

Contracts made on reasonable terms. The Starras circumtes largely over this and Rdjoining districts, and offers an admirable medium to our friends to reach customers. Job work of all kinds promptly executed. Blanks, Law and Equity, continually on hand or primed to order.

CAROLINA SPARTAN.

From Blackwood's Magazine. Recent Confession of an Opium-Eater.

There is no necessity for telling the readat how I came into the company with which he will find me associated in the ensuing narrative; and there are several reasons why he need not be informed on that point. In the first place, he has no right to inquire; for I hold, and always have held, and maintained, both in argument and practice, that a man is responsible only to himself for the company he chooses to keep. 2dly, Supposing he had the right to ask (which, as already stated, I deny.) still it would be inconvenient for me to tell him. 3dly, Supposing he had the right, and I were willing to acknowledge it, it would nevertheless be useless to the purpose of the story I am about to narrate, and therefore a crime against art. 4thly, Because any consistency and completeness which the narrative might gain by the relation of the circumstances antecedent to the position, at once intensely horrible and highly amusing, whither they conducted me, are sufficiently attained by the mention of the fact that, while enjoying with the full ap-preciation of a refined and extremely sensitive nature the appliances of luxury and wealth, I have never shrunk from studying the aspect of humanity in the Rembrandt like chiaroscura of vice and crime. In search of the harmonies which slumber in the soul of man, I have sounded the bass string of society. Leaving the splen-doars and decencies of the upper region of our social atmosphere, I have voluntarily descended into the depths filled with fortid and noxious exhalations, and I have ever returned to the light of common day with an intensified sense of the unfathomable mysteries and the unutterable melodies hidden in the profoundest abysses of our nature.

Some of my readers will probably remember that particular epoch in the history of crime when murder became the handmaid of medical and surgical science, whose requirements, at that time greatly extended by the ardor of discovery, were by no atisfied either by the legal offerings close buttoned black coat, rather exaggerated the unfavorable impression made by his thin angular form and cadaverous countenance, and seemed to show that he despised those little ameliorations in costume which are within reach of the humblest, ners towards me; but just then the woman jewelry of glass and copper, showed all the she used a tone and gesture which at once

swell

Their female companion-faded, though till young-possessed, nevertheless, a face whose expression frequently drew my gaze. This was owing not so much to her beauty, which could never have been of a striking character, as to the likeness she bore to a ly say I resumed my seat. young girl with whom I had some years before been curiously, intimately, and most romantically connected. Ab, Catharine! even now, when I summon from the dim past thy angel face, with the mild implorthat for me to thee there should be no return-even now, as those eves so beseechingly beam on me through the distance of f any way very superior to the scene and the society in which the reader finds her.

