The Enterprise.

GREENVILLE, S. C. WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1872.

The Alabama Claims—War Threatened.

The United States and Great Britain have during the past week or ten days been excited to an intense degree, in consequence of differences arising out of the settlement of the famous "Alabama Claims," which may not be as amicably settled by the arbitrators as expected. Suddenly and before people on either side of the Atlantic were aware of it, differences of immense magnitude were sprung, which threaten a gigantic war. The American press are discussing the situation with much vehemence and warmth, and which is more than reciprocated by London and other English papers, making probable the repudiation of the Treaty of Washington for the adjustment of the "Alabama Claims." So powerful has been the war-frenzy, that American securities in Europe have declined materially. The New York Herald publishes lengthy and exhaustive articles in support of the American side of the question.

The immediate cause of this formidable excitement between the two countries, is the misunderstanding arising as to the interpretation and scope to be given to the recent treaty. Those representing our side, insist upon England's footing the bill of the indirect as well as direct consequences of the Alabama's depredations, which are variously estimated from five hundred to one thousand millions of dollars! To this the British Lion shakes his mane. The Queen, in opening the session of Parliament, alluding to the question in dispute, said: "In the case so submitted by the United States, large claims are included which are understood on my part not to be within the province of the arbitrators," and Premier Gladstone is also reported as saying: "He could, if he desired, refer to the preposterous character of a American demands, which of itself proved their absurdity; for there was no people in the last extremity of war or in the lowest depths of national misfortune, with the spirit of the people of England in their hearts, would ever submit to it" which was cheered. Those expressions will give an idea of the true situation; and to furnish a clearer understanding, we annex the portion of the Washington Treaty bearing on the subject:

"Whereas differences have arisen between the government of the United States and the government of Her Britannic Majesty, and still existing, growing out of the acts committed by the several vessels which have given rise to the claims generally known as the 'Alabama Claims'; and

"Whereas Her Britannic Majesty has authorized her high commissioners and plenipotentiaries to express, in a friendly spirit, the regret felt by Her Majesty's government for the escape, under whatever circumstances, of the Alabama and other vessels from British ports, and the depredations committed by those vessels;

"Now, in order to remove and adjust all complaints and claims on the part of the United States, and to provide for the speedy settlement of such claims which are not admitted by Her Britannic Majesty's government, the high contracting parties agree that all the said claims growing out of acts committed by the aforesaid vessels, and generally known as the 'Alabama Claims,' shall be referred to a tribunal of arbitration, to be composed of five arbitrators, three of whom shall proceed impartially and carefully to examine and decide all questions that shall be laid before them on the part of the respective governments."

From Washington, we have this statement: "The variance with England in regard to the claim for consequential damages under the Treaty of Washington was the subject of informal discussion by the Cabinet to-day, (the 6th,) and the Secretary of State was congratulated on the strength of his position, as indicated by English fears of the result at Geneva. Aside from this nothing of significance happened, except that the Cabinet is a unit in applauding the action of the President and agreed to stand by his determination."

The New York Herald of last Wednesday, thus definitely speaks: "What is the exact situation? We have met the English in a solemn conference. That conference solemnly and patiently agreed to certain rules of procedure and principles of international law. A tribunal was appointed satisfactory to England and ourselves. We presented our case and named eminent and learned men to go before the tribunal and plead that case. England did the same thing. The nature of her case is unknown to us. We do not know what claims she will plead in offset. We mean to go before the tribunal in good faith and say to the distinguished men who are to pass judgment just what we did and do not suffer. That is our right. It is a matter with which England has nothing to do. If we are wrong; if our demands are exorbitant; if we cannot sustain them by evidence; if it can be shown that England did her duty by us as a neutral and not a friendly power; if it is seen that all this time our grievances have been dreams, and cannot stand before the cold, calm, pitiless logic of the disinterested and keen men who are to hear and determine, then we shall be defeated without murmur. But England says to us that we must not tell our story and plead our case in our own way, but in her way; in other words, she will present her case and ours at the same time. And so the Queen has made what she calls a friendly communication to us asserting this determination, and we are called upon to take back our declarations, to admit our transience and insincerity of character, by saying that we were dishonest in our pleadings, to go to Geneva with a case amended to suit England, which will practically be a confession of judgment against ourselves."

The status of our relations with England, therefore, is anything but a pleasing one, and we do not know how soon the country may be involved in a war that will carry with it much destruction of life and property. Our Government has certainly made a very large if not a great mistake, and if these demands be urged, there is but one result, an inevitable one, namely, war—unless

English expression backs down; thus precipitating evils which the masses of the complaints do not at heart desire to inflict upon the other.

