Destructive Fire.

In a brief postcript to our last, we made mention of the calamity which has befallen the eastern suburb of our town. We promised to give more particulars in to-day's Intelligencer; but there appears so much uncertainty hanging upon every circumstance connected with this lamentable affair, that we are at a loss how to fulfil this promise to the satis faction of our distant readers. That between fifty and seventy houses have been consumed—that a great destruction of property has taken place—we can fully attest; but we know nothing as to the origin of the calamity.

The fire was discovered about four o'clock, in a building formerly used as a lumber-house. Some persons say, it was communicated by the wadding of aswivel, fired from some vessel coming up the river.-But no one we believe states this in a confident manner, and therefore we do not give it entire credence.-Information of this, and of the consequences likely to ensue, was brought into town (properly so called) by means of a gentleman passing through Blandford at the time; and the alarm sounded in every direction.

It was near seven o'clock, when the fury of the flames began somewhat to abate. Contrary to general expectation, - the two buildings on either side of the street, next to the Causeway, were preserved. Retween these and the Street mentioned above running N. and S. forming the eastern line of the M. H. lot, all is desolate and waste.

Petersburg as a town will suffer but little by this conflagration. But the individuals upon whom the blow has immediately fallen, will feel it most sensibly. This part of Blandsford was inhabited chiefly by poor people; and many of this class have stost every thing, and all of them "have lost more than they can " afford "to lose." We fear very little of the property destroyed, has been insur-

It affords us pleasure to hear, the Common Hall has taken the case of the Blandford sufferers into its consideration. we hope some plan, having for its object their speedy relief, will be adopted without delay. Petersburg Intelligeneer.

CONGRESS.

A correspondent of the Raleigh Star gummarizes thus :- Very little business of importance has been done by the present Congress. The Schate have had eight or ten Indian treaties, and the British treaty to act on, in addition to their other Executive and Legislative duties. They have passed a bill catablishing a Supreme Court, consisting of the present Judges of the cirsuit Courts of the United States; and authorising the appointment of nine cirsuit Judges. They have passed the resolutions by the requisite majority to amend the constitution of the U. States, so that each state shall be divided into districts for the purpose of electing representatives to (ongress and chusing electors to vote for a President of the United States: and they have passed several bills relative to the trade and commerce of the United States and altering the manner of selling the public lands.

As for the House of Representatives, they seem to have spent their time in demating. They were nearly three weeks discussing sundry resolutions intended to censure the conduct of GENERAL JACKSON in prosecuting the war against the Seminole Indians. The conduct of many members put me in mind of the Musselman and hog .- It seems Mahomet cursed a certain part of the hog and forbid his followers from eating that part-It was a dispute among them, what part of the hog was forbidden .- Some said it was the head, and they freely eat of the tail and other -parts :-- Some declared the tail was cursed, and they eat of all other parts:-So that upon the whole they eat up the hog--So it has been with JACKSON. Some blame him for hanging the two Indian Chiefs -- Some blame him for taking St. Marks-others acquit him for all these acts, but censure him for taking Pentacols and the Barancas. So that emong them they curse him from head to foot, soul and body. Whilst this windy war has been waging among the members, the people of the United States are vieing with one another in honoring, feasting applauding the old veteran for victories which place him upon a footing with the greatest generals of the age, and justly entitle him to the gratitude of his country.

From the N. Y. Mercantile Adv. 3d inst.

We have been favored with Curracoa papers to the 6th ult. brought by the Hippomenes. Accounts from Amsterdam to the 24th of December had reached Curracoa—and the papers containing Jamaica dates of the 10th January .-A rumor had reached St. Thomas that a revolution had broken out in Spain, and that the King had fled to Bayonne.

CURRACOA, Jan. 30. The English schr. Beckles, arrived here on Wenesday afternoon, 8 days from Margarita, and brings letters to the 24th inst. From which the following are extracts:

Margarita, Jan. 21. "There is little news here. The army has marched to open the campaign; and, by a Courier yesterday from Augustura, we learn of the arrival of Col. English, with 2,500 British troops.

" San Juan Grigo, Margarita, ? January 24

"A British force has arrived at Suiria, consisting of 2,500 men.-Brion remains in Pampater. Jolly has sailed with the squadron. 8 vessels, of which be has the sole command. Their destination is noknown."

CURRACOA, Feb. 6. The arrival of English troops at Guayana is now unquestionable. for we have here the official communication received at Margarita from two officers on board the first transport, which I have the pleasure herewith to transmit to you.

Several respectable emigrants have already left this place for Unayana and Margarita. A proclamation issued by the independent government, insures the prompt payment of their passages, &c.

copy of a letter from two officers on board the first transport at anchor in the Orinoco, to Arismendi, the governor of Margarita:

" We embrace the opportunity of informing the governor of Margarita, that the ship Preservance is arrived at Guayana, with two hundred troops. for the government of Venezuela; and we expect in the course of three days ten or twelve vessels more, which will make nearly four thousand
