bluford Alexander paid a visit to the family of W. J. Boggs last week.

Miss Lucille Thomas, of Atlanta, has been a guest at the Brown house several weeks. Many more visitors the writer would report if she had their names.

The meeting at the Baptist church is still in progress, with eight additions to the membership so far. Rev. Garner is a consecrated Christian and has preached several plain, earnest sermons, and has made Christ and His love and willingness to save—all who put their trust in Him—as the main basis of his arguments. Such sermons cannot fail to bear fruit.

I heard a mother some time ago ask her son of perhaps 18 summers why he didn't take an active interest in church work? "Why, mother, don't you know that all they (meaning the old church members) want us to do is to help when there is any money to be raised? We haven't got sense enough—so they think—to do anything else," replied the young man. Not long after that I was at church where they were electing delegates to a religious gathering when, to my surprise, out of nine or ten delegates, not one young man was on the list. I said perhaps my young friend was right—they didn't want them only when they wanted money. I think the church is doing a great wrong when they do not couple the youthful energy with its gray haired wisdom in church work. But dear young people, do not let that deter you from doing something to help relieve distress and bring sunshine into some life. I think if the young were allowed to spend part of the money they contribute in helping to relieve distress in their own town and community, they would give more freely. Many a nickel's worth of candy or gum would be dispensed with if they could see where the money went, instead of sending it off to China or Africa. Now, don't think that I am against foreign missions, for I am not; indeed, there is no stronger advocate of foreign missions than I. Did you ever notice how much more enthusiastically young people work when they can see the "fruit"? Perhaps there is some one sick, and he or she cannot afford the necessary nourishment and ice or lemons, perhaps fuel and clothing are needed. Now, my young friends, here is where you can go ahead without the consent of the Solomons of the church. Tell the needy ones that you are all banded together to do sunshine work, and that you would take it as a pleasure to be allowed to help. Another way is to send good literature to those who are not likely to receive any except it be given. Not the least among the things you can do is to make the stranger welcome to your church. Do you not recall a time when you, too, was at a strange church, and how much "at home" you would have felt had some one spoken to you and given you a hymn book, and after service told you to come again?

I will desist, hoping that an abler pen will take up this subject and do it justice. DREAMER.

Men Past Sixty in Danger.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of the prostate glands. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of these diseases. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rockport, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 91 years old."
