Shall These Orphans Have a Thanksgiving?

Dr. Jacobs of the Thornwell Orphanage, Clinton, S. C., writes:

"A little child alone in the world, its bright black eyes filled with tears, came to me held by the hand of a good woman. Only five years old, fatherless, motherless, she finds herself after a long ride on the cars, under the care of a friendly traveler, at the door of the Orphanage. But poor little thing, she knows nothing of where she is, does not even know the place from which she came; she has her name written on a slip of paper as an introduction to the kind friends who are hereafter to care for her. She brings a little package under her arms—it is her all of worldly goods. So it was only a few weeks ago, but now how different. Tears are dried. She is opening her bright eyes to the lessons that come to her daily. Falling into the routine of chapel and school and dinner and play, she is waking up, her young soul is speaking through lips and fingers and feet and dimpled cheek. Someone now loves the little girl. Someone puts her to sleep at night after her lips have whispered, 'Our Father.' She is finding a home, she is finding herself, she will some day find God."

This little child was welcomed to the loving care of the Thornwell Orphanage. Every one of the 250 children in the school of that institute have had more or less of the same experience. It is true that between them and grim necessity, there is to-day a strong wall of defence. But the people who love God and little children are that wall. The Orphanage is under Presbyterian control but it is for all orphans. It turns note away because of its father's faith. There are 158 orphans from South Carolina under its care, 62 from Georgia, 23 from Florida and the rest from ten other Southern states. Not one has a living father.

Send gifts of provisions or money to the Thornwell Orphanage, Clinton, S. C., making checks payable to Dr. Jacobs.

Out of the $1,975,174,091 gross earnings of all the railroads in the United States in the last year of interstate commerce record, $41,875,636 was from the express business. On this traffic the public paid tolls to the express companies of something like $83,750,000.

Easley, Route 2.

As no one but myself ever writes from here, I will occasionally let you know that some of us still live. And probably it will not interest many of your readers to know who is visiting in this neighborhood, so I will write on another subject.

Well, have been imitating the lives of my grandfathers. I killed a goat, a sheep, a hog, and one of my neighbors sent me a quarter of fine beef, and I ordered three gallons of Bourbon, and have been having my "nog" three times a day and oftener, and in the meantime I got tired of meat and ordered fish, oysters, etc. So my "nog" gave out, and I awakened from my Rip Vanwinkle sleep, and my hands told me they had every crib full of corn and not near done gathering, and when I went to sleep I only had 16 hogs, and when I awoke I had 26; also more goats and more cattle, and the boys had been taking in new money.

So I commenced asking myself questions. I thought I ought to be the competent one, as I had my brain washed up, rested and nourished, so I answered the questions in rotation satisfactory to myself—I had better stop before I answer unsatisfactory to some one else.

But—we will have three months more of good times.

An Appeal for the "Bread Line."

The Bowery Mission, "Bread Line," at which 1,000 men who are out in the streets for the night are given a breakfast of hot coffee and rolls every morning at one o'clock, is one of the most athletic sights in all the wide, wide world. Long before the hour of opening, these poor, starving men stand in a single line that sometimes extends for blocks in length, waiting for the coffee and rolls. During the last winter this breakfast was given to a total of 144,000 homeless men and boys and up to date nearly half a million of the homeless have had their weary tramp restfully interrupted by this unique ministrations. The first of these breakfasts is given on Thanksgiving morning, and the last one on the following Easter morning. Altogether the Mission supplied, this year, over 233,000 meals and 10,072 lodgings to homeless men and boys.

It is for this grand philanthropic work that we ask your kind and practical co-operation. The homeless, friendless, disheartened men and boys of the Bowery are not native New Yorkers, but men and boys who, until within a year, lived happily at the old homestead with father and mother and perhaps wife. They are stranded here, and in despair appeal to the Old Bowery Mission, which, for over thirty years, has been to the unfortunate, as the rescue cities of old, a haven of encouragement, rest and protection. Shall we turn them away? It rests with the good people of this country to decide this question, and may God graciously help you to decide it aright.—John O. Earle, Financial Secretary, 92 Bible House, New York City.

Gospel Mission Mass Meeting.

Prater's Creek Baptist church has called a mass meeting of all the co-operating churches in church and mission work to meet with them on Saturday before the first Sunday and the first Sunday in December 1907, for prayer and counsel and to study the word of God, for advice and information and to agree upon a plan for the work for 1908 in church and mission work. All the co-operating churches will please note this call and send messengers to meet with us, and all other Baptist churches and individual members who want information on this direct or Scriptural plans of the church and mission work, have a special invitation to attend this meeting and let us reason together and search the Scriptures for information as to how the Lord would have His work done and let us take the counsel of Jeremiah, "Stand ye in the ways and see, and ask for the old paths where is the good way and walk therein and ye shall find rest for your souls."

Eld G. P. Bostick a returned missionary from China who is now in the home land will be with us as will other brethren from abroad.

Done in church conference and signed by order of the same.

The postal service of the government was carried on at a net loss of $10,542,941.76, for the year ending June 30, 1906.

A society writer in a Sunday Journal finds that there are "countless American girls worth millions." And the longer they remain countless and dunceless the happier and the richer they will be.

It is not hard to believe that there are men in this country who would be willing to pay handsomely for the purpose of showing that the government had failed miserably in operating its postal system.

Practically all the great railroad corporations of America are reported to have decided to increase the wages of employees. The aggregate increase will amount to about $100,000,000. Such an advance in wages is demanded by the increase in the cost of living.

One half of the world doesn't care a straw how the other half lives, or dies either for that matter. Supreme selfishness and grasping after the almighty dollar are the motives that rule two-thirds of mankind to-day.

The President gets a salary of only $50,000 a year, and when it was proposed to make an annual appropriation of $25,000 for traveling expenses a storm of protest was raised. The New York Commercial says the traveling expenses of Emperor William cost the German government fully $500,000 a year.
