

MISSIONARY RECORD

Devoted To Christian Graces, Literature, Arts, Sciences, Politics, And The Progress Of Civilization.

Therefore All Things whatsoever Ye Would That Men Should Do For You, Do Ye Even So To Them.—Emmanuel.

VOL. 6. NO. 8 SATURDAY JULY 5 1873 $2 per annum In advance.

RECORD

ESTABLISHED WEEKLY BY R. H. CLARK.

EMPHIS, A. PROPRITOR.

All communications should be addressed to the Editor, Missionary Record, P. O. Box 100, Memphis, Tenn. The Record is published weekly, except on Sundays and public holidays. The subscription price is $2 per annum in advance. Single copies are sold for 10 cents.

Terms of Subscription: Two Dollars a Year in Advance.

CLASS OF ADVERTISING:

For a full list of advertising rates and conditions, please refer to the back of this issue. Advertisements are accepted for insertion on liberal terms.

CHAMBERLAIN'S CARET, 1873.

ON EDUCATION.

The education of the people is the foundation of all progress. It is the only way to lift the masses from poverty and ignorance to a state of civilization and prosperity. We must therefore devote our utmost efforts to the improvement of our educational system.

It is a sad state of affairs that in many parts of our country, the children of the poor are denied the opportunity of learning. Their minds are left in a state of darkness, and their hands are forced to labor in the most degrading manner.

It is our duty as citizens to demand that every child be given the chance to learn. We must insist that the State provide for the education of all its children, and that no child be allowed to grow up in ignorance and poverty.

It is a common saying that knowledge will give the mind the power to do what it will. This is true, but only if the mind is properly directed. Education is the key that unlocks the power of the intellect.

Without a proper education, the mind is like a horse without a rider. It is wild and unmanageable, and it will only bring disaster to those who are in its power.

It is the duty of the State to provide for the education of all its children. This is not only a moral duty, but also a practical one. An educated population is the foundation of a strong and prosperous nation.

THE DEATH OF THE OCEAN.

The ocean is the lifeblood of the world. It is the highway of commerce and the source of life for many of the people who live on its shores. Without the ocean, the world would be a very different place.

The death of the ocean would mean the end of civilization as we know it. It would mean the end of trade, the end of industry, and the end of the progress that has brought us to this point in our history.

It is our duty to protect the ocean and to ensure that it remains a source of life and prosperity for all. We must take every possible step to prevent the pollution and destruction of this vital resource.

The ocean is a treasure that we must cherish and protect. It is the lifeblood of the world, and it is our duty to ensure that it remains so for all time. We must take every possible step to prevent its destruction.

of the bush.—Hesperus, Memphis.

Rating Without an Appetite.

It is wrong to eat without an appetite, for it shows that the stomach is not doing its duty. It is a sign of weakness and of a disordered system. We must therefore pay attention to our diet and to our health.

The right to be educated is a sacred right. It is the right of every child, and it is the duty of the State to provide for it. This is not only a moral duty, but also a practical one.

It is the duty of the State to provide for the education of all its children. This is not only a moral duty, but also a practical one. An educated population is the foundation of a strong and prosperous nation.

PROVINCIAL.

We should remember that we are all members of the same human family. We should therefore treat each other with respect and kindness, and we should strive to do good to all men.

It is our duty to love our neighbors as ourselves. This is the greatest commandment, and it is the foundation of all morality. We must therefore strive to do good to all men, and we must love our neighbors as ourselves.

The duty of the citizen is to obey the laws of the State and to support the government. This is not only a moral duty, but also a practical one. A good citizen is the foundation of a strong and prosperous nation.

It is our duty as citizens to demand that every child be given the chance to learn. We must insist that the State provide for the education of all its children, and that no child be allowed to grow up in ignorance and poverty.

we have read so long, and thought that we understood its contents, gives us a countless list of heart-breaking errors at the end.—Charles Lamb.

My friends, if there is any man whom you love, do not let him go without a proper education. Education is the key that unlocks the power of the intellect, and it is the only way to lift the masses from poverty and ignorance to a state of civilization and prosperity.

