Declaration of the Allied Sovereigns.

“Now that the pacification of Europe is accomplished by the resolution of withdrawing the foreign troops from the French territory; and now that there is an end of those measures of precaution which deplorable events had rendered necessary, the ministers and plenipotentiaries of their majesties the Emperor of Austria, the King of France, the King of Great Britain, the King of Prussia, and the Emperor of all the Russians, having received orders from their Sovereigns, to make known to all the Courts of Europe the results of their meeting at Aix-la-Chapelle, and with that view to publish the following declaration: The convention of the 9th of October, which definitely regulated the execution of the engagements agreed to in the treaty of peace in November 20, 1815, is considered by the sovereigns who concurred therein, as the accomplishment of the work of peace, and as the completion of the political system destined to insure its solidity. The intimate union established among the Monarchs, who are joint parties to this system, by the interests of their people offers to Europe the most sacred pledge of its future tranquility. The object of this union is as simple as it is great and salutary. It does not tend to any new political combination—to any change in the relations sanctioned by existing treaties. Calm and consistent in its proceedings, it has no other object than the maintenance of peace, and the security of those transactions on which the peace was founded and consolidated. The Sovereigns, in forming this august union, have regarded as its fundamental basis, their invariable resolution never to depart, either among themselves, or in their relations with other states, from the strictest observation of the principles of the right of nations; permanent peace, can alone effectually guarantee the independence of each government, and the stability of the general association. Faithful to these principles, the Sovereigns will maintain them equally in those meetings at which they may be personally present, or in those which shall take place among their ministers; whether it shall be their object to discuss in common their own interests, or whether they shall take cognizance of questions in which other governments shall formally claim their interference.

“The same spirit which will direct their council, and reign in their diplomatic communications shall preside also, at these meetings; and the repose of the world shall be constantly their motive and their end. It is with such sentiments that the Sovereigns have consummated the work to which they were called. They will not cease to labor for its confirmation and perfection. They solemnly acknowledge, that their duties towards God and the people whom they govern, make it peremptory on them to give to the world, as far as in their power an example of justice, of concord, of moderation; happy in the power of consecrating, from henceforth, all their efforts to the protection of the acts of peace, to the increase of the internal prosperity of their states and to the awakening of those sentiments of religion and morality, whose empire has been but too much encroached by the misfortunes of the times.”
Aix-la-Chapelle, Nov. 15, 1818.

Extract from a letter received in this city, dated

“LIVERPOOL, Dec. 7, 1818.
“We again call your attention to the custom of putting ropes around square bales of Cotton, without bonification of tare, and once for all recommend you not to purchase, at any time, a single bale ornamented with these trappings; on account of which you suffer a deduction in every market in Europe, of not less than a pound for each rope, and frequently more. We have observed the number of ropes increase annually, from two to four, and even five, and should not be surprised to see the planters surround their bales with six or seven, till they resemble a package of India Cotton, (on which 16lbs. are allowed for ropes) unless your merchants oppose the novelty, which only requires two or three years to become the custom of the port of Charleston. Thirty cents is too advantageous a price for hemp and wood, not to be noticed; supposing the bale to have two ropes, your loss in weight is.

Two lbs. at 30 cents; 60
Freight at 2 cts. duty at 2 cts. 8

68 cents

On the same, four ropes give a loss of $1 36, and six ropes of $2 04, or about 1 cent per lb.”—C. Times.

Expedition to the Yellow Stone.

Advices from Fort Osage, inform us that the expedition had arrived at that place, without accident, and would proceed one or two hundred miles further up the Missouri this winter. Fort Osage is three hundred miles by water above the mouth of the Missouri, and is the present limit of our population to the west. The safety with which the expedition, consisting of ten boats has ascended this stream, is an evidence that the danger of navigating that river is more imaginary than real.—Several boats, carrying provisions to the Yellow Stone, have passed St. Louis within a few weeks past; one of which has been lost in the Missouri, between St. Charles and Belle-Fountain. —[St. Louis Enquirer.

Mary Ashford.—A plain, neat, white monument, has been erected in the Church yard of Sutton Coldfield, Warwickshire, by the Rev. Luke Booker, to the memory of the unfortunate Mary Ashford, over whose tragical death has been dropped many a silent tear. The following is the inscription upon the stone: “As a warning to female virtue, and a humble monument to female chastity, this stone marks the grave of MARY ASHFORD, who, in the 20th year of her age, having incautiously repaired to a scene of amusement, without proper protection, was brutally violated and murdered on the 27th of May, 1817.”

Lovely and chaste as is the primrose pale, Ruffled of virgin sweetness by the gale, Mary, the wretch who thee remorseless slew, Availing wrath, which sleeps not, will pursue; For though the deed of blood he veil'd in night, Will not the judge of all the earth do right? Fair, blighted flow'r, the muse that weeps thy doom, Rears o'er thy murder'd form—this warning tomb!
Sutton Coldfield, Nov. 3, 1818.

The wretch who is supposed, upon the strongest circumstantial testimony, to have committed this brutal and inhuman murder, is stated to have arrived in this country. It may not be generally known to our readers, that a beautiful and affecting Melo-Drama, founded upon the circumstances attending the death of this unfortunate creature, has been published and played in England.

Naval Action.—A Havana paper of the 29th of December, contains an official letter from Don Jose Guerrero, to the Governor of Cumada, dated the 29th of November, 1818, in which he gives an account of his having completely succeeded in the attack he had been directed by excellency to make on the enemy's militia. This appears was composed of five flechetes and one skiff which only one escaped. He states his loss to be 6 killed and 20 wounded, while the enemy lost upwards of 200 killed, no prisoners having been made in consequence of the action having been decided by boarding.

Extraordinary Calculation.—The following question, a short time since, was put by Sir William Herschell, at Slough, near Windsor, Eng. to Master Bidder, and answered in one minute:

“Light travels from the Sun to the Earth in eight minutes, and the Sun being ninety eight millions of miles off, if Light would take six years and four months travelling at the same rate from the nearest fixed Star, how far is that Star from the Earth, reckoning 365 days 6 hours to each year, and twenty-eight days to each month?”

Answered in 1 minute—40,638,740,000,000 miles.

Alabama College.—The tract of land granted by Congress, for the support of a college in this territory, has been designated by the Secretary of the Treasury. It contains 20,000 acres, adjoining the Tennessee river, and is “moderately calculated” as being worth half a million of dollars.

The National Register
IS a paper which is published every Saturday, at the city of Washington, in the District of Columbia, and each number contains sixteen pages octavo, in small but very legible type. It makes two volumes in the year; and every volume accompanied with a copious Index.—The price per annum is Five Dollars, payable in advance. The Public Documents, both foreign and domestic; the proceedings of Congress, and authentic news of every description, are regularly inserted therein, and accompanied by critical and explanatory remarks. Its value is also enhanced by occasional reviews of literary works; and all its sentiments are decidedly American, independent of all party considerations. For this work, which is well established, regularly published, and transmitted weekly to subscribers by the mail, the public patronage is respectfully solicited.