The Asheville Connection.

Our citizens all of them feel and know the importance of a railroad over the mountains, and it is gratifying that the leading business men are taking action in the measure. On Monday last, 12th inst., a delegation from our City, composed of Messrs. Wm. Beattie, Gen. W. K. Easley, James Birnie, James P. Moore, Esq., Mayor of Greenville, and Dr. James P. Boyce, proceeded to Charleston, for the purpose of attending the meeting of the stockholders of the South Carolina Railroad Company, and will present the scheme for the consideration of that corporation, urging the construction of a road to Asheville. We cannot tire in keeping before the people the great advantages that lay in store for them, if we can effect a successful issue of this enterprise. There is an immense deal of trade that now goes to Spartanburg and Walhalla, that the railroad will carry with it, therefore if we wish it all, and at the same time put Greenville in a high road to distinction, let the road commence. Our important trade from Western North Carolina, of hoes, corn, apples, cabbage, ginger, chumets, &c., &c., which now reach our merchants in wagons, during the fall and spring, will, unless the road be built, find their way to Asheville for railroad out let, provided there be no nearer one. Now, more than ever before, have we a high duty staring us in the face. Let this be understood and effort made accordingly. With the Asheville connection, from eight to ten trains per day will tell of our prosperity. One day's ride, will almost if not quite, put us in Chattanooga, while now it requires two days and two nights to reach the same point.

Minutes of Synod. The Pastor of the Church here has handed us a copy of the meeting of the Synod (Presbyterian) of South Carolina, held at Sumter, S. C., on the 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th November 1871. This body constitutes four Presbyteries, viz.: Bethel, Harmony, South Carolina, and Charleston, and embraces the territory of the whole of this State. It has under its connection and care eighty-four ministers and one hundred and forty-nine churches. Rev. H. R. Dickson presided over the body as Moderator, Rev. Wm. Banks, Stated Clerk. The proceedings were interesting to all connected with this denomination, and some to the general reader. The body had last, during the past year, three of its aged ministers, Revs. S. J. PRICE, and G. W. BOGGS and Dr. A. W. LELAND, to whom suitable tributes were paid. The latter was aged 84 years, and had been in the ministry sixty years; Mr. Boggs, aged 75 years, and was ordained minister in 1826. The salaries of the ministers average $720, which we think is very good, and no doubt compare with those received by persons of the same calling of other denominations. The sum of $1200 in this year to be raised for the support of the Theological Seminary in Columbia. The next meeting will be held in the last named city, on November 13th, 1872.

Gov. Orr for the Vice Presidency.

A correspondent of the Columbia Union recommends the nomination of Gov. JAMES L. ORR for the Vice Presidency of the United States. While his views on political matters are avowed to those of the majority of the white people of this State, and of the South, we doubt if there is a man amongst us who would be less objectionable to the Northern people, able to be of more service to those of the South, than he would be. The Columbia Union thus endorses the nomination: "The least the Republican party in the State can do, is to send him as a delegate to the Convention at Philadelphia, and this we are confident that the Convention which meets in this city on the 19th inst., will do. We hope good men to represent us there, and we need and trust that only such men will be selected."

Sale of the State Works.

These Works are to be sold on the 6th of March next. We trust the City Council of Greenville will purchase them for the purposes of an agricultural fair grounds; indeed, if it were known that the Council intended bidding on them for that purpose, there would be but little opposition, after a fair valuation was reached. It must be remembered that the buildings, fences and walls are in a very dilapidated and fall-down condition, and will require a considerable outlay to convert them to any service. But, once in the hands of the Council, they could, after a while, be repaired. As they are now, the Works are by no means desirable property. We do not intend to depreciate their value, however.

County Papers.

Heretofore, Commissioner P. A. McDavid informs us, the County Commissioners have been allowing very indigent persons a stipulated sum each per month and instead of going to the Poor House and being attended to and provided for by the Superintendent of that institution, they have been permitted to remain with their families or some relative, as was preferred; but in this the Commissioners have been called to adopt a different course, as the number of applicants for this kind of charity was increasing so rapidly as to make it inconvenient for the County funds to hold up under the pressure. In the future, those receiving any of the bounty of the County, will be required to remove to the regular place provided for paupers. The number, we learn, has diminished considerably, under the last regulation.

Eulogy on Gen. Lee.

It will be seen by a notice in another column, that Gen. W. K. EASLEY will pronounce a Eulogy on Gen. Lee, on Thursday, 22d inst., in the new Court House. There will doubtless be a large attendance of our citizens on the occasion.

