

THE PUBLIC WILL OUR GUIDE—THE PUBLIC GOOD OUR END.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY JOHN CAMBRIDGE

Terms.—THREE DOLLARS per annum, payable in advance; and in all cases when papers shall be delivered at the expense of the Editor, the price will be THREE DOLLARS and FIFTY CENTS. No paper discontinued, but at the option of the Editor, until all arrearages are paid. Advertisements not exceeding twelve lines, inserted three times for one dollar, and twenty-five cents for each continuation. If no directions are given with an Advertisement it will be continued till forbid.

To the Patrons of the Gazette.

The establishment of the CAMDEN GAZETTE having been transferred by the late proprietor, is now under the superintendence of its new proprietor and Editor.

It has been usual on similar occasions, to sketch an outline of the principles by which the Editor would be governed.

In compliance with that usage, and in performance of what we deem a duty, we submit to the public an avowal of the sentiments which will influence us in the discharge of our functions.

Political economy and the administration of national affairs, are the most important subjects on which the columns of a newspaper embody and disseminate opinions and information, and although in our happy country and by our admirable Constitution an unrestrained liberty of the Press is intended, effusions on those subjects may have sometimes degenerated into licentiousness and been productive of mischief, yet we humbly presume it will be universally conceded that the evil resulting from the freedom of the Press has been more than counterbalanced by the good.

Perhaps this licentiousness has, more than any other cause, contributed to produce and fan the flame of faction and party spirit which has impaired the lustre of the annals of our country; but the effect of that spirit when restrained within reasonable limits, is to produce and preserve a vigilance over the motives and tendencies of public measures, calculated to maintain the liberties of the Country.

In the distinctions of party which have arisen, we have uniformly professed ourselves attached to that denominated Republican, and we certainly see no cause in the vigilant, just, able and patriotic policy of our present political Chief, to change our principles or opinion.

But indeed party distinctions may be said to have almost ceased to exist. The tempest of faction, and the conflicting billows of political dissention, have subsided into a peaceful calm. The wisdom of our public functionaries, and the virtuous energies of our people, have procured for our country an exalted character in the family of Nations. Peace, security, liberty, prosperity and happiness at home, respect and esteem abroad, are our portion, acquired by enlightened counsels supported by an enlightened population.

The Chiefs of five successive administrations have witnessed the happy destinies of America. Adams, Jefferson, Madison and Monroe, still live to honor and be honored by their country. The first, during whose administration political parties became completely organized, has been himself the warm advocate and supporter of the measures of the three last. Political dissensions have been dissipated, faction prostrated, what is emphatically styled the "Era of good feelings" is arrived, and we may exclaim in the language of the sage of Monticello, "we are all Federalists, we are all Republicans."

With these sentiments the Editor tenders to the patrons and friends of his establishment, his services. From Scientific and Literary gentlemen, communications for his columns are respectfully solicited and will be gratefully received; but he pledges himself to the public, that nothing personal and calculated to excite the angry and vindictive feelings of man towards his fellow-man, shall be permitted to tarnish his paper.

JOHN CAMBRIDGE.