It must not be imagined that we had no other occupation in this dreary and ill-with a hearty cordiality which his appear- while she, like the base Judgean, throwing taking up the candle, opened the door of ance did not certainly promise, but the mo- this pearl away richer than all her tribe, an inner apartment, and entered, followed ceptions, melodious utterances, imperisha- shortly return and resume its earthly habitive of which I afterwards divined. He bestowed in secret her love upon one con- by Bill with uncertain steps. tive of which I alterwards divined. He bestowed in secret her love upon one control by this understand divined. He bestowed in secret her love upon one control by this understand divined. He bestowed in secret her love upon one control by this understand divined. He bestowed in secret her love upon one control by this understand divined. He bestowed in secret her love upon one control by this understand divined. He bestowed in secret her love upon one control by this understand divined. He bestowed in secret her love upon one control by this understand divined. He bestowed in secret her love upon one control by this understand divined. He bestowed in secret her love upon one control by this understand divined. He bestowed in secret her love upon one control by this understand divined. He bestowed in secret her love upon one control by this understand divined. He bestowed in secret her love upon one control by this understand divined. He bestowed in secret her love upon one control by this understand divined. He bestowed in secret her love upon one control by the upon on incapable of being repressed or chilled. Meanwhile the conversation did not flag. Squabby, finding in me an interested and attentive auditor, talked much and lon liv. but with a certain coarseness which would have disgusted me had not his loquacity perpetually started subjects which the saga ious William treated with a masterly terseness, such as I have seldom heard equalled. But the great charm of his conversation was its mystery. The numerous escapes, of rapid flights, there were sufficient to set up a modern novellist for several seasons-but the spring and motive of all these were wanting. Why these expeditions were blind drunk); and my intellect regaining its proach on my breach of good-fellowship, reusual vigorous clearness, I at once perceiv ed that Bill, with what design I knew not fused to let me pass. All this, however, would have had small effect in inducing me intended to "hocuss" me. The absurdity to remain after the change in Bill's man- of an attempt to render me insensible with laudanum presented itself so vididly to my Squabby's gaudy waistcoat, and gorgeous also joined her entreaties to his. In so duing mind, that I had much difficulty in preventing myself from exploding in langhter inclination, without the power to be what arrested me. They were such as recalled However, I managed to preserve my graviin clination, without the power to be what arrested me. They were such as recarded from the formation in these latter days is denominated 'a vividly the tone and gesture which a young ty, and entering into the humor of the swell." The word dandy, which, at the girl had unconsciously assumed some years thing, at once resolved to drink against my time I speak of, was the generic term for before when I was parting from her in an- entertainer-Laudanum versus Port-and all who cultivated ostentatiously, with gor. Ah, Emily! potent indeed was the thus astonish his debile faculties, as Jack whatever degree of success, the art of cos-tume, fails to convey the idea of exuberance and recusant spirit. Hard indeed would pudding, only that, instead of merely preand floridity expressed in the newer appel-lation. Squabby, therefore, was a vulgar repel that offered embrace. Years had my share, as Jack did, I would drink glass passed, Emily, since I had seen thee-many for glass. What a triumph of opium eat- evening. Methought that I actually bein between-but the voice and look of a in envious bitterness of spirit, when he stranger recalling thine, showed that even learned that I had achieved a feat which the faint and distant echo of thy powerful he well knew he never could hope to sur-spell could still enchain me. I need scarce pass! Now then for it! Bill drinks, and offers Long-nosed Bill now became more to fill my glass. I fill it myself, quaff it off, trances.) was compelled to follow and observe agreeable and hospitable even than at first, and continue to converse cheerfully. Bill After floating apparently for centuries relating passages in his career still more drinks again-I imitate him-Bill stares through immeasurable regions of space, the marvellous, and passing the wine with in- and looks astounded, but nevertheless con- bier was laid in a vast hall surrounded by creased rapidity, insisting at each round of tinues to drink; so do I. We each stick skeletons, who shouted from their fleshless ing look I last beheld there—imploring a speedy return, where fate was even then writing, with iron pen, the stern decree doing so. For a time this amused me; and and is no longer master of his utterance—I I was also interested in watching a little become calmer and calmer, and flow on in ter!"-like the people answering the priests by play carried on by Bill's companions. a rapt strain of eloquence, which immeasu- in the service of a cathedral. Then flocked The woman was no doubt united to him in rably delights myself. Presently, however, in, in endless procession, all the mighty many instres, my heart owns that there are sympathies over which time has no control. the watchful prudence which his counte-Bill's aspect; he has fixed on me a gaze of ever saw, headed by the divine Esculapius in That likeness, faint as it was, perhaps alto gether fanciful, awoke feelings which as his guard to prevent the slightest familiari- woman in a thick husky whisper, that "he crowned by a chaplet. Galen followed, and they arose, brought with them a crowd of ty between her and Squabby. Nothwith- ain't a goin' to stand this much longer." In Hippocrates-aid Celsus and the wizard memories—and hence the charm which a standing all his vigilance, I observed, how-face, to others, perhaps, commonplace, had ever, that, whenever his attention was dis-was in. I was in the presence of an exas-and Harvey and Horter, with all their confor me, though there was nothing in the tracted by the friendly office of filling my perated ruffian, who saw in me one who temporaries, till Astley Cooper headed th manner, appearance, or conversation of this glass, or whenever he grew so interested in put him to considerable expense in wine (to College of Surgeons of our day. Then the young woman which distinguished her as any of his narratives as to relax his watch- say nothing of the laudanum.) and who not doors were closed with a mighty soundfulness for a moment, the woman, stealthily only obstinately refused to part with his silence was proclaimed by a herald-and passing her hand behind him, clasped that faculties, but was rapidly reducing his host the whole procession, filing past the bier, of Squabby extended to meet it. To a phi- to a state of intoxication. Affairs became bowed to it as an army to its warrior chief. losopher and student of human nature this presently more serious, when Squabby, ut Again the herald proclaimed silence, and lighted apartment than that of looking at slight incident was amply sufficient to re- terly unable to sit upright any longer, sud each other. Another bottle, besides that which officiated as candlestick, stood on the table; or I should rather say, paced round Bill an instance of the insufficiency of the ball an instance of it, for it seldom halted much longer than most astute and powerful intellect to res-was necessary for the filling of the cracked train the erratic propensities of the female ward with my head on the table, affected glass which stood before each of us. Our heart. Here was this great man, who had to snore heavily. I heard Bill remark that liquor was port, a choice made at my sug- lavished perchance his whole heart, staked "'twas all right at last, but he believed that gestion, and Long nosed Bill had coincided his whole faith, on the woman beside him, 'ere cove was the devil;" when the woman, their crests and _rackling joyously, till the while I watched them with calm certainty. Well did I know the train of symptoms by walls crumble and sink, burying in their which they who dare to trespass, without ruins the ashes of the Body snatchers.

