Farmers' Union Bureau of Information.

Conducted by the South Carolina Farmers' Educational and Co-Operative Union. Communications intended for this department should be addressed to J. C. Stribling, endleton, South Carolina.

HUSH! LISTEN! THE MINIMUM PRICE OF COTTON.

When the wires begin to ring out the minimum prices of cotton let everybody join in a regular swan song to stand for the minimum price and all will be well for the whole South.

Before you offer a resolution that is likely to revolutionize things to any considerable extent ask yourself if it is right. And then the second thought—can it be done?

Just so sure as there is a good time and place to begin; there is a good time and place to stop in everything. It is stated that the good wife of a Farmers' Union man gave birth to three sons in one day. At the next meeting of the local union a committee was appointed to enquire of the brother if he meant to go out and possess the earth for himself and family, or did he intend this three at a time as a mild protest against foreign immigration? At last account the committee was not in shape to report.

Oh, no! When your local was organized the thing was not finished. You were not organized for the purpose of passing a few strong resolutions to bluff the other fellow, but to co-operate with each other for the good of all. Organization without co-operation is something like spending a lot of time putting on style and losing lots of sleep and other things too numerous to mention to win your position, and then for the lack of grit and pluck, let some other fellow take the prize.

"Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." You need not fool yourself by thinking that since you have knocked out the bucket shops, bully-ragged the cotton speculator, bluffed the New York Cotton Exchange and fly-blown the Government Cotton reports, that you can now retire to your homes in peace and plenty; you must keep at it all the while looking for the same old enemies to poke out their heads in any new place. Keep your organizations strong and steady to deal a deadly blow to these snake heads every time they peep out of the bog below.

TEN YEARS IN BED.

"For ten years I was confined to my bed with disease of my kidneys," writes R. A. Gray, J. P., of Oakville, Ind. It was so severe that I could not move part of the time. I consulted the very best medical skill available, but could get no relief until Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me. It has been a God-send to me."

Union Meeting

The union meeting of the Pickens association will meet with Griffin church on Saturday before the fifth Sunday in this month, full delegations are requested from all the churches.

Devotional exercises at 10 o'clock. First question, "How can we get church members to attend Saturday meetings?" Opened by Jesse J. Lewis. Second question, "Has Foreign Missions been a success as conducted by the Gospel Mission plan?" Opened by J. H. Miller. Other questions will be discussed as time permits.

The pleasant purgative effect experienced by all who use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and the healthy condition of the body and mind which they create makes one feel joyful. Price, 25 cents. Sample free at Pickens Drug Co.

Harris Reunion.

The Hiawatha Hotel was the meeting place of a merry party both old and young last Saturday Sept. 14th. The occasion was the birthday of Mrs. M. J. Harris. For several years it has been the custom of the family to get together and enjoy the hearthstone of childhood once again.

There are only two boys and they alternate in making their homes the scene of this happy event.

The day was very pleasant all through but the energy with which that excellent dinner was attacked showed that this feature was by no means lacking in interest, and well might it not be, for, a long table under the cool shade of the oaks was laden with delicate dishes and sweet meats to suit the most exacting tastes. The cooks, it appeared, were quite satisfied with the justice done to the meal, and the guests were delighted with the flavor of various salads, sauces and sweets.

In the afternoon the company assembled in the parlour and sang by request, "Shall We Gather at the River?" with other songs, after which Scriptures were read and prayer was offered.

It was a most enjoyable day, and those present went home feeling that it was good for them to have the privilege of going up to the Hiawatha that day.

Those present were: Mrs. M. J. Harris, T. D. Harris and family, J. D. Harris and family, of Greenville, Mrs. John Harris with her husband, son Roscoe and niece Miss Alice Baird, Mrs. Annie A. Turner and son; Mrs. Maggie L. Fowler and three children; Mrs. W. A. Cason, husband and son; Mrs. O. H. Jounston and two children; Mrs. Francis LeRoy, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Hendricks, Dave Harris of Gray Court; Mrs. W. Jones and Revs. S. P. McCarty and D. D. Jones.

WHAT A NEW JERSEY EDITOR SAYS.

M. T. Lynch, Editor of the Phillipsburg, N. J., Daily Post, writes: "I have used many kinds of medicines for colds and coughs in my family but never anything so good as Foley's Honey and Tar cannot say too much in favor of it."

Card of Thanks.

Words cannot express our appreciation of those friends who have shared the lonely vigils and stood watch in the valley of the shadow of the great sorrow that has come upon us. No sweeter memory can live in any heart than the memory of their untiring devotion to the one who has left us. The waves of sorrow break upon every shore, and we hope that friends as true may gather around them should sorrow invade their homes.

H. W. Farr.

Roadside Wit.

He who matched wits with the author of "The Ancient Mariner" had indeed a lively task before him, for Coleridge was never caught napping. The poet was so awkward a horseman that his riding often attracted comment of anything but a complimentary nature. One day he was riding along the turnpike road in the county of Durham when a wag who met him fastened upon him as an excellent subject for sport. Consequently he drew rein and said in an impertinent drawl:

"My graceful friend, did you happen to meet a tailor on the road?"

"I'm inclined to think I did," said Coleridge meditatively. "I was not sure at the moment, but he said something about my meeting a goose farther along the road."

The wag put spurs to his horse, and the poet jogged calmly on his way.

Past Salaries of Actors.

A number of autograph letters of Edmund Kean supply some interesting information about the salaries of actors early in the nineteenth century. One relates to an offer by Mr. Ellison offering Kean £3 a week as acting manager of "the new theater in Wych street." Later this rose to £25 a month. In 1826 Kean was offered $12,000 a year to go to America. In the prime of his popularity he received £200 for a week in Edinburgh and apparently reached the highest point when Mr. Bunn wrote from the Theater Royal, Dublin, on Feb. 8, 1829, and offered him £50 a night to play in Dublin and Cork.—Liverpool Mercury.

Home Influences.

Each one of us is bound to make the little circle in which he lives better and happier; each one of us is bound to see that out of that small circle the widest good may flow; each of us may have fixed in his mind the thought that out of a single household may flow influences which shall stimulate the whole commonwealth and the whole civilized world.—Dean Stanley.

Got Too Important.

"What has become of the maid you thought such a prize?" "Oh, I had to let her go!" replied the second fashionable woman. "After her operation for appendicitis she thought she was one of us."—Philadelphia Ledger.
