Cavillettes Start New Season; Strong Outlook

By Clark Meadors

The Piedmont Girls Softball league has been reorganized with four teams and the possibility of two others entering the fold. The league season will open around April 20.

Teams making up the league this year include Whitmire, Joanna, Watts Mill and Clinton. There is a possibility that Laurens will re-enter and that the City of Clinton will enter a team.

The Cavillettes began practice March 18 and are rounding into fine shape. They will have most of the girls back from last year's championship team with the exception of Ruth Vincent and Betty Samples who now are overage.

The Cavillettes appear to be another hard hitting and fast fielding team. The fielding should be better than last year's, and the pitching should be stronger. The batting attack should be stronger, although the heavy bat of Ruth Vincent will be missed. Ruth hit 16 homeruns for the Cavillettes last year.

The Cavillettes will open the pennant chase at home this year. Come out and see some good games as these girls try to extend a 28-game winning streak started last season.

Easter Services Held At Clinton

All churches in the Clinton community observed Easter with special services.

A pageant, "He Lives," was given at the First Pentecostal Holiness Church. "The Way of the Cross," another beautiful Easter pageant, was presented at Bailey Memorial Church under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Hamilton, Mrs. J. B. Snelgrove and Miss Roberta Chaney.

Special Easter music featured services at Calvary Baptist Church during both the morning and evening services.

Tour Of Gardens Most Interesting

A large group of Clinton-Lydia ladies left their husbands and boy friends this past month and toured off to the Charleston Gardens under the leadership of Mrs. Ione Wallace and the expert drivership of Ott Thomas in the Clinton-Lydia bus.

It was a wonderful trip, all agreed, and a complete tour of Charleston was enjoyed on top of the Azalea Gardens. One of the high spots was a complete tour of one of the U. S. Navy's Minesweepers escorted by officers. A moving picture was made of the trip by Mrs. Wallace which will be available for showing very soon.

Those taking the trip included Lillian Wallenzine, Christine Gray, Margaret Wallenzine, Myrtle Wallenzine, Mrs. Vashti Ledford, Daisy Ledford, Mrs. S. B. Snelgrove, Mrs. Harry Foster, Edna Smith, Joan Harriet Paige, Joan Suttles, Louise Meadors, Jovce Mitchell, Jo Ann Pruitt, Betty Jo Foshee, Mrs. Henry Suttles, Patsy Lancaster and Marion Mitchell.

Our news report did not include the activities of the men folks while the ladies were away.

Nurses Of Both Communities Play Important Roles To All

Everyone at Clinton and Lydia Cotton Mills knows our two registered nurses, Mrs. Myrtle K. West at the Clinton Clinic, and Mrs. Carolyn K. Inglett, at the Lydia Clinic. Many of us have become so used to the many humanitarian services performed by these two fine women, however, that we do not realize just how much they do accomplish for employees and for everyone living in the two villages.

Mrs. West and Mrs. Inglett render a valuable service to employees and their families by the many extra duties they cheerfully and willingly perform in order that good health can be maintained by the breadwinner of the family, and the peace of mind to the worker who knows that his children and other dependents will receive the best of first-aid attention and treatment in case of an accident, or as an aid to better health.

The nurses are constantly giving shots for colds, painting sore throats, planning diets for weight reduction, watching and advising on high and low blood pressure, dermatitis or skin treatments, athlete's foot, vitamin shots, diathermy treatments for sore or bruised areas, burns and other ailments that occur in the normal routine of living today.

These services for ailments from non-occupational causes are rendered always under the direction and advice of the medical doctors that give our people such valuable assistance.

As both of our nurses are part and parcel of our com-

Cavaliers Again To Field Team In New League

Baseball will be with us again this year at Clinton-Lydia but the Cavaliers will be playing in the Palmetto League instead of the Central Carolina loop which folded.

The announcement was made during the past month after weeks and weeks of negotiations between various potential members of the Palmetto and former Central Carolina leagues.

Practice for the Cavaliers started March 30 under the management of Will "Bad Eye" Hampton with about 20 local boys out for practice. As we went to press, all positions were wide open but it seemed likely that the veteran catcher, Ralph Roberts, would resume his duties at the backstop.

Playing in the league with Clinton will be Fountain Inn, Fork Shoals and Watts Mill in a two-game per week schedule. Thirty games will be played with the season opening April 22. There will be a reduced admission to games this year but the price had not been established at the Clothmaker's deadline.

Plan now to attend every game and give these young boys the support they deserve. You will see some real "heads-up" baseball, according to Manager "Bad Eye."
