

ARE YOU HARD TO PLEASE?

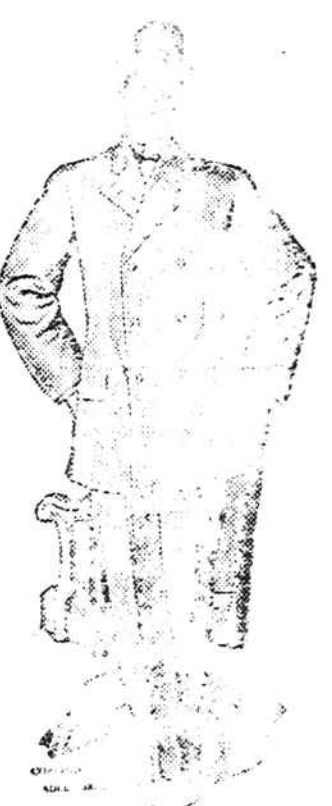

Let us array you in one of our many new styles handled by us of some of the most famous manufacturers, and lead you to a mirror.

You look at your reflection—and the hard-to-please disappears at once.

We have dealt with lots of men who came to us skeptical of our ability to satisfy them with ready-made clothes.

They are regular customers now; once you wear our clothes, is enough to kill all prejudice. The spring styles are very sensible and attractive.

We have tried to consult all tastes in making our selections, and we believe we have succeeded.

Be you easy or hard to please, we stand ready to give you our best service.

Look into our show windows, you will see there a display of new models from some of the foremost makers, they represent the latest fashions, and you will spot them at once as winners.

Major Bradley, who was an interesting character in the history of South Carolina, was nearly seventy years old, and had been in declining health for a year.

Peace to his ashes.

GEORGE LEGARE GETTING WELL.
He is Coming Home Soon, But Must Take Care of Himself for a While.

The announcement, made in a letter to The News and Courier from the chaplain of the United States Army General Hospital at Fort Bayard, New Mexico, that George Legare is almost restored to health again, and that he will return to South Carolina before very long, will bring the most genuine pleasure to thousands of people in this State. Congressman Legare's work has not suffered.

CONFEDERATE

MINENT IN POLITICAL LIFE OF THE STATE

Resident of Pickens County.—Been in Declining Health For a Number of Years.—Of Much Influence in Political Life of South Carolina.

News reached Pickens Tuesday morning of the death of David Franklin Bradley, of this county, his demise occurring at his home in Easley that morning at about two o'clock.

Mr. Bradley was one of the best known and highest esteemed citizens of the state and has played a great and important part in the development of the state of South Carolina. During war days and immediately following the war and on down, until the time he retired from the active work of the State Mr. Bradley was one of the foremost characters in South Carolina.

Washington this winter, but because everybody loves him personally there will be general rejoicing that he is fast recovering his health, and now needs only to regain his strength to be his normal self again. However, the chaplain writes more to offer a word of timely warning to Mr. Legare's friends. His letter follows:

To the Editor of The News and Courier; If the unforeseen does not occur, we shall ere long restore to the nation, to the State of South Carolina, to the City of Charleston, to his family and to a host of friends, your distinguished fellow citizen, the Hon. George S. Legare.

He did not come here a moment too soon, and he has made splendid progress towards permanent recovery. He has been up and about for some time and is getting on beautifully. But being solicitous for his welfare I would write a word of caution to the public reached by your paper. What has been done may be easily undone by excitement and by a too early return to the exertions of social, political and official life. Mr. Legare's trouble was not contracted in a day, but was the result of long confinement indoors and deficient ventilation in crowded halls. Full strength may be expected to return slowly.

We love this genial Southern gentleman, and you and we would have him long spared to the service of his country, family and friends.

Dear people of Charleston, please be considerate of this princely man lest in your joy and thanksgiving over his return you unintentionally do him much harm. He may look well and be much less strong than he appears to be.

You can best show your regard for him and his family by permitting him to remain in comparative quiet for some months after his return.

He has won all hearts here; he has been a model patient and has made it his religious duty to get well, and so far as human skill can see at present, he has succeeded.

Our country has always suffered from the lack of a sufficient number of just such men as George S. Legare.

He will be coming home some

Cleo Mann, one of our promising young men, and who graduated in the Pickens High School recently, is spending his vacation with home-folks.

Mrs. A. A. Baker of Pickens has returned home after a ten days visit with relatives here.

Several are anticipating attending the all-day singing at Pleasant Hill first Sunday in July.

Born unto Mr. and Mrs. Barney R. Parrott, on the 15th inst, a son.