due initiation and neophytism, on the imperial domains of opium, approach insensi-Death of the High Priest of Japan. bility. Gradually their muscles relaxed -The Dairi, or High Priest of Japan, intheir heads sank-their inspirations lengthhabits a splendid palace in the city of Mia-ko, on the I-land of Nipon. His court is ened and deepened-till they sank side by sid on the floor, not in the divine dream of composed of 20,000 priests, who are in-trusted with the charge of the 4,000 temthe qualified practitioner, but in the dull stagnation of the presumptuous quack. Having now the field to myself, and my mind being relieved from the sudden strain. red dress; a white transparent veil, orna-I allowed inyself to lapse into one of those mented with golden fringe, is worn upon peculiar and refreshing trances which opi his head; falling about half way down the im commands. The vision I beheld was body. His countenance remains always inno doubt suggested by the events of the visible feelings and many memories had crowded ing! How would the great Coleridge scowl held by body laid upon the hatefal bed On the 1st of July, 1856, the Dairi was taken ill. Immediately the chief priest, which, uplifted by countless myriads of with his ghostly colleagues, 200 priests of Squabbies and Longnosed Bills, was borne the first rank, who are endowed with the through the air, while I, seeming to have a religious power of the empire, were sumseparate existence from the body. (a species moned to the palace. By the next day the of duality I have often observed in these invalid's situation became more critical, and on the 3d his death was pronounced to be inevitable and close at hand. The priests repaired at once to the temple, and informd the populace that the Dairi had entered into a compact with the Seven Gods of Heaven, and was upon the eve of rejuvenating his mind in the embrace of Ted-syo dai sin, the principal of these deities, who the Japanese believe to have created the world. She has been at the head of af fairs for about 25,000 years, and from her spring all the royal families of Japan. To her the inhabitants of the entire empire address their invocations as the protectress of the hand. priests declared that the inhabitants could mmediately enter the palace and regale their eyes with the sight of their highly. venerated High Priest. At once the crowd streamed to the palace, where they beheld Dairi lying stretched upon a bed of state. He was dressed in a white tunic, and his features, covered with a very thin mask, were dimly perceptible through a veil spread over them. The priests prayed loud the venerable Esculapius, standing forth be-Then the shadow of the great father of Iy he breathed his last. As the last breath physic, approaching with reverence the bier, passed through his lips, the chief priest, aid open the temple of the brain, when lo! raising his arms as a token of the departthere straightway issued forth such a swarm ing life, assured the bystanders that the of ideas that the vast hall could not contain soul of the High Priest had ascended to ble images, unutterable thoughts, and tation. Upon this announcement a sol-

Mr. John S. Dye, of New York, has come before the public with a new plan for detect-ing counterfeit, spurious and altered notes. He presents it in Dye's Wall street Broker, and he pledges himself to take every counterfeit, new or old, at its full value, that is not thoroughly described in his publication so nearly as to be detected; and it is to make no difference whether the bill is now in existence or should come into existence months or a year hence. The plan of de-tection is set forth in English, German and French. The character of all genuine and spurious bills is minutely described. Seven rules for detection are given, as follows:

First. Examine the form and features of all human figures on the note. If the forms are graceful and features distinct. examine the drapery-see if the folds lay natural; and the hair of the head should be ples of this immense city. His costume is obseria long tunic, over which he wears a large seen. observed, and see if the fine strands can be

Second. Examine the lettering, the title of the bank, or the round handwriting on the face of the note. On the genuine bills the work is done with great skill and perfectness, and there has never been a counterfeit but was defective in the lettering. Third. The imprint or engraver's names. By observing the great perfection of the never get the imprint perfect. This rule alone, if strictly observed, will detect every counterfeit note in existence.

