Location of the Workshops of the Richmond and Atlanta Air-Line Railroad at Greenville.

We learn the important fact, coming from one high in authority, that the Workshops of the Richmond and Atlanta Air-Line Railroad Company, are likely to be located in this City. It is not positively so decided but confidently believed they will be. We hope next week to be able to state that the location of them here is beyond a doubt -We also learn that in case the shops of the above Company are placed here, the Helena Workshops will be removed to this point. If we get both, they will add largely to our business and material interests, and contribute much to our population as well -Greenville is improving, and is bound to continue to do so. Persons seeking a desirable place to come to, could not do bet ter than vieit this city and find out some of the advantages to be found.

Death of Dr. E. E. Whitner.

It is our melancholy duty to record the sudden and unexpected demise of Dr. E. E. WHIT. REE, whom, a week or so since, we announced as having taken up his residence Lere, removing from Anderson. He died at the residence of A. BLYTHE, Esq., on Thursday last, from pulmonary consumption. In his sickness, he was tenderly watched by a loving and affectionate wife and careful mother. His remains were carried to Anderson, there to be interred in the family burying ground. Just a few months since, an elder brother departed this life, then residing in the State of Florida.

It will be seen by the annexed paragraph from the Chester Reporter of the 21st fast. that Judge Thomas expects to selicit a seat in Congress. That paper says:

"Judge Thomas passed here on Monday on his way to York. The Court of General Sessions and Common Pless is in month, as it did last December, and it session there this week. The Judge stated to some friends that, at the earnest solleits tion of many friends in Union, he had consented to become a candidate for Congress from this Congressional District, and intended "to fight it out on that line" all new summer, whether he received the nomination of the Republican party or not."

More Snow.

On last Friday morning, we were visited by still another fall of Snow. It commenced coming down about eight o'clock, and continued with no intermission, until six o'clock in the evening, when it ceased. Its depth varied from four to six inches. Much of it melted on the following day and Sunday, and what was left the continued rain of Monday obliterated. The weather is now cloudy.

On yesterday, as Mr. G. W. SULLIVAN, Jr., was riding into town, one or two miles from the city, his horse became freightened and ran away, turning the buggy over, which falling upon his right shoulder and arm, inflicted painful bruises, also injuring his face some:-He was not seriously hurt, but will have to carry his arm in a sling for some time.

Mr. Editor-Thinking it may not be uninteresting to some of your readers, I give below the rain-fall at Greenville C. H. during the past year:

The Late Snow.

Mr. Editor-People are very apt to ex claim, "Did you ever see the like!" I can answer yes, In March, 1836, there was as deep a snow as the late one. In December, 1842, it commenced snowing early in the sleeting and raining all through the month of March. On the 22d of March, 1844, it snowed enough to cover the ground an inch deep. The early part of the day was beautiful and sunshiny, but in the afternoon the cloud came up like a thundercloud, and the snow fell. That was also on Friday, as our late snow was on Friday, and just 28 years ago. The peach trees had shed their blooms, and although a pretty heavy frost weceeded the snow, a more fruitful year I never witnessed. In two weeks time the onk leaves were full grown, and notwith. standing the 22d of March snow, that was the earliest spring experienced in Greenville for the last forty years. The weather had been quite mild all the latter part of the winter. On the 15th April, 1849, snow fell as beauti fully as I ever saw it, covering the ground an inch to 2 inches deep, and nearer the moun. tains deeper. That was on Sunday. On Monday morning was a very severe frost, but on Tuesday morning, the 17th, ice form ed of some thickness and will be remembered by all who witnessed it. Some trees had fully blown their leaves, and so severe was it on them that they scarcely put out any more that season, and some even died. On the 22d of March, 1863, only nine years age, came a worse snow than the late one, only not so deep. It came in the shape of a storm, at night, drifting into houses and fused to discharge the petitioner on habeas barns, and playing havor generally. The corpus. After some conversation between the apple blossoms had even then put out, and it made a clean sweep of all tree fruits. Are we not apt to have s bad spell of weather when the Full Moon and the Equinox come so close together? What says the Greenville Almanae man? The May succeeding one 22d of March snow was very dry-in fact no rain during the month, Will the incoming May be dry ! Where is your Al DIARY.