T. J. Patterson, of Oconee was through here on business recently.

Miss Berta Jones of Central, R. 2, visited relatives here last week.

Born unto Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Evans on the 28th a son.

Don't forget the big Sunday School picnic here on July the 10th.

Catechee.
The Catechee ball team has again gained the victory. On last Saturday (12th inst.) they crossed bats with Clemson and after one of the most interesting games of the season the game ended 6 to 5 in favor of Catechee. It was a close game from start to finish and one in which every one present seemed to take a deep interest in. Part of the Clemson team were Clemson Cadets and they certainly know how to play ball, but the Catechee team left home to gain the victory and they gained it.

They desire to thank the umpire for his impartiality as he certainly did keep a straight record.

Pendleton and Catechee are scheduled to play a game Saturday July 3rd, on latter's diamond. If Catechee can still hold her own she expects to form a league team by another season. Success to you boys.

On last Saturday 12th inst., Mrs. Scott Youngblood died suddenly at her home near Catechee about 11 a. m. Your correspondent has not been able to learn the particulars but from the information at hand Mrs. Youngblood was preparing dinner and all at once complained of feeling bad, lay down on bed and died. She leaves an infant just four weeks old. The deceased was oldest daughter of Mr. Joe Crow, of Liberty, and was only about 21 or 22 years

God bless him, his family and the good people of Charleston.

The Rev. C. C. Bateman, Chaplain United States Army, United States Army General Hospital, Fort Bayard, New Mexico, June 14, 1909.

Six Mile Items
There will be preaching services here next second Saturday and Sunday by our regular pastor, Rev. W. M. Walker.

The Six Mile school will open at an early date under the skillful management of Perry Durham as teacher. Prof. Durham is a highly recommended teacher throughout this county and we hope for a successful term of school.

On Saturday June the 12, Mrs. Lula Youngblood, wife of Scotland Youngblood died at her home near Catechee after a few hours illness of paralysis of the heart. She got up in the morning feeling as well as usual except a slight headache and was engaged in her household duties, and her husband left and went to work in a field near by, but didn't return till dinner and when he came he found her on the bed unconscious. Dr. Woodruff was summoned and she died in a short while afterwards. She leaves a devoted husband, two children, the youngest an infant four weeks old, and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her death. Her remains were laid to rest in the Six Mile cemetery on Sunday at eleven o'clock in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends. Rev. W. M. Walker conducted the funeral services in a very impressive manner.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Stone, of Independence, Ark., is on an extended visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Merck and other relatives in and around Six Mile.

Mrs. D. H. Kennemur Sr., of Kings is spending a fortnight pleasantly at the home of her daughter Mrs. Mary Parrott.

Archie White of near West Union, was a visitor in our burg recently.

Miss Dena and Louiza Mauldin accompanied by their little nephew, George Mauldin, of Gap Hill, visited friends here the latter part of last week.

... he went to Florida from which state he entered the Confederate service in April 1864. He was a member of Company "A" Second Florida Regiment, known as the Pensacola Rifle Rangers. He served in this regiment until the battle of the Wilderness, when he lost his arm. After this misfortune, he remained in the hospital for a month. He was assigned to duty in the enrolling department of Florida, but while enroute he was intercepted by General Sherman and forced to return home. In 1865 Mr. Bradley resumed his studies in school and until 1868 he studied and taught alternately. In 1868 he was elected School Commissioner of Pickens county in which capacity he served for six years. Later he helped to found the Pickens Sentinel of which he was sole editor until 1885. In 1874 Mr. Bradley was elected to the legislature where he served two terms, and in 1878 he was elected to the State Senate. To him, during his legislative term fell the lot of making this a prohibition county, and from, and by, that one act, the state of South Carolina, has, on divers time, tried to make of the Pickens county prohibition law a state law. To him also, is the state indebted for the "no fence" or "stock law," a measure which he formulated and put through as a local measure, applicable only to Pickens county, but its good effects were seen by other counties and later it was made a state law. To this act alone, is the state indebted for its first advancement and continued improvement as a producer of fine stock—horses, cattle and hogs. Before the passage of that act the stock was turned out on the "range" and allowed to shift for itself. But after its passage all stock had to be fenced up. This necessitated feeding, and feeding brought on good stock until now this state produces as good stock as can be found in the United States. He was appointed by President Cleveland because of his ability to the office of Internal Revenue Collector, for South Carolina in the year, 1885, and he served in this office for four years. He was a member of the penitentiary directors of South Carolina, and during the last three years he served he was chairman of that body. He was