Fourth. The shading in the back ground of the vignette, or over or around the letters forming the name of the bank, on a good bill, is even and perfect; on a counterfeit itregular and imperfect. Fifth. Examine well the figures on other parts of the note containing the denomination, also letters. Examine well the die workaround the figures which stand for the denomination, to see if it is of the same character as that which forms the ornamental work surrounding it.

Sixth. Never take a bill that is deficient in any of the above points, and if your impression is bad when you first see it, you had better be careful how you become convinced, to change your mind-whether your opinion is not altered as you become confused in looking into the texture of the workmanship of the bill.

Seventh. Examine the name of the State, name of the bank, and name of the town where the bank is located. If it has been altered from a broken bank, the defects can be seen, as the alternation will show that it , and wafted the sweet perfumes from has been stamped on.

> THE NEW USE OF COTTON SEED .- IN R recent number of the New Orleans Creole, we find a very interesting description of an establishment in that city for the manufacture of oil from cotton seed. After describing the process, the Creole says:

Cotton seed has heretofore been regarded as useful only for the purpose of manure. It has added nothing to the value of South-of the bodies of criminals, or the more adventurous, though less legitimate, contributions of surreptitious exhumation. The impulse communicated to that branch of study which deals with the mysteries of our physical nature, by the great anatomists and physicians who stand in conspicuous array on the line which separates dusky empiricism from luminous science, had awakened cravings in the minds of our students which could no longer be stilled by such eleemosy nary and desultory aid. To satisfy these cravings, a race of miscreants arose, whose peculiar province in the field of assassingtion may be denominated enlightened Thuggism. But their atrocities, though serving a more practical purpose than those of the Thug, had their origin in a far les elevated motive. There is toa much reason to believe that a mercenary desire to obtain the price of the body predominated, in most instances, over the wish to advance the interests of science; while even the better of these influences is still far inferior to the religious tervor which prompted the tightening of the Oriental noose. Be that as it may, it was at a time when the horrible trade had gained the utmost extent and organization it was destined to attain, before the outburst of popular execration which extinto draw the reader's attention.

The scene, then, is a squalid and dingy chamber in the topmost flat of one of the many-storied and ancient dwellings which still give individuality to the Old Town of it the interest which awakened and haffled stained with grease and liquor, having a bench of similar character on each side. In a bottle on the table was stuck a long candle of the commonest description, whose granted me the same attention which I in flaring and drooping wick shed a dull light sons as I am about to describe, is, as I have already intimated, no business of the reador's Suffice it that I was there, the occupant of one of the benches, while opposite me sat three individuals, two men and a woman. Long nosed Bill, the central person of the three, possessed a remarkably villainous physiognomy, which, the index as it was to mental features equally singular and truculent, rendered him a highly interesting subject of philosophical contempla-His nose was, as his name indicated, tion. very long, and overhung so as almost to conceal a month so small, thin, and compressed, as to appear to have been made with a knife after the rest of his countenance was designed; while on each side of the main feature, sparkled an eye, deep set, small, gray, and inexorable. His head, phrenologically speaking, was not bad, being of sufficient height, though the forehead was concealed by straight black locks; tha countenance, widest at the forehead and narrowing almost to a point at the chin, was of a pale clay-color; and the sole exlinks of his narrative. Equally mysterious, though more boisterous, was the conduct of Squabby, who frequently made jestrevealment of its iniquities had caused that ing allustons to their peculiar vocation, which, though to me utterly devoid of > veiling the subject of their conversation, without concealing its main outlines, lent to to do full justice to its sonorous flow, and restraining also the manifest inclination of rather less revolting. Miserable mistake: intense interest. The room they entered ed the unending stream, like the mighty surrounded by a crowd of his religious Squabby for the generous liquor, he press- accursed error! yet one to which the femi- was small, and its only furniture were a bed and fertilizing Nile from its fountain source. companions, threw over the still warm ed it on me with a hospitality that seemed nine nature is peculiarly liable. The re- and a sack. The bed was peculiar, consist Upward still they pressed, till their accomu- corpse of the Dairi a large white cloth, my heart. For thee, Augustal for thee my nights were nights of sleeplessness—my days, days of reverie; to thee I gave the thoughts of my philosophic soul. And thoughts of my philosophie soul. And how didst thou, require me? With un doubting faith and untiring constancy?—No! On the night of that ever memorable ball end was placed between two mattresses, and the number of the number o -a ball which still haunts my remem- smothered so as to produce the appearance low in the socket, or rather the bottle. My By a well concerted stratagem, the priests purpose for which olive, lard, or sperm oil brance as if peopled with spectres and de of natural death, and his body sold to the companions were still prostrate, and showed had abstracted the body of the Dairi, supadventures in which he appeared to have been engaged had neither beginning nor eye that gaudy figure, rich indeed in -it must be so! I was in the company of torous breathing. They might, however, his father's station. The state bed being scarlet and embroidery and clauking spurs, body snatchers, and was about to be nuak shortly recover, and I therefore resolved to hung around with drapery, rendered it all but poor, beyond all measure of poverty, in ED!!!

