

The First Day of the Fair.

Notwithstanding the bad condition of the weather, the Fair opened yesterday under very favorable circumstances. The number of entries amounted to nine hundred and fifty-eight, and the articles on exhibition are very good. The greatest display is in the Stock department, the department which the country at large is most interested in, and the cultivation of which is chiefly calculated to develop general prosperity. There is a considerable sprinkling of blooded stock both among horses and cattle. The display of South Carolina raised horses is fine; the colts especially. The next highest number of entries is in field crops and vegetables, —100 entries. As you enter the first floor you find cotton in bales, cotton stalks, (some six feet high raised on upland,) pumpkins of wonderful size, huge beets, (no "dead beets,") a splendid collection of second crop Irish potatoes, sugar cane grown in this county, that looks like it might have been grown in Florida, rice grown in Newberry, cabbages, and many other things too numerous to mention—all well worth seeing, showing what wonders can be accomplished on our lands by proper cultivation. Up stairs is the display of household and fancy articles. &c.,—pickles, wines, lard, vinegar, soap, jellies, preserves, cake, bread, in delightful profusion. And then the fancy needle work—one could linger over this for hours, and could almost wish he were a woman that he might make such pretty things. Some of these are nearly as pretty as the dear creatures themselves. Could we say more?

It's an abrupt change; but the display of sheep, goats, swine and poultry is first rate. Indeed all departments are well and fully represented.

Personal.

Dr. J. W. Folk, of Jalapa, made thirty-eight entries.

Mr. C. H. Beard, of the Columbia Register, is writing up the Fair for his excellent paper.

Senator Lipscomb is attending the Fair, having almost recovered from his recent severe illness.

Dr. D. S. Pope, of Columbia, is on hand. He brought up a splendid sample of brooms, palmetto hats and other things to exhibit from the State Penitentiary.

Between six and seven hundred people were on the grounds yesterday. The ladies were out in large numbers. They are taking a great interest in the Fair, and this fact insures success.

There was a general exhibition of stock yesterday in the ring, but no competition. The judges go regularly to work this morning.

DRY GOODS.

The BULLETIN will, during the Fair, contain column after column of advertisements, each advertiser claiming to have the best and the cheapest. I am not a magician, and in spite of modern improvements, have no private method of importing goods from the moon or from any other planet, nor have I discovered the secret of making money by selling all goods at less than cost. And yet the comparison of my prices with those of other houses, as well as the unbiased remarks of customers, firmly convinces me that for GENERAL SHOPPING, my establishment is superior to any in Newberry. The Departments are all full. My Mammoth Stock comprises DRY GOODS, BOOTS and SHOES, CLOTHING, HATS, CROCKERY, TRUNKS, SADDLES, HARNESS, &c. FANCY GOODS and NOTIONS a specialty. Particular attention is called to the Department of DRESS GOODS and LADIES' CLOAKS. A lot of Horse Covers at $1.50 each. A visit of inspection, entailing no obligation to purchase, is cordially extended to all.
