He had left this place one week previously, on pubto business, in the interests of the City and County. Arriving in Atlanta on Monday previous, and being taken suddenly ill' physicians were called to his bedeide, but his case baffling their skill, he expired, as above stated. He had every necessary atministered to every want. His body reached Greenville on Saturday morning, in charge of a committee of citizens appointed by the City Council, who met it in Columbia, where it was forwarded by an extra

The funeral of Gen. Easter was preached in the Baptist Church, on Sunday morning last, by Drs. E. T. Buist and J. C. FURMAN His family being connected with the Presbyterian Church, desired the services to be conducted there, but consented to have then performed in the Baptist Church, in order to accommodate the large number of persons desiring to attend. At the obsequies, there was a very large congregation, among them many of the principal citizens of our place. The pall bearers embraced some of our most respectable citizens. The Masonic order, of which he was a member, also accompanied the remains into the Church,-After the singing of a mournful voluntary, and the usual services, Dr. Bust delivered a most impressive and instructive sermon. after alluding personally to distinguished character and influence of the deceased .-Dr. Funnan's remarks were also appropriate and aposite. The funeral cortege, composed principally of the immediate relatives and friends of the deceased, together with the Masonie order, proceeded to the tamily burying ground, six miles from the City, in Pickens County, where they were consigned to their last resting place.

In the removal from us of General EASLEY. Greenville and the whole State has sustained an irreparable loss, in a cultivated and high toned gentleman and citizen-a chivalrous son of the South-and of a leading spirit in our public affairs. To him are we largely indebted for securing the Air Line Railroad to our City : and he was indomitable and untiring in his efforts in furthering popular enterprises ; and had he been spared, other measures of this section of the State, already partially consummated, under his superior control, would have been brought to full fruition.

His position at the Ber was in the front rank, which he gained by natural talent, high legal and literary attainments, and commanding and singularly beautiful eloquence, both as an advocate and speaker.

Great as the public loss may be, it cannot be compared to that which has fallen upon his orphan children, who have not now the kind care of either father or mother, the maternal parent having preceded the father only a few months. May the God of the orphan be their constant protector and friend.

As will be seen by the proceedings of the Greenville Bar, published elsewhere, his brothere in the law have expressed their sorrow and regret at the loss of one in their midst so distinguished for his abilities and high traits of character. At this meeting, able and touching tributes were paid to the memory of Gen. EASLEY, which we will print next week

Nomination of Greeley and Brown.

The news of the nomination of Greelev and Brown, by the National Democratic Convention, which met in Baltimore on the 9th inst., came too late last week to be announced in all of our issue, although it was furnished to a portion of our readers. On the first ballot by the Convention, Greeley received almost the entire vote of the body, and it was soon made unanimous. Brown, for the Vice-Presidency, also received the nomination, which was likewise very nearly upanimous on the first vote.

The Cincipneti platform, which has been extensively published throughout the country, was adopted. The very enthusiastic manner in which the result of the labors of the Convention has been received throughout the North and South, East and West, has caused the friends of Mr. Greeley to feel confident of his election to the Presidency of the United States, and the success of the Liberal Reform Party of the United States.

Meeting on Salesday.

We were under the impression, with many others, that the meeting to be held on Sales day in August was for the purpose of nominating candidates to fill the County offices; but on referring to the published proceedings, we find that said meeting is for the purpose of organizing throughout the County. The County Convention for nominating candidates, therefore, will not be held then, but at some subsequent day, of which timely notice will be given.

Thanks for Latest News. We are under especial obligations to James P. Moone, Esq., for furnishing us on last Wednesday evening with a private telegram containing the fact of the nomination of Hor ACE GREELEY and B. Tribute of Respect.

GREENVILLE, 16th July, 1872. A meeting of the Bar was this day held in the Court House, for the purpose of pay-ing a tribute to the memory of Gen. W. K.