was forgotten, and since then a permanent me from seeing the case in all its philosoph- took up the candle and proceeded down ried in the night time to the Yeie temple state. At this period I had resolved gradu to believe that my organs and functions had which I found full of lumber and straw. As law is punished by burning to death. slly to wean myself from my opium, and, become so vitiated by the use of opium, as I turned to leave it, the candle fell from the The Ycie temple, the handsomest one in after terrible struggles and enormous suffer to insure, to him who should lay bare, with bottle among the straw, which was instant the city, contains several rows of earthen guished it utterly, instantaneously, and for ever, as with the blast of a hurricane, that the physiognomy of his friend druggist with whom I generally dealt, had is for the following reason: the stavel to attempt to extinguish the flames. while the woman responded with a low and sent me a batch of 144 dozen, in which my dissolved in a few years, and perhaps under I might fail to escape, for the fire spread musical laugh generally smothered in the experienced palate at once detected adulte- far less important conditions, (for I might rapidly. Has ily quitting the scene, I ran not permitted to enter the portion of the the corner of her shawl. This mystery ration. I had therefore returned it, retain- leave off opium, and, thus restoring my down to the level of the street, and slipt siing only a bottle for the day's consumption. body to a healthy condition, render it com-with this bottle in my hand I had gone paratively valueless,) when I might, by sub-As the wind, rising by degrees, first down to the kitchen to speak to my cook mitting to the fate designed for me, remain sports with the dead leaves, then rattles as Edinburgh. The sole furniture of the apart- curiosity has always excited in my mind maid, when a family of beggars made their for ages, in spirits of wine, a monument of the casements. Dil tile and roof tree go as the people suppose, has had his soul reappearance at the door, consisting of a opium-cating? This was one view of the down before the hurricane, so arose th ever, merely that of a listener or a guesser, I hesitated not to exchange sentiments and I hesitated not to ex experiences with these humble friends, who charity went to my heart. Ye gods! said inevitably acquires, I perceived an objection. who lived on the basements and ground I, here are people hungry, cold, miserable, I remembered that my body would proba floors next issued forth, and the chorus my turn gave to them; and I remember re- craving a morsel of food, while I hold in my bly-nay certainly, be sold to some surgeon surgeon surgeon surged and swelled into a mighty dispasor. themselves to the earth, and addressed on the faces of the company. How I came garding it as a striking proof that no elo hand this bottle, the key of the seventh habits, and who would therefore be wholly engines on their errand of salvation; beside tion of the rudest minds, when on one oc-casion, I having delivered a magnificent quotation in a manner (as I flatter myself) to do full justice to its supercent in the manner (as I flatter myself) them a glass of laudanum, which they them, being thus based on mere supposi see, the flames leap forth at every window! A Young Lany SLANDERED, -At the having told them the words were those of drank in solemn silence and went away. tion, might probably perplex science instead Higher they climb, story after story, with recent Court of Common Pleas for Green- mines of wealth than the most productive the great Burke, they heard his name with startled interest, and were silent for some moments after. However, I now conjecture ad about that time, I conclude they were there might be other reasons for the agita-tion caused by that glorious name. all confirmed opium eaters. However, this liberality on my part reduced my dose for All this time I have left Bill and the wo-tion caused by that glorious name. All confirmed opium eaters. However, this liberality on my part reduced my dose for All this time I have left Bill and the wo-I had drank probably about two bottles that day to about a pint, and I was now man standing by the fatal bed, where Death terial natures trying to smother the light of a Greenville jury awarded her the sum of of wine to my own share, Squabby nearly beginning to feel the effects of this unusual so often took his repose, with the ropes in genius, raise for a moment a dast, which four thousand dollars. We hope this veras much, and the abstemious Bill perhaps abstinence; the chief of which effects was their hands. Fastening them so as to allow vanishes, leaving the flames brighter than dict will show the world the estimate put about a bottle, when I thought I perceived of course depression of spirits-gradually the upper mattress to remain uplifted, they before. Still upward! till now they have on character by a G cenville jury. The dea diminution in the cordiality of this latter entertainer. I am naturally extremely sen-sitive in such matters—indeed so morbidly alive to the faintest indications of failing hereitality are to the faintest indications of failing hospitality, as sometimes to conceive suspi-cions regarding the sincerity of my wel-come, which I am subsequently satisfied are groundless. However, in the present instance, there could be no doubt that with a bottle, which Bill uncorked, and fill them, have probably never been equalled show that the floor is in a blaze! And now priated to various patriotic and charitable Long nosed Bill not only ceased to talk ing my glass from it, pressed me to drink, except in that remarkable passage of the they rush to the window. Even at this dis- purposes, without offending the delicacy of Vigt Ni! Der Schwartzenhoveri Ni! himself, but listened to me with manifest, Half-absently I complied; but the moment literature of my childhood, when Mother tance I recognise Bill by the length of his any one. The slanderer must be panpression was one of truculent vigilance and 'impatience, and sometimes exchanged glan- I put my lips to it I started with joy. Could Hubbard, having gone to the undertaker's nose: he tears the woman from the window ished. - Greenwille Patriot.

