

WOOD-SELLER.—Wood-seller, too much, to ask for that crowd nest, our finances now are such, we can't that invest. Five years ago six-bits would buy a half cord of fat pine—the same amount of hard wood cry—superior far to this.

INTERNAL REVENUE! Does it attach to oak and pine and must you on a red stamp spit and stick to red logs like thine? What is the cause—do tell us pray, that makes you ask us four dollars per load of gum or bay, drawn by a team so poor?

HAVE GREENBACKS got at a discount, and specie plenty too, that you demand such an amount as will our purse outdo? Drive on thy face, heartless fiend, drive on thy load of wood, may Heaven on thee a snowstorm send, when wood could do no good!

OUR HENLESS COOP and pigless pen and cowless shed must go, before we give the price though then the earth was robbed in snow. Drive on that sorry load of wood until you find some fool, who has no sense or is half-stunned, and never went to school!

THE SHIVERING POOR will pray that you, will find wood cheap below, and from old Club-foot get your due, where all of your sort go. We say again, you have no heart, no more than has your wood—avaunt, Wood-seller! and depart, if you consult your good!—Columbus Sun.

THE "MAN IN GRAY."—The Yankee giant in "gray clothes," who paid a friendly visit to Senator Wade, in Washington, and who frightened the Cronicle man into babbling about assassination, it has been ascertained, was a man named Fleming, originally from Kansas, and during the last three years employed in the Navy Yard at Brooklyn and Charlestown, Mass. The Republican says of the subsequent movements of the Cronicle's buckram here:

It appears that the huge "man in gray," who assaulted Senator Wade, in his own room, Wednesday noon, of last week, went immediately after to the quarters of Senator Wilson, and requested that gentleman to give him (the "man in gray") a letter of recommendation to the Secretary of the Navy, remarking at the time, "I have just been to see Senator Wade, and he treated me like h—l." This shows that the reported attempt to assassinate Senator Wade was all bosh.

VIEWS OF PRESIDENT JOHNSON.—President Johnson said, on the 28th, to distinguished Senators, that the agitation of the negro franchise question in the District of Columbia at this time was a mere entering wedge to the agitation of the question throughout the States. It was ill-timed, uncalled for and calculated to do great harm. He believed it would cause great trouble, and engender contention and strife between the two races—a war which would result in the injury to both, and cause the certain destruction of the negro population. Precedence, he thought, should be given to more important and urgent matters—legislation upon which was essential for the restoration of the Union, to secure peace to the country and prosperity to the people. [Columbia Phoenix]

A BLACK JOKE.—A very estimable young lady entered the cars at Reidsville a short time ago. She had not long been seated until she was approached by a Yankee Major, who commenced conversation by asking her what the women of the South would do for husbands, now, since so many young men of this section had been killed and maimed for life. "O," she replied, "that is simple enough; we intend to marry Yankees." "Indeed!" said the Major, brightening up at the idea, "that is well conceived; but then what will our own maidens of the North do, if all our Southern ladies marry Yankees?" "Well, as to that matter," replied the Rockingham lass, "we suppose they can come out South and marry the negroes!" Shoulder straps wilted.

"OSWELLO'S OCCUPATION."—Boston dates of the 25th inst., mention that the thirty-fifth annual meeting of the Massachusetts Anti-Slavery Society was held to-day, Edward Quincy presiding. A motion was held to dissolve the society, now that slavery no longer existed, but was opposed by W. Lloyd Garrison, who declared that there were other and equally high ends to be obtained by the society in the education and amelioration of the condition of the negro race. The motion to dissolve was lost, and officers for the ensuing year elected.

High prices, we believe, is the order of the day in every town and city of the South. The Memphis Argus says: "Everybody, now-a-days, complains of everybody else's extortion. The traveling community complain of the hotels; the resident population complain of both hotels and boarding houses; the hotel keepers, boarding house-keepers, and the heads of families generally, complain of the property holders the market farmers, the dairymen, and, in fact, of everybody else from whom they purchase their supplies. To listen to these complaints, one would be bound to conclude that 'the whole world, in these parts,' had resolved itself into a Universal Mutual Extortion Society."

CONFISCATION.—The United States Marshal for the Western District of Missouri, gives public notice that proceedings have been instituted for the confiscation of the property of Gen. Sterling Price, and some fifty other officers and men of the Confederate army; and that the writs in these cases have been returnable to the next term of the United States Court for that District, beginning on the 5th day of March next. The gentleman, whose property has been thus seized for confiscation, are among the wealthiest and most influential citizens of Central and Western Missouri. Do we live under a republican form of Government!

THE MILITARY IN THE SOUTH.—It is understood that a bill will be introduced in the House some time during the present week, for the military peace establishment of the United States. The provisions of the new measure will urge, among other things, the discharge of all colored troops, and provide for the retention of twelve regiments of the Veteran Reserve Corps by merging them into the regular army. It will also be proposed to transform the regiments into the heavy artillery branch of the service.

WHAT THE PRESIDENT SAYS.—The National Intelligencer says that Mr. Latrobe had an interview with President Johnson last week in which, speaking of the negroes, the President declared that, whatever might be his convictions in regard to negro suffrage in the District of Columbia and Tennessee, he was firmly opposed to forcing such suffrage upon the States by national legislation.—The distinct impression was left that he was not friendly to indiscriminate negro suffrage in this District.

TRIBUTE TO MRS. LINCOLN.—The State Department at Washington has caused to be beautifully and elaborately engraved, in German text, the resolution of Congress assuring Mrs. Lincoln of the profound sympathy of the two Houses for her deep personal affliction, and sincere condolence for the late national bereavement. The testimonial is enclosed in a rich gilt frame with mourning adornments. It will be at once forwarded to Mrs. Lincoln.

FLORENCE.—This little town bids fair to become very soon a place of no ordinary importance. The most hasty visitor must be struck with the many evidences it presents of successful energy and enterprise. New buildings are rising in every direction new stores are being opened, and work-shops of many kinds are being established. A true instinct is directing its energies in the line of work-shops and factories. [Darlington Southerner.]