On motion of James Birnie, Esq., Gov. B. F. Perry was called to the Chair, and James P. Moore, Esq., requested to act as Secretary.
The Chairman, in a few touching remarks,

Q. Donaldson, Exq., introduced the following preamble and resolutions, in a speech replete with an eloquent tribute to the memory of the deceased:

It has pleased the Almighty to take from us Gen. WILLIAM K. EASLEY, a distinguished member of this Bar, in the prime of his life, and in the midst of his usefulness to society and his country. Appreciating the deceased as we do for his talents and noble traits of character, it is proper and becom-ing the members of the Greenville Bar, that some public expression of their great bereavement should be made.

ing the members of the Greenville Bar, that some public expression of their great becavement should be made.

Gen. Easler was endeared to all of us as a friend, a companion and a brother lawyer. He was a gentleman of honor and patriotism. His talents were of a high order, and his eloquenes thrilling and captivating. He was not only learned in his profession, but well read in history, the sciences, and polite literature generally. He was kind, benevolent and public-spirited. He was true to his clients, and true to his was kind, benevolent and public-spirited. He was true to his clients, and true to his friends and country. His less to his family and to the public is irreparable. With his brilliant talents, ability and purity of character, he could have filled any position with honor and distinction. Few men possessed in so eminent a degree as he did, the power of attracting friends to him, and his friends looked forward to the time, when they could place him in a position which would give him a national repetation, and a field for the display of those great qualities which he possessed.

But we, the members of this Bar, mourn his loss as a companion, a friend and brother. His clients will regret him as a lawyer, and the community as a public spirited end pure-minded gentleman. As a testimonial of our sespect for him whilst living, and our reverence for his memory now that he is dead, be it

The hot solar rays that ripen the harvests generate many distressing diseases. If the liver be at all predisposed to frequinaries, this is the season in which bilious attacks may be anticipated. A weak stomach, too, is weakest in the summer months, and the loss of vitality through the pores by excessive perspiration is so great, that a wholesome toole, combining also the properties of a diffusive stimulant and gentle exhilitent, is in many cases necessary to health, and under no circumstances should be dispensed with by the sickly and debilisted. Starvation in the Midst of Plenty.

A living man is continually exerting mechanical ierce and giving off heat; and in proportion, he is continually undergoing a loss of weight—that is to say, a loss of substance. This life-long production of heat and of mechanical force is not suspended even during sions that the present showery weather will develop them rapidly.

A. S. Wallace, C. C. Puffer, J. J. Patterson, and Judge T. J. Mackey, are regarded the most prominent candidates of the Radicals for Congress, from the Fourth Control of Congress, from the Fourth Control of Congress, gressional District.

Chanical force is not suspended even during sleep. Not to go farther, sleep does not interrupt respiration—a clearly mechanical function. As to the generation of heat, it is unnecessary to insist. It is plain that this cease-less manifesting of vital force, with its accompanying and strictly proportioned waste, could not continue forever. The man would dwindle to nothing. But long before the effects of this gradual diminution become apparent, they are felt in the form of the two imperious sensations—hunger and thirst. To still these they are felt in the form of the two imperious sensations—hunger and thirst. To still these cravings, to restore the lost weight, and to put the man in a position still to keep on losing weight, (as the price of keeping on producing heat and mechanical force,) it is necessary that he should be supplied with three things—air, water and food. Now simply receiving food into the stomach is not truly receiving food into the system. Strictly speak. ceiving food into the stomach is not truly re-ceiving food into the system. Strictly speak, ing, food lying in the stomach is as truly seithous and not within the body, as is food held in the hollow of the closed hand. Only when it has been thoroughly digested and as-similated, can it be said that it is really re-ceived into the system. But how seldom is the organism in a position thoroughly to as-similate sufficient food! What are the con-sequences? The outcome exceeds the insimilate sufficient food! What are the consequences? The outcome exceeds the income; and the bodily strength fails because the system can no longer keep up the mutuaily balancing waste and renovation. Here it is that a tenic stimulant (sach as Dr. Fisch's Bitters) proves so beneficial—it might almost be said, so indispensable.