It is the duty of the State to provide for the education of all its children. This is not only a moral duty, but also a practical one. An educated population is the foundation of a strong and prosperous nation.

AMERICAN MORALS.

The grand evils which menace the people of America are not to be found in the corruptions of municipal or national government. The real danger is to be found in the hearts of the people themselves.

It is the duty of the citizen to demand that every child be given the chance to learn. We must insist that the State provide for the education of all its children, and that no child be allowed to grow up in ignorance and poverty.

The duty of the citizen is to obey the laws of the State and to support the government. This is not only a moral duty, but also a practical one. A good citizen is the foundation of a strong and prosperous nation.

It is our duty as citizens to demand that every child be given the chance to learn. We must insist that the State provide for the education of all its children, and that no child be allowed to grow up in ignorance and poverty.

A NEW PARTY.

Since the advent into Louisiana of Senator Matt. H. Carpenter, we observe symptoms of a movement having for its end and object the formation of a new party. The basis of this organization, at this time, is rather vague. Its beginning is heralded by "Roundabout" of the Times in a supposed interview with a prominent colored and white man.

Now it may be that the time has arrived when a political union of the two races in this State can be consummated, but we must be allowed to state our reasons why we do not believe it will succeed at this time.

First, we are satisfied that any attempt as proposed by "Roundabout" viz: to bid for the election of the colored people and deposit the remainder will only meet with disaster and defeat.

Second, this movement must include the whole State and not simply New Orleans. True, there it might start, but it must not be confined to its limits or to its citizens alone.

We see it stated that a committee of fifty white citizens proposed to set fifty colored citizens and together propose some plan for a political union.

Now it strikes us that this is a curious way to start a movement. Where will the fifty white citizens be? Any authority to do so large a voting population, as is in Louisiana? Again, how will fifty white citizens pay the way for the fifty colored citizens to start with them?

We would like to see the list of the fifty white citizens and the fifty colored citizens. We would like to see the names of the fifty white citizens and the fifty colored citizens.

It is our duty as citizens to demand that every child be given the chance to learn. We must insist that the State provide for the education of all its children, and that no child be allowed to grow up in ignorance and poverty.

The duty of the citizen is to obey the laws of the State and to support the government. This is not only a moral duty, but also a practical one. A good citizen is the foundation of a strong and prosperous nation.

thing must be clear to the most careless observer. There are several rocks on which the new party ship will undoubtedly precipitate itself upon. Fairly speaking, Democracy depends a good deal upon latitude for its device. It often agrees to try all plans before it does the only safe one, and generally goes through the whole catalogue of blinders before it will accept the only feasible and reasonable method of setting a difficult problem.

Now it may be that the time has arrived when a political union of the two races in this State can be consummated, but we must be allowed to state our reasons why we do not believe it will succeed at this time.

First, we are satisfied that any attempt as proposed by "Roundabout" viz: to bid for the election of the colored people and deposit the remainder will only meet with disaster and defeat.

Second, this movement must include the whole State and not simply New Orleans. True, there it might start, but it must not be confined to its limits or to its citizens alone.

We see it stated that a committee of fifty white citizens proposed to set fifty colored citizens and together propose some plan for a political union.

Now it strikes us that this is a curious way to start a movement. Where will the fifty white citizens be? Any authority to do so large a voting population, as is in Louisiana? Again, how will fifty white citizens pay the way for the fifty colored citizens to start with them?

The rights of citizens of the States such as not to be held in slavery or involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall not be denied to any citizen of the United States.

The right of privilege of voting in the Constitution of the States and of the U. S. If the right belongs to any person at all, it is to be exercised by the citizen of the State in which he resides.

It is our duty as citizens to demand that every child be given the chance to learn. We must insist that the State provide for the education of all its children, and that no child be allowed to grow up in ignorance and poverty.

The duty of the citizen is to obey the laws of the State and to support the government. This is not only a moral duty, but also a practical one. A good citizen is the foundation of a strong and prosperous nation.