THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1856.

lumbus, North Carolina. DAY OF THANKSCIVING. Gov. Adams has issued his Proclamation, designating the 20th instant as a Day of Fasting, Humiliation, and Prayer in South Carolina.

APPOINTMENT. We are requested to announce to the public that ALEXANDER W. MOORE, of Georgia, has been unanimously elected to address the Calhoun Literary Society of Wofford College at their next anni-

COLD WEATHER

We are indebted to Mrs. Maria Wofford for the following thermometrical report of the state of the Nov. 7. before suprise. This was in the open air, and we can attest that the 11th was the "coldest morning" this fall. Ice was plenty.

RAILROAD BONDS.

We beg attention to the Bond of the Spartanburg and Union Railroad, which will be found in another column. The Bond has appended to it the inter-est coupons. This publication is made for the purpose of informing those contemplating investments of the nature of the security they will have, and the simple mode of possessing themselves of the interest somi-annually. Pay $400, and the Agents for the sale of Bonds in Spartanburg, Messrs. Foster & Judd, will have one of these $500 bonds filled up. When the first half-year's interest is due, say in July, 1857, all the holder has to do is to take or send his coupon for that date to the Bank of the State and get his interest. It is equal to a check, and involves no more trouble.

We also commend to public attention the notice of John L. Young, President of the road. He appeals to both pride and interest. Shall these considerations be successful? We shall see.

ACCIDENT.

We are sorry to know that our barber, Albert Henderson, met with a sad accident on Monday evening on this wise: Several young men were seated in his shop, when a revolver dropped on the floor, discharging a ball into the foot of the poor fellow. Surgical aid was promptly procured, but all efforts thus far have failed to extract the ball, which is lodged in the bones of the instep. Fears are entertained that the foot must come off.

RAILROAD BONDS.

The Spartanburg and Union Railroad Company now offer their 500 Dollar Bonds, bearing 7 per cent. interest, payable every six mouths, to Stockholders for $400 cash. The investment will pay an interest equivalent to 10} per cent, per annum,

The amount already expended on the road exceeds Eight Hundred Thousand Dollars-all of which is mortgaged to secure the holders of the Bonds we now propose to sell. The cash arising from the sale of Bonds will be invested in Iron, and laid on the track; so that the money we borrow will go to increase the security.

The price offered for the use of your cash-(as well as the other advantages that will flow to you from the construction of your Road) -should be an inducement to change some one of your investments for at least one or two of our Bonds.

Let each stockholder, or friend, now show us confidence, by subscribing for one or two of our Bonds, which we will invest in Iron, and lay on the track; and if you increase in confidence, so will we increase in the construction and extension of our Road until the work is finished.

nence to all concern ed. We should then at once wake up, and do all in our power to complete the enterprise.

Messrs. Foster & Judd are authorized Agents for the sale of Bonds at Spartanburg.

JOHN L. YOUNG, President. NOVEMBER S 1856

PRESENTERIAN SYNOD .- We learn that this body at its late meeting accepted the resignation of Dr. Palmer as Professor in the Theological Seminary in Columbia, and elected Dr. Adger in his place. Dr. Palmer expects to leave for New Orleans in a few days, to take charge of the Church of which he has been chosen Pastor in that city. The friends of the Institution may have full confidence that the accession of Dr. Adger will secure it against detriment from the transfer of Dr. Palmer.

The meeting is said to have been unusually large -so too of the amount of business before it. The next meeting will be at Laurens C. H.

This picture we turned over to our Imp, who stuck it up in our composing room. THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

From the several extras issued from the Span tan office most of our readers are aware that Buchanan and Breekinridge, the Democratic nomi nees of the Cincinnati Convention, have been elected to the Presidency and Vice Presidency of the United States for four years from the 4th of March, 1857. We congratulate the South-the country-Mr. A. R. Saire is our authorized agens at Coon this result; in smuch as it affords proof of a general conservatism among the people of the Union, and gives breathing time to the South to determine dispassionately what measures of security shall be adopted for the future. We have no idea that the strife is over, but we have now more definite data on which to estimate the strength of Northern combination against us, as the Presidential election was a contest between the constitution and its enemies-between slavery and no-slavery

The Democratic party, as far as we are now able to judge, will have possession of the Executive and Legislative Departments of the General Government, and now is the auspicious moment-apart from passion and political excitement-coolly to approach the solution of the problem whether this Union shall be continued as a blessing to all the States, or whether power shall be peacefully surrendered up to the several States for the construction of homogeneous governments. The South cannot and ought not remain insecure. The facility with which her rights have been interpreted and legislated away must be checked, and this check can only be given by express amendment of the Constitution.