Social Equality.

Mr. Editor-On my road bome a few days since, I espied, seated in a wagon, opposite a doggery, two white (?) men and two negroes ngaged in that social game for which Deacon Suggs was wont to chastise his erratic son, Si mon, and did flagellate "Bill," when caught ander the mulberry tree. Simon got off by turning "jack" on the old man, winning "Bunch" by the operation, and rode off, not forgetting the while to fill his poor old mother's pipe with powder instead of tobacco. He rode on, however, until he got into the penitentiary. But to the subject-matter. Why Congress waste time in discussing Sumner's Civil Rights Bill when white mon here in South Carolina set down and engage in a game of " all-fours' with colored gemmen? Can a man consistently refuse to ask a negro home with him to

WASHINGTON, March 21. SENATE.-The tariff bill was considered Morton gave notice of an amendment repealing all domestic taxes except upon liquer and tobacco after October 1, 1872 -Sawyer gave notice of a motion to retain the present duty on rice. He said there were few branches of industry in the rice producing States which are aided by proteetive duties, while the people of thore States paid taxes on almost everything for the benefit of the industries of other States, There were peculiar reasons for siding Southern industry at the present time. The and owners had nothing else left after the war. The freedmen were the only class who had gained material wealth. The land owners had to borrow money at enermous rates to carry on their planting operations. The South therefore asked the same protection for her labor that had been so freely extended elsewhere. They asked for the retention of the duty on rice. He described at length the complicated and expensive process required for the production of rice. During the rebellion, the rice fields were generally abandoned, being near the theatre of war, and this peglect of four ears almost threw the lands back into the valueless swamps from which the labors of generations had redeemed them. Without the duty it would have been impossible to restore the rice fields to cultivation after the war; continue the duty for a few years. and the old rice lands would again be brought into cultivation, and new fields ad ded, and the planters could then prosper without it. There were probably twenty thousand families in Georgia and South Carolina depending upon rice cultivation for support Almost the entire benefit from the proposed reduction would scerve to the

The tariff bill came up in order, but by a vote of 27 to 10 was laid aside, when a bill for the benefit of soldiers was taken up and passed. The tariff bill was discussed to adjournment. Scott's amendment, admitting ten and coffee free, passed. 35 to 18. Sherman, Chairman from the Committee on Finance then said he would suggest a retention of the duty on rice and other articles. He regarded the question of repealing the duty on ten and coffee as now settled, and he advised business men of the equatry to make their arrangements accordingly.

Indigestion is not dangerous, say the faculty. Perhaps not in itself, while it remains more indigestion; but look at the consequences to which it may had, and offen declared when it becomes a chronic disease. A spark of fire is a small thing. A pressure of the foot will put it out; a breath will extensively used it. Yet it may fire a powder mills like manner indigestion may produce gastritis, cancer of the stomach, congestion of the bornels, apoplary, liver disease, and many other dangerous maladies. Is it not wise, then, to check it in the germ? Nothing is more clearly and indisputably established than that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will eradicate dyspepsia in all its singes. The true policy, however, is to extinguish it in the first stages with this wholesome, powerful, an infallible tonic and alterative. It is easier to quench a spark than a flame, and it is easier to cure dyspepsia when it is first developed, than when it has made headway by neglect, and become complicated with other aliments.—There is not the shadow of a doubt that the bitters are as directly antagonistic to dyspepsia as water is to fire. There are thousands of cases on record proving this fact. The remedy is sale and agreeatile. All the liquors of commerce prescribed as stimulants leave a sting behind. But the sting is taken out of the spirituous basis of this great remedy by vegetable medication, and, moreover, the stimulant thus medicated is of exceptional purity. Of all tonice taken as safeguards or remedies for lever and ague, bilious remittents, and other epidemics, it is the only one that can uniformly be depended on. 46-2