membrance of such an error, of which I was myself the victim, is still as a dagger to clothes, and a complication of ropes, pulleys, gave way with a crashing sound, (it was place just before occupied by the body there but poor, beyond all measure of poverty, in that philosophic refinement which consti-tutes true wealth. From that moment I tutes true wealth. From that moment I passed through my heart did not prevent laudanum which remained in the bottle, I habitants. The corpse of the Dairi was car-

At the conclusion of the first prayers, the their censers around the dving man. At 9 o'clock in the morning of the 5th of Ju-temple where these figures stand. On the production, day after the death occurred, ceremonies of a very different character take place-the prayers to him as a god. Upon this day ern production; but it is now shown to be little inferior in intrinsic value to the silky fibre in which it is enclosed.

The establishment to which we allude produces five hundred barrels of oil per day, from the day cotton seed. A novel and beautiful piece of machinery hulls it with the utmost precision and the greatest rapidity, leaving the oily meat free from every oreign substance. Exposed to a considerable heat, and subjected to pressure, oil is produced, which, by a new chemical process of clarification, becomes fit for every is adapted.

To day, it is used on the tables of many of our citizen as olive oil. It burns in the solar and astral lamps in our parlors. It is used on machinery as a lubricator, and answers every other purpose for which fine native or foreign oil is needed. where wanting. Why these expeditions were planned, what pursuers he had escaped from, and why flight was necessary, were ques-tions which I had to call in my imagina-tion and invention to respond to, and thus the accumulation of the waste has been shipped to the North to be worked up into bookbinders' boards, for which purpose this sale in many establishments of this city. The sale is quite equal to the possibility of

The effect of this favorable experiment. with cotton seed upon our domestic econopalace and paraded the different portions ered, must have proved a serious unconvemence. Let, however, the cotton seed, which now rots in millions of tons on our plantations, be pressed into oil, and the perior to and cheaper than any other now used. The cotton fields will prove richer toilet, can again be furnished for five or ten

A Dutch paper in the interior of Pennsylvania expresses its opinion of President Buchanan's inaugural in the following luglassen bier mit pretzell Soonlite! Yah!"