We propose, therefore, that the Legislatures the Southern States, by solemn sanction of law. convene State Conventions, which shall depute and commission Delegates to a General Congress of the Slaveholding States, to determine what amendments are necessary to the great compact of Union to guard the peace and integrity of our section, and ender us secure in rights and property. When the labors of this body are completed, let the amendments agreed on be proposed to the Confederacy. If adopted, the Union will still remain intact, with reasonable hope of peaceful endurance. If rejected, let Conventions of the two sections regotiate a division of the national liabilities and as setts, and quietly dissolve the Union, without further animosity or strife.

Since the above was written we find in the Charleston Mercury a letter of four columns from Hon. R. Barnwell Rhett, addressed to Governor Adams. In that letter we find the following paragraph, in which the very same idea is expressed: "The States, in their sovereign espacity, adopted the Constitution; and by their action alone can any new guaranties be inserted into it. One or more of the Southern States can test our true condition, y proposing to amend the Constitution by sucl ew securities as our safety and liberties require If the Northern States accept of them, then Union will be worth preserving. If they reject them, let the Union be dissolved."

While we admit that a single State could furnish a true test in this matter, yet we would have, as more satisfactory, the whole machinery of our section brought into play, as exerting greater mora power, and being more in harmony with the genius of our institutions.

We commend this matter to the journals and people of the South, though emanating from the remote District of Spartanburg. It will have the nerit of being regular and orderly-and, uninfluenced by the stings of political defeat or present fears of losing power in the councils of the country, such action will show the settled determination of the South to maintain her rights, and sit in security under her owh vine and fig tree.

GRAND JURY PRESENTMENT.

The grand jury of Charleston, fall term, 1856, make sundry important presentments. Among them are the following, in which the whole State has much interest, viz: The evils of having two days in which to hold the sual elections-recommending one only. The delay of important business by the increasing number of frivolous cases now claiming the attenof the courts; and recommend four terms

Charleston, or an additional judge. A revision of the criminal laws, and an abridge ment of the right to traverse for misdemeanors. The law's delay, civil and criminal, is regarded a great grievance, and calls for prompt remedy. It is further suggested, that every district is entitled to the efficient administration of justice at the cost of the State, but that no such provision at present exists. A codification and arrangement of the statute laws of the State is urged; as, from the want of these, learning and experience are alike set at defiance, and no security is afforded to the interests or property of the citizen. In illustration of the ne cessity of this codification, the jury allege (what may be true for aught we know) that a large body of laws are of force whose enactment by the Parliament of England embraces a period of time beginning almost with the Norman Conquest, and reaching down to 1709, and of which even the judges on the bench are ignorant.

Contemplating the facility with which eriminals scape punishment under our present criminal sysof the Presidential candidates-Buck and Breek at tem, in consequence of the penalty being too severe, the erection of a penitentiary is pressed upon the Legislature, and the confident opinion avowed, from the experience of other States, that the system would work well.

A resolution was passed unanimously that it was the sense of the General Assembly that the Electors should cast their votes for Buchanan and Breckinridge-the Democratic nominees. Mr. Yeadon of Charleston, a strong Fillmore man throughout the campaign, moved in the House that the word "unanimously" be inserted in the resolution after the word resolved. His motion was adopted of course. A resolution also passed the House and was concurred in by the Senate, that in choos ing Licetors no reference was had to opinions of the nominees in regard to national nominating Conventions. Neither the Convention nor anti-Convention party can therefore claim a victory in the choice of Electors. En passant we may remark, that of the eight electors chosen two favored the convention system and went to Cincinnati, while six

In the Senate a resolution was offered by Mr Mazyek, and passed without opposition, calling on the President of the Blue Ridge Railroad Company in South Carolina for a statement of the stockhold ers in that company, the amount paid in by each and sundry other information in regard to it, and also with reference to the Tennessee River Railroad, and the Charleston & Tennessee Railroad. No further business of importance was transacted.

and on Tuesday afternoon both branches of the Legislature adjourned.

Since Tuesday night election returns from different States have been slowly coming in. Returns generally indicate the election of "Buck and Breck" by a respectable majority. On Saturday it was supposed that Buchanan had received 169 of California) were counted doubtful. Returns received since then make the vote of Tennessee (12 votes) and that of Indiana (13 votes) doubtful. Both has gone for Fillmore and the other for Fremont. Buchanan will have 141 votes only-lacking thre of an election. Returns are yet to be received from California, and her vote may settle the question-so far as a choice by the Electoral vote is concerned Maryland gave Mr. Fillmore over 7,000 majority. New York was carried by Fremont to the tune o 50,000 majority. The Herald and Tribune acknowledge Fremont's defeat, but console themselves with the philosophical reflection that all will not be well.