J. M. Aiken, Esq.

Mr. ALLEN, our Senator, visited the City on Saturday last, and remained until Tuesday morning. He has been attending to his house and premises, expecting to occupy them in a few weeks.

Weather.

Last Wednesday night, there was considerable sleet, which made the trees and bushes present an icy appearance, but it soon fell to the ground. The rain and cloudy skies make things very dull, as there has been but little sunshine for several days.

New Citizens and Real Estate.

WHITMAN STUBBS, Esq., a gentleman residing in Walhalla, and at one time connected with the Keowee Courier as Editor, has removed to Greenville, purchasing the brick residence, at the corner of Beacombe and Rutherford Streets, known as the Maj. HENRY M. EARLE place, price $3,000, cash. The lot contains three acres, and is regarded very cheap. He will practice law here, and will prove quite an accession to our Bar.

Mr. M. L. DONALDSON has bought the farm, three miles from town, called the "Folmott place," containing 200 acres, from Mr. CHARLES AXSTON, Sr., for $1800, cash. He will occupy and cultivate it. Mr. D. is from Oak Lawn Township, in the lower part of the County, and will be a valuable acquisition to our environs.

We extend a warm greeting to our new citizens, and trust that their property here will cause them never to regret coming into our midst.

Mr. WILSON COOKS has recently bought twenty by eighty feet of the Canon lot, on Main Street, opposite the well known stand of Mr. JAMES McPHERSON. The price was $1800, cash.

Mr. JULIUS C. SMITH, our popular Real Estate Agent, effected these sales.

Amnesty Patted.

The House Amnesty Bill has failed in the Senate. SENATOR'S amendment thereto was adopted by the casting vote of Mr. COLFAX, but the vote on the Bill itself failed of the two-thirds required for its passage. Senators SAWYER and ROBERTSON voted against the amendment, but their action resolutions have been presented in the Legislature of this State requesting them to resign their seats in the United States Senate.

Dr. B. Manly.

This community has been pained to learn of the very dangerous illness of Dr. B. MANLY, President of the College at Georgetown, Kentucky, the first intimation of which was received on last Sunday morning, through a telegram to Mr. J. C. SMITH. His sickness has been caused by neuralgia of the head, and his family and friends at one time entertained but slight hopes of a recovery; but later news states that he is now out of danger.

The Wando.

We are pleased to learn from the Agent, Mr. JULIUS C. SMITH, of the rapid sales of this popular and valuable Fertilizer. It has been thoroughly tested in this section of our State, year after year. The large sales of over one hundred and fifty tons this season, tells well for the success of the Wando. The Agent requests us to say he is now prepared to fill all engagements, and to supply all who may wish to use it this year. Call and see Mr. SMITH and give your orders for the Wando.

A Want Never Before Supplied.

In the South where Liver Complaint and Bilious diseases prevail to so great an extent there has long been felt the need of a medicine that would act specifically and promptly on the Liver, restoring to its normal functions, and at the same time be safe from after effects, and yet so simple that it might be used by any one. It is now admitted by all that DR. TUTT'S VEGETABLE LIVER PILLS supplies this want. They are now prescribed by the most eminent Physicians throughout the whole South.

FROM DAN to BERRERINA—From Charleston to Dahlonega.

From Charleston to Dahlonega, from the board to the mountains can be seen a marked improvement in the style of building in the last five years. Villages and towns all present a more elegant and comfortable appearance. The reason is well known. It is because in that period the whole country has learned to patronize that celebrated manufacturer of Carriages, Sashes and blinds, Mr. P. P. FOULKE, of Charleston, S. C.

The Secret of Captivation.—Features of Grecian mould, a well-turned neck and beautifully rounded arms, are no doubt very nice things to have, and ladies who possess these charms have reason to be thankful to Mother Nature; yet, after all, the most captivating of all charms is a pure, fresh and brilliant complexion. This superlative fascination any lady may secure by using HAZEN'S MAZONIA BALM, the standard beautifying preparation of the West. It differs from all ordinary cosmetics in three most essential particulars, inasmuch as it contains no injurious ingredients, does not contract or shrivel the skin as all the astringent "blooms," "lotions" and "powders" eventually do, but produces a lasting loveliness by improving the health of the skin. Upon the texture of the epidermis becomes finer, and the surface soft as velvet and smooth as porcelain. Features cannot be changed, but complexions can, and it is quite certain that any lady with complexion charm than a fresh and rosy complexion will attract more admiration in company than her neighbor with a classic face but a sallow skin.
