Campbell Ends Record Work Career At Clinton Mills

Toby, as he is called by his friends and fellow employees, began his work career at Clinton Mills in January, 1922. He was 14 at the time.

Following a tradition set by his father and grandfather, Campbell likes to tell that "I've never worked anywhere but Clinton Mills."

For the senior service Clinton supply room employee, times have changed significantly since the early days when he hauled quills for $9.17 in a 60-hour week. "By today's standards, that's not much, but in 1922, that was the most money I'd ever seen."

Campbell had worked on numerous spare jobs before transferring to supply 54 years ago.

"I've worked under numerous superintendents, plant managers and plant engineers," recalled Campbell.

In addition, "I've worked under all five company presidents: M. S., W. J. and P.S. Bailey, Robert M. Vance and George Cornelson."

"You've got to feel close to the company when you've been around as long as I have. I grew up in the plants and the community. I've never lived beyond walking distance to the plants," Campbell said.

Toby has two sons, both Clinton employees. Terry is Assistant Plant No. 2 Weaving Superintendent and Silas is Director of Plant Engineering.

Gladys Hughes recently retired from Plant No. 2 after 33 continuous years service. Gladys is shown with numerous retirement gifts from her fellow Cloth Room employees.
